MORE BATTLESHIPS NEEDED TO DEFEND MONROE DOCTRINE

Congress Is Aroused by Menacing Attitude of the Allies.

BUILDING PROGRAM WILL BE ADOPTED

MUST BE READY TO FIGHT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Room 10, Postal Building. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.

Events of the past few weeks have made a remarkable change in the sentiment respecting an increase in the navy. At the beginning of the session it was generally believed that congress would not approve of any material increase in the number of fighting ships, but the attitude of Germany in the Venezuelan negotiations and the possibility of this country becoming involved by necessity for upholding the Monroe doctrine, has caused a decided change of feeling and there is little doubt that the program reported by the house committee on naval affairs will get through both branches.

This report will authorize the construction of three battleships and one armored cruiser, and it will also provide for increasing the number of officers by permitting each senator and representative to appoint a cadet to Annapolis ever two years, instead of every four years, as heretofore. This will result in doubling the number of graduates from the naval academy.

The resolution introduced by Representative Dayton of West Virginia, the ranking member of the naval affairs committee, looking to a definite building program for the navy, is welcomed by the officials of the navy department. It calls for recommendations by which a plan can be formulated that will give to the navy a net increase of four battleships each year. If the resolution passes an attempt will be made in the next congress to decide upon a plan by which a stated annual increase will be made in the navy. In discussing the matter Mr. Dayton said to The Gazette correspondent today:

How We Stand at Sea.

"Germany has 38 battleships built and building, and England has over 60, while the United States has but 29. Germany has a distinct naval program and England has for years been following out a logical program of building. The United States has not. It has been our policy to build some years and in others to omit it. The number of vessels to be built has been problematical and has been subject to the will of congress.

"The two branches of the navy, the material and personnel, have not been developed logically and side by side. After the civil war, for a long period we built no ships. The ones we had were put out of commission, sold or became antiquated and disabled. But we went straight ahead graduating cadets into officers at the naval academy until we had more officers than we had ships to accommodate them. As a result, a number of midshipmen graduated were honorably discharged from the service, and we passed a law requiring a six-year instead of a four-year course, two of them to be spent at sea, before a midshipman could become an ensign.

"Then we took the other course. We began building ships 10 or 12 years ago. Some people insisted at the time that when ships were authorized we should provide for officers to man them. But the old prejudice against too many officers continued, and as a result we have been building ships all these 10 years and have made no provision to man them. We have not half enough officers now. This year we hope to incorporate in the naval appropriation bill a provision to partially remedy this defect. This plan is to allow each senator and representative to appoint a cadet to Annapolis every two years, instead of every four years, thus doubling the number of cadets.

Systematic Increase Needed.

"These two distinctly opposite experiences, to my mind, accentuate the necessity for a systematic plan for an increase of the material and personnel, side by side. There is also involved the question of an increase in the types of vessels in proportion, so as to make the best fighting fleet. For instance, the fleet cannot be all battleships. There must be cruisers, dispatch boats, colliers and other auxiliary craft, and it is well for us in our construction to have a plan so these vessels may be built in such proportions as to make the best fleet combination.

"All these questions have been fully and thoroughly considered by two naval organizations, the general board, over which Admiral Dewey presides, and the naval war college, of which Capt. Chadwick is the present head. The purpose of my resolution is to gather together, for the information of congress and the people at large, the reasonings and results of these trained officers who have considered the subject so fully, and also the opinions and information that will be furnished by the secretary of war and his bureau chiefs, with a view to forming a definite, logical and businesslike plan for the future development of the navy.

Must Defend Ourselves.

"As I view it, every thoughtful man must realize that this country's defense in the future must be the navy. Eighty millions of Yankees, with glories of the revolutionary and the civil wars, can call from the ranks a citizen soldiery on short order that will make a serious invasion of our country by any foreign nation an impossibility. But so long as we have foreign islands to defend, a Monroe doctrine to uphold, a commerce to sustain, and an isthmian canal to open and maintain, we must keep up a navy that will command respect on the seas.

"In my judgment, England will never combine against us; the tie of blood and interest is too strong. On the other hand, in any ordinary controversy we might have, England could be readily induced to become our ally. I do not believe this is true, however, on the single question of the defense of the Monroe doctrine. Touching that we must stand alone. All English traditions and instincts are naturally against this doctrine, and while she might remain neutral, when the test came the sentiment of her people would be against us in our efforts to maintain it. Our only chance for friendship in such a contest would be with Russia, our old friend on all questions, and this would be entirely problematical."

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—H. C. Swentzel and Will Leonard, sergeants in Troop L of the Second United States cavalry, stationed at Fort Sheridan, who are under arrest at the fort charged with stealing revolvers from the army post, will be tried by general court martial tomorrow. Swentzel says he is a son of Bishop H. C. Swentzel, head of the Episcopal diocese of Long Island. Leonard claims to be the son of Judge William Leonard of the state supreme court of New York. This claim of relationship made by the accused is discredited by the military authorities, who, however, believe the prisoners are members of prominent families in the east. It is said that Bishop Swentzel of Brooklyn is in Chicago in the interest of his accused son and that Judge Leonard will arrive here tomorrow.

TWO NEWSBOYS FATALLY SCALDED

A SENSE OF HONOR

Four little newsboys were scalded with hot water so badly at 12:45 this morning that two are likely to die. They were sleeping in the Book alley area-way of the Second National bank building, Fifth avenue and Wood street. The only boy who was able to talk said he knew who did it, but he absolutely refused to tell his name. The culprit, he acknowledged, is a newsboy. The victims are:

FRED WEISS, aged 14, No. 67 Fountain street, Allegheny; may die.

FRED RECK, aged 12, No. 826 Howard street, Allegheny; may die.

HARRY HESS, aged 12, No. 801 Ohio street; will recover.

PETER REVILLE, aged 14, No. 1011 Turner alley, Allegheny; will recover.

In the rear of the Second National bank building is an area-way about four feet deep, covered with iron gratings. It is the habit of newsboys and messengers to go in there at night to sleep, the place being warmed by the smokestack of the building that passes up through. These boys were sleeping this morning, when they were suddenly awakened by two buckets of scalding water pouring over them. They let out frightful cries, which soon brought aid, and Policeman Margon Connelly carried them into the Western Union building, and called the Homeopathic hospital ambulance.

The boys were taken to the hospital, suffering intense agony, their cries being plainly heard by belated citizens on the street at that time.

The water used was secured at the Second National bank building boiler room. The spigot is outside of the range of vision of the engineer, and he did not see who it was got the hot water.

John Wigman, the engineer, said the water is generally kept at 150 degrees Fahrenheit. Dennis O'Heron, watchman of the bank building, did not know of the occurrence until several minutes after it had taken place, as he was in the upper part of the structure at the time.

Harry Hess, who was not badly hurt, refused to tell the name of the person who threw the boiling water on him and his three companions. It was evident that the boy knew the culprit's name, but is supposed to have refrained telling it through a sense of honor.

When asked if he knew who had done it, Harry said he did, but after repeated questioning the boy resolutely refused to tell. He said that the water was thrown by a boy who was accustomed to loafing about the place, but he would tell nothing more.

The wounds of the boys were dressed at the Homeopathic hospital by Dr. Edward Leslie. Two of them, White and Reck, are in a serious condition, and there is a possibility that they may not recover. Hess and Reville were scalded about the knees and not badly hurt. Weiss and Beck are covered with frightful burns. Their faces are almost unrecognizable. While they were being swathed in bandages they shrieked with pain.

TROOPS CALLED TO QUELL RIOTS

Trolley Strike at Waterbury Causes Action by Connecticut Governor.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 1.—Hissed and hooted by a crowd of 5,000 persons, 500 troops of the Connecticut state militia marched up the principal street of Waterbury to the Second regiment armory. They were called here to suppress the disorder that has grown out of the street railroad strike. It was the first time that armed troops ever paraded the streets of this town. The troops were called for by Sheriff Dunham, acting over the head of Mayor Kilduff who had virtually declined to act, though admitting his inability to deal with the situation.

During the day all the lines were operated as usual with the non-union men, but though there was some hooting and jeering from the crowds, the cars were not molested. No cars were run after dark.

Companies G and A of this city, a part of the second regiment of the guard, were called to their armory shortly before 6 o'clock and remained there under orders.

Gov. Chamberlain when asked why the militia had been ordered out said:

"Because the situation demands it. I had hesitated about it, but every effort has been made by the local authorities in Waterbury to avert violence and today it seemed apparent that wisdom dictated prompt and energetic action, if law and order and the welfare of the city and state were to be conserved."

Violence continued today, though no serious damage was done. One of the injured non-union motormen who is in a serious condition was ordered to be removed to the hospital. Three non-union men were on their way to the hospital after a stretcher, when a mob of several hundred men and boys assailed them with rocks. The men ran and found refuge in the hospital. The mob surrounded the building and became so threatening that the superintendent telephoned to the police for protection.

This evening a squad of officers escorted the men to the car barn.

About 20 non-union men have been injured in the riots.

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Fearing for the life of Miss May Hosmer, the leading woman of the stock company of the Peoples theater, Manager Quentmeyer has half a score of private detectives and uniformed policemen on duty in the audience, at the stage door and behind the scenes to watch for a desperate and infatuated admirer of the actress, who has threatened, in case she rejects his suit, to jump on the stage from one of the private boxes and stab her to death, killing himself afterwards. Miss Hosmer is in daily receipt of letters from her unknown admirer, in which he mingles terms of lavish endearment and blood-curdling threats. The actress laughs at the fears of the management, but every precaution is being taken to guard against any attempt on her life.

PITTSBURGH TOW MEETS MISHAP AT NEW ORLEANS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Feb. 1.—Ten thousand barrels of bunker coal went to the bottom of the Mississippi river this morning in a collision at Port Chalmette between the tug Elmer E. Wood and the Pittsburgh tow.

The coal had been barged down the river to be loaded on the Spanish steamer Diana, ready for sea. It was owned by the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company of Pittsburgh and was being handled by W. H. Brown, local agent. The loss will be over $4,000. In less than two minutes after the tug plowed her way into the barge the whole thing went down before the heavy current.

The disaster is especially deplored here because of the scarcity of fuel in port.

Lucania Has Rough Voyage.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The Cunard liner Lucania, which arrived at Liverpool today, reports having encountered high seas and terrific weather on the Atlantic.

SULTAN'S FORCES WIN HARD BATTLE

NO LONGER A SAINT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Tangier, Feb. 1.—The sultan's troops have utterly routed the forces of the Moorish pretender and captured Buhamara himself.

A special courier, who arrived today after making a record journey from Fez, brought this news. He reports that at daybreak last Thursday the army of the sultan, commanded by the war minister, El Menebhi, attacked the pretender's position and inflicted a complete defeat on his following, at the same time capturing Buhamara.

Another runner who has reached here from Fez confirms the news of the defeat of the rebels, but says that the report of the capture of the pretender is incorrect. He adds that it is uncertain whether Buhamara's body was among the great number slain. The sultan's victory was absolute, almost the entire following of the pretender being either slain or captured. His camp, provisions and ammunition were taken, and the artillery which was lost by the sultan's army in the battle of December 23 was recaptured. Even if Buhamara escaped, it is hopeless for him to seek to retrieve his defeat, as his claim that he is a saint is exploded. The details regarding the battle are meagre, but it is known that the pretender's camp was surprised and rushed at dawn.

There are great rejoicings here at the sultan's victory.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—A dispatch from Tangier to the Morning Leader mentions a circumstantial report current in that city that Buhamara was brought to Fez in a cage and exposed to public derision. The dispatch adds that it is impossible to ascertain the truth, and attributes the sultan's victory more to his bribery of the tribes than to military tactics. The bribed rebels suddenly abandoned the pretender's standard.

HENRY PHIPPS GIVES $10,000 TO VICEROY.

CALCUTTA, Feb. 1.—Henry Phipps, director of the Carnegie Steel Company, who is traveling in India, has handed to Lord Curzon $10,000 to be devoted to some practical object or in scientific research that promises to be of enduring benefit to India.

REV. DR. JOHN C. BROOMFIELD TELLS WHO SHOULD BE RECORDER

Should Be One Whose Home Life Is Worthy of Imitation.

MORALITY IS GREAT FACTOR IN CONTEST

Party That Permits Its Orators to Say That It Is Not Should Be Buried.

THE DUTY OF THE VOTER

"Religion is for election day as well as for Sundays," declared the Rev. Dr. John C. Broomfield, pastor of the Fourth Methodist Protestant church, Park avenue, in his sermon yesterday morning.

Dr. Broomfield took the recordership campaign for his theme, using the opportunity to contradict published statements as to his position in the present contest. He said:

My position in the present campaign for city recorder having been anticipated by one organ and inferentially misrepresented by another, places me under obligation to define where I stand.

Politically I stand on Philippians, 1:27: "Live your citizen life in a way worthy of the gospel of Jesus Christ."

I believe in having two brands of politics; one for national affairs and one for municipal affairs. The character of the man in local politics ought to be our first consideration. There is doubt in many minds concerning the wisdom of mixing religion and politics; but I believe that it is an unscriptural religion and immoral politics that would put asunder what God hath so apparently joined together.

Why Ministers Are Interested.

The first name that this land bore on an old map was La Santa Crucis—the Holy Land of the Cross, and the opening statement of the agreement, drawn up in the cabin of the Mayflower by the founders of this republic, is: "In the name of God. Amen."

Bancroft says "that compact on board the Mayflower was the birth of constitutional liberty," but it was as truly religious as it was political.

The romantic discovery and speedy development of our country, along with our recent territorial expansion, convinces the student that God is working out His plans through us. This being true, why should it be thought strange that ministers interest themselves in politics? Religion is for election day as well as for Sunday, and as well for the ballot box as for the communion table. A man's religion is everything with him everywhere, or it is nothing with him anywhere. A bad citizen of earth can never be a good citizen of heaven.

The church, the clergy, the individual Christian, have failed of the full measure of their usefulness until politics—the human form encasing the divine principle we call government—have been molded by religion—a religion that demands honesty, and competence, and fidelity in public office.

The determining forces in this municipal election come from the private citizens and not from those in official positions. The ammunition they need is information. Wake up, voters, and get facts.

Fact No. 1—The "ripper" bill makes the recorder bigger than the party that elects him, and places the responsibility for good government entirely upon his shoulders. How important it is, therefore, that our next recorder shall be a man of sterling character, one who is willing to allow "his past record to be an earnest of his future," one who has moral courage enough to exercise every power conferred upon him by the charter of the city and law of the state.

Fact No. 2—When the strongest men of the churches of our city vouch for the integrity of one candidate, and no such indorsement is given to his opponent, what then can those, anxious to do right, but lacking personal acquaintance with the candidates, do but accept the testimony of such men as Rev. R. S. Holmes, D. D., and act accordingly?

Fact No. 3—When the official organ of any party—such as the Post is of the Democratic—parades the weakness of the personality of the nominee of its party, how great must that weakness be! What a spectacle such a man would be at the head of our city government.

Fact No. 4—A party that would permit any one of its public speakers to say that "morals do not enter into this election," and by this would relegate morality to the background, without entering official protest, ought to be buried, and that face downward, so that if it ever came to life again, and endeavored to dig its way out, would simply make its burial more secure. Morality alone assures permanency.

Fact No. 5—Pittsburgh needs a man whose training in matters of law makes him independent of the advice of any subordinate, so far as understanding his own position and power is concerned.

Give us for recorder a man who spends his Sabbath in the house of God, whose breath is not tainted with the stench of intoxicating liquors, whose past is sufficient guarantee for the future, whose attitude toward Jesus Christ and His church is that of co-operation, and whose home life affords a pattern worthy of imitation.

EXTRA LEVY FOR THE BOULEVARD

E. M. Bigelow's Mistakes Are Proving Costly to the City.

INCREASE THE TAXES

The taxpayers of the city will probably be assessed an extra 2½ mills this year to pay for the mistakes and extravagance of E. M. Bigelow in the construction of the Grant boulevard. At the meeting of the sub-committee on finance recently an appropriation of $762,088 was asked to meet damages for claims in court resulting from this improvement.

The sub-committee omitted the item from the annual appropriations, leaving it to be provided for in the March bond issue or in some other way. A large part of these damages is claimed by the firm of Werneberg & Sheehan, which built the boulevard. The firm has sued the city for extra work caused by the failure of E. M. Bigelow, when director, to properly estimate the cost of the improvement.

Director J. Guy McCandless said yesterday that Mr. Bigelow had estimated the cost of the boulevard at $325,000, and that it has already cost the city about $1,200,000. "The charges by Werneberg & Sheehan are for extra work and delays, caused by the department not having acquired the properties necessary to open the street," said he.

Boulevard Very Expensive.

The construction of the boulevard was long delayed and has been a source of great deal of expense and trouble to the city ever since it was built. At almost every wet spell tons of rock and earth come tumbling down from the hillside on the asphalt roadway, and this has to be removed.

Citizens leaders in councils are much perplexed as to how the extra cost of the boulevard is to be met, as it is regarded as almost certain that Werneberg & Sheehan will win their suit. It comes up next month, and some way must be devised to pay the damages.

A bond issue is the only way except by including the cost in the annual appropriations. The Citizens party members of the sub-committee on finance have already fixed the appropriations in the neighborhood of a 20-mill levy, and they object to making this higher to provide for the extra cost of the boulevard.

Stevenson Wants to Rent It.

One solution is offered by W. H. Stevenson, chairman of the finance committee. Mr. Stevenson stated a few nights ago to a Gazette reporter and Councilman Chris Beckert that he was in favor of renting the boulevard to the traction company at 4 per cent a year on its cost. Mr. Stevenson said that this seemed to be the only way that the city would be able to derive any benefit from the boulevard, as it is little used by vehicles.

The proposition to turn the boulevard over to the traction companies is not regarded as a popular move in view of the fact that the boulevard was built exclusively for a driveway. Gov. Stone stated that he refused to grant the traction company a charter for Grant boulevard for this reason.

FINDS HER MOTHER AFTER MANY YEARS BY DREAMING OF HER

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Feb. 1.—After a separation of 15 years Miss Elsie Tillottson has been reunited with her family in Tioga as the result of a dream. When 3 years old Miss Tillottson's father died, and, her mother being unable to support a large family of children, Elsie was given in charge of a neighbor, who afterward moved west. They gave her the name of Baker. After a time she left the Bakers, going to work for a farmer named Williams, in Allegheny county, Pa. She had forgotten her mother's name and the place where she was born, but of late she has been trying to recall her childhood. One night recently she had a dream of a country town that she recognized as her childhood home. She saw her mother and heard her call "Agnes," then she saw a depot bearing a sign having the name of the town. When she awoke the impression remained with her. She wrote to the postmaster of Tioga, found her mother was living and the reunion followed.

OFFICERS USE CLUBS TO PREVENT LYNCHING

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Feb. 1.—Charles Jefferson, colored, was lodged in jail here today on a charge of criminal assault, after a hard battle between officers and citizens bent on wreaking vengeance for the serious injury of little Emma Conger, aged 3, at Taylorstown.

Jefferson was employed by Dr. George R. Conger. Friday night after the little girl was put to bed the doctor heard a noise in her room and ran to see what was wrong. There he found the negro, and the child was crying bitterly. The doctor seized Jefferson, and after a terrible struggle threw him down stairs. Then he ran for his revolver, and meanwhile the negro escaped.

A posse was at once formed and the country scoured for the negro, and he was captured late yesterday afternoon. He was taken to West Alexander and Constable Dunkle telegraphed for. When he arrived he took the train for Taylorstown to allow Dr. Conger to identify him. At Claysville a crowd of 200 men tried to take the negro from the officer, but were prevented by the constable locking the train door and holding the crowd off with his revolver.

When Taylorstown was reached Dr. Conger was at the depot and attempted to shoot the prisoner, but was disarmed. It then required half a dozen officers to get the negro on the train to bring him to Washington. They used their clubs freely and were finally able to drag the terrified negro to the train.

A large crowd met the train at Washington, but no violence was attempted, as the constable's posse was assisted by the local policemen.

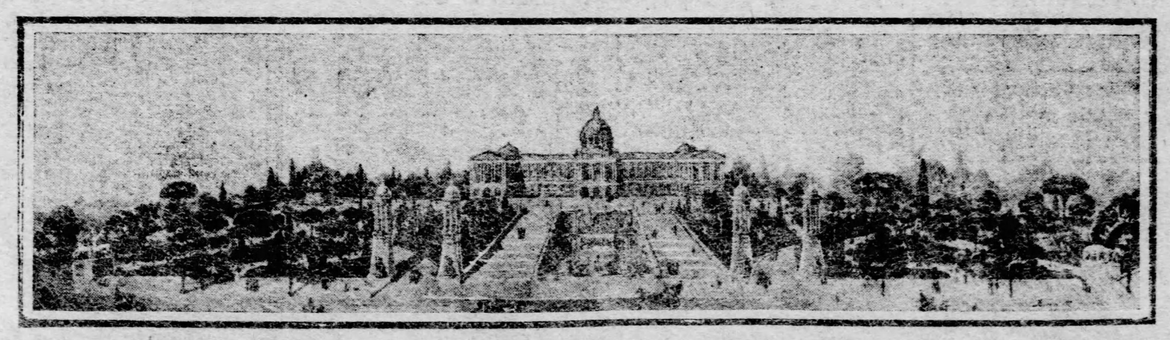
Pennsylvania's New Capitol As It Will Appear When Completed



HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Pennsylvania is to have a state house that will resemble somewhat the Taj Mahal, the most noted of all the matchless structures of India. It will stand on an eminence, as shown in the accompanying drawing, prepared by the architect, Joseph M. Huston of Philadelphia. At the center of the entrance to the capitol will be a magnificent fountain 78 feet wide, from which the water will leap down an incline in many cascades. On each side of the fountain will rise a granite stairway 48 feet wide, broadening at the top into an esplanade and widening at the corners of the building to the proportions of a reviewing ground for troops. The lesser approaches to the grounds will be ornamented with statues of the animals native to Pennsylvania. The work on the new capitol is progressing. The base of the dome is constructed and the cellar is almost dug.

DESPERATE DUEL BY TWO NEGROES

ONE IS DEAD, ONE DYING

Survivor Brought to West Penn Hospital and Is Expected to Die at Any Minute—Coroner to Investigate.

Two colored men fought a duel to the death in some woods near Clairton late yesterday afternoon. One is dead and the other may expire at any minute. No cause for the fight can be learned. The men are:

CHARLES SMITH, age and address unknown. Died immediately.

WILLIAM CLARK JACKSON, age and address unknown. Taken to West Penn hospital. Will die.

The cause of the quarrel is not known. The men met in a woods near Clairton, and, with no spectators, prepared to fight to a finish. Both were armed with Smith & Wesson revolvers of 38 caliber. Without a word each seized one and they took positions 15 paces apart. Each agreed he was ready and the firing began.

The entire seven chambers in each revolver were emptied in a fierce attempt to end each other's life. Some of the bullets sped wide of their mark, but one took effect in each colored man's head. Smith was shot four times. The last bullet went through his forehead and killed him instantly.

Two bullets took effect on Jackson, one went through his abdomen and came out through his back; another imbedded itself in his scalp next to his skull. The firing attracted the attention of some residents of Clairton, but when they arrived upon the scene both negroes were lying on the ground bleeding profusely, and one stone dead.

Jackson was hurried to the West Penn hospital. Coroner Jesse McCarey was notified and he will make an investigation today.

The men were not recognized by any of the Clairton residents and their names were discovered through papers in their pockets. No clue to their home or occupation could be found. It is thought they went from Pittsburgh to fight a duel to the death.

FRANCE TO COLLECT VENEZUELAN CUSTOMS

Under Old Agreement She Will Proceed Without Consulting England, Germany or Italy.

CARACAS, Feb. 1.—In reply to Minister Bowen's inquiry as to what Venezuela intends to do regarding the demand for preferential treatment made by the allies, President Castro has replied:

"The Venezuelan government desires equal treatment for all the creditor nations in Europe and America, keeping in mind, in addition, its diplomatic conventions and anterior stipulations."

The French legation has notified the Venezuelan government that in virtue of the convention of 1867 France was allowed to collect directly a part of the revenues of several customs houses in Venezuela as a guarantee for her diplomatic claims arising out of the previous revolutions. France, it is said, renounced forever, by the convention of 1885, the exercise of this right on condition that the interest on this debt should always be regularly paid. As this payment has not been made, France, without asking the authorization of Germany, England and Italy, intends to revive her right of direct collection.

The French charge d'affairs, Quievreux, has paid visits to the foreign ministry and has twice called on President Castro during the past 48 hours. This activity on the part of France is evidently in connection with her intention to revive her rights and is considered as an answer to the attitude adopted by the allied powers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Propositions involving a compromise of the allied powers' contention for preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims against Venezuela have been submitted to the governments of Great Britain, Germany and Italy by their representatives at Washington, and while no answers have been received as yet, there is reason for the belief that the allies will see a way to accept the latest proposition.

This compromise has not yet received the indorsement of Minister Bowen. The plan suggested provides that for a short period, perhaps six months or a year, Great Britain, Germany and Italy shall receive exclusively 30 per cent of the customs receipts of the ports of Puerto Cabello and La Guayra, and that at the end of this period the claimant nations be placed on the same footing, and at the expiration of that time the 30 per cent of the receipts of these two ports be divided among all the claimant nations in ratio based on the amount of each nation's claim.

WILLEMSTAD, CURACAO, Feb. 1.—President Castro's troops have met with a defeat at the hands of the Venezuelan revolutionists. The battle took place 40 miles south of Caracas. It was fought in the vicinity of Cua. The revolutionists in that vicinity have received their supplies by way of Higherole and Rio Chico, seaports 50 miles away.

SHOTS PROVE FATAL.

Geo. A. Reichert of Wilkesbarre Killed by Woman Who Says She Is His Wife.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Feb. 1.—George A. Reichert, aged 65, died at Hazleton hospital last evening from bullet wounds in the abdomen fired by Rose Burdell, who claims she married Reichert a few months ago. The couple quarreled frequently.

Reichert on returning to his home on Friday found a man in the house and a violent quarrel ensued. The woman left, and on her return, she claims, Reichert struck her. She drew a revolver and fired four shots at him.

DIVORCE MILLS ARE GRINDING HOME ALTARS

MORE BLIGHTING THAN MORMONISM

FALL OF ROME RECALLED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Baltimore, Feb. 1.—Preaching at the cathedral on "Christ, the only enduring name in history, and the only true reformer of society," Cardinal Gibbons today sounded a note of warning in a discussion of the growing number of divorce mills.

"Two thousand years ago," said his eminence, "pagan Rome had all of the temporal blessings this country now enjoys. The wealth of the nations poured into her lap. Her empire extended over three continents. She far excelled us in the arts, in oratory, poetry, philosophy and literature, and in all of the refinements of cultivated society. Her paintings and sculpture, her literary productions are still our models. And yet, while she was in the zenith of her material splendor, she was in a state of moral and political decay.

"There is a barbarism more dense than the barbarism of the savage tribes of the forest. For the children of the forest, taught by the God of nature, adore the Great Spirit. I speak of a barbarism which eliminates God and an overruling Providence from the moral government of the world, which takes no account of a life to come, and of the responsibilities attached to it.

"There is a social scourge more blighting and more destructive of family life than mormonism. It is the fearfully increasing number of divorce mills throughout the United States. These mills, like the mills of the gods, are slowly grinding the domestic altars of the nation. Husband and wife are separated on the most flimsy pretexts. And as if the different states of the union were not sufficiently accommodating in this respect South Dakota has the enviable distinction of granting a divorce for the mere asking of it, on the sole condition of a brief sojourn within her borders."

THEIR METHODS DIFFER.

Western Farmers' Organizations Engage in Spirited Rivalry to Gain Members.

LINCOLN, NEB., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—A war between the rival farmers' trusts is the subject of much speculation here. Two of them have been organized within the past two months, one in Indiana, the other in Nebraska and Kansas. The first is known as the American Society of Equity of North America; the other, the Farmers' Co-operative Grain and Live Stock Association of Kansas and Nebraska. The object of each is to control the output of the farms of the central and northwest, but their methods differ widely.

The Indiana people propose to arbitrarily fix the minimum prices; the westerners insist that this is economically impossible, and that their plan of eliminating the middleman and having his profits for the producers is the only feasible and practical plan of affording relief to the oppressed farmers. Both organizations are seeking members and are actively engaged in proselyting.

ELIOT PLEADS AGE

President of Harvard Would Be Delighted to Dig Coal if He Were Only Younger.

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—President Eliot of Harvard spoke to 400 newsboys this evening, following Gompers and Bryan, who recently addressed the newsboys' union. He sang the song of work and apostrophized manual labor. He said that he had worked himself, both with hand and brain, and found the manual labor less exhausting.

"I have been advised to go and work in the coal mines. If I were 40 years younger, I would do so with pleasure. It strikes me that the work of the coal miner must be very interesting, and that is why I should like to try it. There must be a delightful uncertainty as to the result of the blast."

LEWIS ISOLATED

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—William H. Lewis, colored, Harvard graduate, football coach and lawyer, recently appointed by President Roosevelt as assistant district attorney here at $1,800 per year, is having a little room built for himself off the general offices.

At the office it is said that "no objection is made to Lewis because of his color," and that he is "welcome," but that there is really no room for him in the other offices. As a matter of fact, the offices are spacious and in two of them there are two desks, and in all of them there is plenty of room for another occupant. But Lewis will have a "private office."

Wilkesbarre Carpenters to Strike.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Feb. 1.—Six hundred carpenters and joiners affiliated with the local unions comprising the Wyoming valley district will go on a strike tomorrow morning. Of the 50 builders doing business in this section, only three have signified a willingness to accede to the demands of the $2 65 to $3 a day.

Killed by Nitroglycerine.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Frank H. Sanderson, 35 years old, an oil well shooter, was killed by the premature explosion of 20 quarts of nitroglycerin, and Fred Krebs, 24 years old, was fatally injured, in Tyler county. The engine house, boiler and rig were wrecked.

Hundreds of Buggies Burned.

CAIRO, ILL., Feb. 1.—Fire today destroyed the cooper shop of Halliday Brothers Company and the warehouse of the Three States Buggy and Implement Company, containing hundreds of buggies. Five Illinois Central cars were burned. Loss, over $50,000.

CASTRO FEARS GREAT CONFLICT WILL RESULT

Is Waiting to Hear from Allies Whether It Is to Be Peace or War.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1903, by New York Herald Co.)

CARACAS, Feb. 1.—President Castro this afternoon received me at the palace and expressed a willingness to grant an interview for publication concerning the situation between Venezuela and the blockading powers. He said:

"I cannot grasp the news from Washington. I fear that the Venezuelan conflict will be made a pretext for a world war. The French claim amounts to $800,000 and dates from the time of Guzman Blanco as president.

"As far as I can see this claim is absolutely perfect, yet the blockading powers seem to desire to invalidate it. This is a strange procedure, indeed, when you recall that the French, Belgian and Spanish claims already have that solemn sanction which the blockading powers pretend to be desirous their own should receive.

"Yet I am hopeful; yet, always hopeful. Mr. Bowen has cabled me to be prudent and patient. I shall be both, and we will exhaust all peaceful means, with the understanding that when that has been done we will not give in, but will fight.

"The way we will set about it will demonstrate that we have learned much recently of military as well as diplomatic procedure—not as taught, but as practiced by some of the great powers, at least regarding South America, where in the days of Olney, only eight years ago, we find that the United States was supreme."

The members of the American, French and Spanish colonies met last night and addressed protests to their legations against the outrageous proposal of the blockading powers that "the United States should be the tool of Germany." The French colony declared that "France cannot agree that, in the bankruptcy of Venezuela, Germany should receive special treatment on a loan which is comparable only to the Mme. Humbert loan."

I am able to state today on undoubted authority that the French Atlantic squadron has received orders to be ready to return to Martinique.

INJURED HUSBAND IS KIND TO ERRING WIFE

Secures Divorce, but Gives Her All His Savings, Amounting to $1,200.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW ALBANY, IND., Feb. 1.—Discovered in a guilty alliance Friday, divorced Saturday, Mrs. Minnie M. Agnew is in all probability remarried today.

It is an odd story of a husband's forbearance. Lawrence P. Agnew is a conductor on the Monon route. He came in from his run Friday and found in his home Robert J. Zeigelbauer, a grocer. Agnew announced his determination to get a divorce at once and commanded Zeigelbauer to marry the woman the instant she was free. Agnew then took his 9-year-old daughter, Lelia, and left the house. Yesterday morning summons in divorce proceedings was served on Mrs. Agnew. In a letter to Circuit Judge Utz, handed up by her attorney, Charles D. Kelso, she confessed her guilt. Agnew returned to the St. Charles a free man with the custody of his daughter.

Mrs. Agnew and Zeigelbauer left town last night, their destination not being learned, but it is regarded as morally certain that they have been married. An evidence of Agnew's magnanimity when he parted from his wife is that he gave to her all his savings, amounting to $1,200, and told the wrecker of him nome to go to some other locality and begin life anew.

SAILORS WERE DROWNED.

Danish Steamer Submerged and Lifeboat Men Perished.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The Danish steamer Xela, Capt. Kruse, Stettin, December 3, for Boston, has gone ashore at Cruden, 25 miles from Aberdeen, and is completely submerged. Two of the crew were drowned, while the captain and the remainder of the crew were saved.

A lifeboat crossing Swansea bay to assist a vessel in distress was caught in a squall and capsized. Six of the lifeboat men perished.

TEACHERS QUICKLY WIN THEIR STRIKE

ALTOONA, PA., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The 45 public school teachers of Logan township, which surrounds this city, seeing the wage advances that are being made in other districts, recently petitioned the school board for an advance of 10 per cent. The board had refused to accede to their demands. On Friday the teachers struck. The board held a meeting last night and acceded to the demands for an increase. It is expected that the teachers will all return to their schools tomorrow morning.

MORE TRAINS MAY FOLLOW SPECIAL

Statement of Prevost as to 20-Hour Train's Discontinuance.

SAFETY DEMANDS IT

Still more fast trains are to follow the Pennsylvania special in temporary discontinuance, it appears from the formal statement of S. M. Prevost, third Vice-president of the Pennsylvania railroad given yesterday confirming the reports of the withdrawal of the New York-Chicago 20-hour train. Mr. Prevost said that this is the first move of the kind. His statement follows:

"We have been doing everything in our power to facilitate the movement of coal, but find we cannot meet the demands on our system without sacrificing some of our fast trains.

"On Thursday next the first move in this direction will be made, when the 20-hour special between New York and Chicago will be discontinued.

"The high speed at which this train is run to make the schedule time necessitates the keeping of the tracks clear to avoid accident, and the extreme care taken to protect the public from possible injury interferes seriously with the freight traffic."

Which trains will be the next to go remains as yet unannounced.

ISLAND TRADE GROWS

Philippine Figures Show Record-Breaking Business in the Month of October, 1902.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Official returns of Philippine commerce for October, 1902, show the value of merchandise imported to have been considerably larger than in any single month since American occupation, aggregating $3,279,692. Two-fifths of this amount is credited to the purchase of food articles and is due to crop failures in the archipelago. The exports for October, 1902, were valued at $2,847,577, somewhat above the monthly average based on shipments during the 10 months in the last calendar year and an increase over the same month in 1901. For 10 months ending October 31, 1902, the imports, exclusive of gold and silver and government supplies, were valued at $27,618,014, a material gain over the same period in each of the two preceding years. The imports coming from the United States have doubled since 1899. The total value of exports the 10 months ended October 31, 1902, was $22,086,595, an increase of nearly $3,000,000 over the trade for the same period of 1900.

TAKEN TO CANADA.

Former Treasurer of Kent County, Ontario Arrested in Hospital in Detroit.

DETROIT, MICH., Feb. 1.—Alfred L. Shambleau, aged 46, former treasurer of Kent county, Ont., who, it is alleged, is wanted at Chatham, Ont., on three warrants charging theft and forgery in connection with a shortage of about $14,000 in the county funds, was today placed under arrest at Grace hospital, in this city, and later taken across the river by Ontario officers and started for Chatham. Shambleau consented to go without extradition proceedings being instituted.

Under the name of A. W. Fish he was brought to the hospital last night from Pontiac, Mich., suffering from a fractured skull, which, it is said, was received here last week in a saloon row.

MEADVILLE PARTLY FLOODED.

Railroad Trains Run Through Foot of Water Caused by Gorge in French Creek.

MEADVILLE, PA., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The gorge in French creek, continues. It extends probably four and a half or five miles. The lower part of town is flooded and many have moved out of their houses temporarily. The only damage done consists in the loss of fences, sidewalks etc.

Railroad trains are still running through a foot or two of water. The water now is falling slowly.

ANOTHER BATTLE IS ON OVER STEWART'S WILL

Descendants of Third Cousin in Ireland Claim One-Fourth of Estate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—By an order granted by Judge Leventritt in the supreme court, the will of A. T. Stewart has again been opened for contest. The old documents are to be submitted tomorrow for the examination of the lawyers and handwriting experts, in an effort to prove that the accepted will should be thrown out and a new line of heirs admitted to a share in the estate.

Seven witnesses have been brought from Ireland and maintained here since October 16 to prove the pedigree of heirs, who base their claims as descendants of a third cousin of Mr. Stewart. Among them is Father Aloysius, a parish priest, who has been brought to establish the records of birth and to identify the claimants.

The claim is made for one-sixth of the estate, which is worth from a quarter to half a million dollars, if the division can be carried back far enough and appraised at present values.

The present suit is directed against the property at Tenth street and Broadway, which is estimated to be worth $3,500,000.

TAKES OVER A GAS CONCERN IN OHIO

Union Natural Gas Corporation of Pittsburgh Buys Clyde Gas Do.

The new Union Natural Gas Corporation, controlled by T. N. Barnsdall of Pittsburgh, has taken over the Clyde Gas Company of Clyde, O. This was done through the Logan Natural Gas Company, one of the underlying interests of the Union company. This company has recently made purchases of important properties in the Indiana gas belt. The Union company will take possession of the Clyde company properties today.

The Clyde company was formed to manufacture fuel gas, found this profitless and purchased the lines and franchises of the Northwestern Ohio Natural Gas Company.

Treat and Crawford, the gas and oil operators, head a Pittsburgh syndicate which has purchased the entire capital stock of the Weliston-Hamden Gas Company, with headquarters at Weliston, O. The new owners will continue operations under the same name and charter and have arranged to extend the pipe system.

The following officers and directors have been elected: J. M. Garrard, president; J. W. Crawford, vice president; L. B. Denning, secretary and treasurer; O. C. Hagan and H. B. Lewis, directors.

SAME PAY, LESS WORK.

Pullman Palace Car Company Reduces Day's Work of Its Employes to Nine Hours.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The Pullman Palace Car Company has posted a notice that on April 1 10 hours' wages will be paid for nine hours' work, to every man employed in the works.

Nearly 8,000 men are affected and more than $70,000 will be added to the company's monthly payroll. One thousand extra men will be employed to do the work performed in the 10th hour by the old force.

Under the old schedule the men worked 60 hours a week. Under the new system they will work 54 hours a week, and will have their Saturday afternoons off.

Loaded Balls to Be Used.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—If you happen to be a tenpin bowler with designs on some of the trophies, medals or moneys which will be distributed at the Indianapolis national tournament, it behooves you to get down to first principles and start the game all over, using a loaded ball. It is semi-officially announced that the use of the loaded ball at the coming tournament cannot be restricted, except by special meeting, of which no announcement has been or will be made. It is stated that the American bowling congress will not meet until after the tournament is under way, and that, as there is no regulation against weight at present in the constitution, there is nothing to prevent the use of the heavier implement by those accustomed to it.

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY.

PUBLICITY BILL SUITS PRESIDENT

Authoritative Statement of His Attitude on Anti-Trust Measures.

DESIRES SOME ACTION

Publicity Amendment to the Department of Commerce Bill Seems to Be the Only Measure Likely to Pass Senate.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.

So many different and conflicting measures looking to the regulation of trusts are pending in both houses that the situation is likely to be obscured, and in order to obtain information of the desires of the president, who has been forced, in order to have anything accomplished, to take the lead in this matter, The Gazette today obtained an authoritative exposition of the attitude of the administration.

This statement would indicate that the president would be satisfied if congress shall pass the publicity measure, which is now pending in the conference committees of the two houses as an amendment to the department bill, or pass the bill drawn by Attorney General Knox and introduced in the two houses for the purpose of expediting decisions in such pending legislation as that connected with the Northern Securities Company, the beef trust case and the railroad injunction suits, and shall enact that portion of the Littlefield bill pending in the house directed against the offering or accepting of rebate, or the Elkins bill pending in the senate which does substantially the same thing.

The statement of the administration's position is important for the reason that at this stage the publicity amendment to the department of commerce bill is the only measure that seems reasonably certain of becoming a law. This measure is in conference and will not have to go back to either of the branches of congress. It is accepted by the president on the one hand and by the senators and representatives having charge of this bill on the other.

ARKANSAS TRAVELER CORRECTS DR. PARKHURST

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.

Utterances by the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst were challenged in the Madison Square Presbyterian church this morning by an auditor, who took exception of a strong statement of sentiment upon the negro question made by the minister. A debate that waxed spirited ensued. Dr. Parkhurst's opponent declined to reveal his identity, saying simply that he was an Arkansan and a casual visitor to the church.

The stranger, who was well dressed and apparently well educated, waited until Dr. Parkhurst had descended into the lecture room. Stepping hastily to meet the minister, he said:

"I would like an opportunity to correct some of the statements you made in the pulpit, doctor."

Dr. Parkhurst was startled, but asked courteously in what he had erred.

"Your views regarding the negro, sir, are wrong. You are evidently misinformed as to the real condition of the negro in the south. The negroes are treated properly in that section, and there is nothing to be credited in sensational reports of their systematic illtreatment. There is no negro question," concluded the stranger, "except in the north."

BRIDEGROOM CAME NOT.

Went Out to Fix Things and Bride Discovered She Was Out Just $2,200.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Deserted a few minutes before the time set for her wedding, Mrs. Adelena Stanley of Boston has sought the aid of the Harrison street police in her search for Edward Bonner, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, and $700 and a bank book showing a credit of $1,500.

The romance of the couple had its beginning, according to the story told to Inspector Lavin, at the time of the siege of Santiago, when Bonner was wounded in a skirmish and Mrs. Stanley nursed him until he was restored to health. The couple met by agreement here yesterday and registered at the Park Row hotel, 6 Park Row place. The wedding ceremony was scheduled to take place at 6 o'clock in the evening. A short time before this hour Bonner, according to the woman, said he would go out and make final arrangements for the ceremony. When he did not return at the appointed time she discovered the loss of her money.

PLEASED THE KING.

Edward the Seventh's Court Party Stands While Sousa Plays "The Star Spangled Banner."

LONDON, Feb. 1.—At the concert given by Sousa's band at Windsor castle last evening in the presence of the royal family, King Edward asked for encores of several of the pieces played. The whole court stood while the band rendered "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "God Save the King." At the close of the concert their majesties advanced and shook hands with and complimented Sousa. The king inquired how long the band was to remain in England, and said:

"I shall have you again, and I want all American music on the program the next time."

By the king's desire, Mrs. Sousa was then presented to their majesties. The prince of Wales conversed with Sousa and promised to attend his concert when the band returned to London, in April.

An elaborate supper was served to the members of the band.

ONLOOKER GETS USUAL WOUNDS

LYNN, MASS., Feb. 1.—As a result of an investigation into the fight that occurred between imported boot and shoe workers' cutters and knights of labor sympathizers last night, the police today arrested two men, while a third was discovered at his home suffering from an ugly bullet wound. The wounded man seemed to have figured in the disturbance only as an onlooker.

New Position on Ohio River Road.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Feb. 1.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company has created the position of division master mechanic of the Ohio river division and Master Mechanic Joseph Bellington of the Cumberland division has been placed in charge of the new place, with headquarters at Parkersburg, W. Va. Bellington will be succeeded here by T. E. Lewis of Portsmouth, O., formerly with the Norfolk & Western railroad.

BOGUS NOBLEMAN IN DEEP TROUBLE

THEY KICKED HIM OUT

He Now Occupies Cell in St. Louis Jail—Ambassador Herbert Repudiates Him, but He Says He Is Genuine Article.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, MO., Feb. 1.—Lieut. Col. F. Seymour Barrington, self-styled English lord and member of his majesty's own horse guards, special agent of Ambassador Herbert to inspect the work of British consuls in America, passed the day and tonight in the holdover at the Four Courts.

Ten days ago he married Miss Wilhelmina Grace Cochrane, a pretty young debutante of Kansas City, who came to this city to visit her sister, Mrs. E. E. Elliott of 4368 West Belle place, and there met the handsome foreigner whose pretensions to nobility and distinction in his own land captivated her girlish fancy.

A few days after her wedding, it is asserted, her titled husband wrote a letter to her family in Kansas City asking for financial assistance. The young bride's family had been opposed to the marriage from the first and this strange request from her husband confirmed the suspicion of her brother, James F. Cochrane, a young business man of Kansas City, who satisfied himself by writing to Ambassador Herbert and by calling upon the British consuls at Kansas City and St. Louis that Barrington is not a noble, that he has no place in the British military or diplomatic service, and that he was an adventurer and imposter of the worst type.

Mr. Cochrane, therefore, came to St. Louis and last night confronted Barrington at the Elliott home. "I talked the matter over with the fellow quietly at first," said Cochrane tonight at the Elliott home, "but when he stuck to his ridiculous pretensions after I had shown him my proof that he had deceived my sister, I became exasperated with him, and with the full approbation of his wife, my sister ejected him from the house. Yes, I used my foot to put him out. I will now endeavor to have him punished by due process of law as all such ravening wolves as he has proved himself to be should be punished. Of course, my poor sister feels that her life is ruined, but she no longer cares for him, and will enter suit for divorce immediately."

Barrington when seen at the Four Courts was a picture of despair, but would not admit that he is an imposter. He denounced Cochrane as a low, common fellow, and declared he would be able to prove that he is a member of one of the first families in England, and while not yet a lord, in direct line of descent from such a title and possessed of every assurance of coming into it.

BEGINS LIFE SENTENCE.

Choctaw Indian, Who Has Had Notable Career, Now Inmate of Federal Prison.

ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Having at various times in his career served as a representative, senator, judge of the county court, district attorney and Presbyterian minister in the Choctaw nation of the Indian Territory, Solomon Hotema, a magnificent representative of his proud race, has just commenced to serve a life sentence in the Atlanta federal prison. He was the chief actor in the so-called witch killing, which occurred in the Choctaw nation in 1899. As the doors closed upon him, he said:

"Goodby; I hope to see you all again. Tell my friends that I shall ever love them."

That was all. Solomon Hotema, once the mightiest man of his nation, turned toward an official and signified his readiness to be placed in a cell, where he is destined to remain until death releases him. The two marshals simply said: "Judge, your friends will not forget you. Always hope. Goodby."

Nominations for Etna Officials.

The Citizen-Democratic party of Etna held their primaries Saturday evening and nominated the following candidates for borough offices: Burgess, Dr. W. E. Johnston; council, Alexander Wolly, Victor Hazel, C. W. Austen; school directors, Robert R. Malone and George A. Chalfant; auditor, A. C. Stoll. A hot contest for the office of burgess is expected at the coming election between Frederick Alperman, Republican candidate, and Dr. W. E. Johnston. Both men are well known and popular in the borough.

CONSUMER MUST PAY INCREASE TO MINERS

Price of Bituminous Coal Will Go Up 60 Cents a Ton If Union Wins.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Feb. 1.—W. S. Bogle, head of the Indiana operators, said tonight that whatever increase the bituminous miners shall get at the present conference, if they get any, will be borne by the consumer. He said that the only cost is the labor it takes to produce it.

"Over 95 per cent of the cost of coal is labor," he said. "These are the figures: A 12½ cent per ton increase flat on a run of mine basis amounts to 21 cents on a screen basis. Then there is the dead work, including room turning and yardage, for which an advance of 30 per cent is asked, and the increase in proportion to the advance of the miners for outside laborers, which is 25 per cent, makes a total increase for the laborers of 15 cents per ton. Then the increase demanded for machine mining of a differential of 7 cents is a 13-cent advance on machine-mined coal.

"But suppose that not over half the coal mined is machine mined, it will still be an advance of 6½ cents. Then the increased degradation of the coal by mining on a mine run basis will make an additional cost of lump screened coal of from 15 to 20 cents per ton, on an average, we will say, 17½ cents.

"There you have 21 cents for the mining, 15 cents for the laborers, 6½ cents for the differential and 17½ cents for the degradation of the coal, making in all 60 cents, and the consumers must pay every cent of it."

The scale committee will meet again tomorrow to resume consideration of the demands of the miners for an increase of wages.

Expressions of opinion today indicate that the session will be protracted, and that no agreement will be reached, which will mean a suspension of work on April 1. Both sides seem determined.

Many of the operators say, however, that the miners should have some increase this year, and many believe that an increase of 10 per cent would be about right.

HAYMAKER SPENDS SUNDAY AT HOME, HAYS DEVOTES DAY TO VOTE HUNTING

ROGER O'MARA AMUSING

BOSS MAKES 'EM HUSTLE

Sees That His Dream of a Colossal Political Machine, of Which He Is the Dictator, Will Not Be Realized.

It was not at all difficult yesterday to find John C. Haymaker, the Republican candidate for city recorder. Mr. Haymaker was at home with his family, spending Sunday afternoon as he always spends it. On Sunday he lets politics alone.

Mr. Haymaker did not want to discuss politics, as since his nomination his days and nights have been busy with it, but he said he was thoroughly well satisfied with the outlook for his success. Men of all parties are constantly wishing him success and promising him their votes.

Politics is usually dull on Sunday, but Roger O'Mara, the former superintendent of the detective bureau, contributed some gaiety. In an interview published yesterday he tried to convince himself that Mr. Haymaker is under obligations to Senator William Flinn, and in that connection he said the following:

"I am against John C. Haymaker because he is Flinn's man, always has been and always will be. In every office that he has ever held Haymaker has been nominated by Flinn and elected by Flinn."

Facts show that O'Mara was not always of this opinion. For two years he boasted that but for him John C. Haymaker would not have been a third time elected district attorney, and that he was instrumental in teaching Haymaker to defy Flinn and run for the nomination for district attorney a third time.

O'Mara Is Forgetful.

While boasting in this manner, O'Mara said that Flinn did not want Haymaker for a third term; that George M. Hosack was Flinn's man for the position, but that he, Roger, had spiked Flinn's guns and given to the people of Allegheny county an "honest, incorruptible official, John C. Haymaker."

Of course, Roger didn't, as he asserted, give Haymaker to Allegheny county, but to show just how much of a Flinn man Haymaker was in Roger's estimation, a little incident that occurred more than two years ago must be narrated.

The time for the nomination for district attorney was fast approaching and Mr. Haymaker one day decided that he would announce his candidacy for a third term that afternoon. He went into Newell's restaurant for luncheon, and while he was eating with a couple of friends Roger O'Mara came into the room and sat down at Haymaker's table. It was before Senator Flinn had retired from politics.

"Mr. Haymaker," quoth O'Mara, "you must come out for the district attorneyship, or Flinn's man will get the nomination. Flinn is against you and wants George M. Hosack, and if you don't come out for the office and let the people know that you want it, Flinn will take it away from you. You're the very last man he would want. You're the best man for the office, and as Flinn can't control you I want to see you get it."

Roger was really alarmed, lest the man Flinn didn't want might lose the office by not announcing his candidacy. Mr. Haymaker told him that he had arranged to make public announcement of his candidacy that same day.

Now O'Mara Amuses.

Mr. Haymaker got the nomination and he has still a year to serve of the term for which he was then elected. O'Mara then, as has been told, was delighted with Heymaker's success, not because he liked Heymaker particularly well, but because he hated Flinn more. Day in and day out, in saloons, on the street and in his office, O'Mara told how he had induced Haymaker to come out for the office and had thus forced Flinn to accept a man he didn't want.

"I put the backbone into Haymaker," bragged O'Mara, "and Flinn had to stop fighting him."

And now, although O'Mara says "I am against John C. Haymaker because he is Flinn's man, always has been and always will be," it is not expected that he will deny the authenticity of the incident related, for there are too many men to whom he bragged of the part he thought he played in forcing Haymaker upon Senator Flinn. The names of at least a score of reputable citizens who heard O'Mara can be produced.

That the supporters of W. B. Hays are able to read the handwriting on the wall in the East End has been demonstrated in the last few days. Having learned that their peculiar methods upon which they rely for success, the use of money, are of no avail in that district, they have practically withdrawn from the contest in the East End and have concentrated their efforts on the South Side and in other districts where workingmen form the bulk of the population.

What the workingmen think of a political body that believes their principles can be debauched is being demonstrated every day at the Republican meetings in those districts, where the sentiment for Haymaker is growing stronger and methods of corruption are strongly denounced.

Insult to the Workingmen.

Residents of the districts indicated had noted with surprise the influx of money, but it is expected that the surprise will turn to hot indignation when it is realized that these men and their methods, failing in the East End, have been removed from there and are to be applied to the workingmen's districts, apparently in the belief that voters less fortunately endowed with this world's goods are to be corruptly influenced. The Republicans, however, are not afraid that the well-known methods of the Hays supporters will meet with success, having full reliance on the integrity of the voters upon whom those methods are now being tried. It is confidently believed that on election day the vote will show an emphatic rebuke of corruption in the workingmen's districts as well as in the East End wards.

Big audiences and enthusiasm are usually considered as symptoms of success. These symptoms are in evidence at the meetings at which Mr. Haymaker speaks, but the most striking testimony is contained in the remarks of the hundreds who, after many of the meetings, crowd up to the stage to meet Haymaker and shake his hand. At many of these meetings fully half of those who speak to the candidate are men who say that they voted for the Citizens ticket last February and last November, but that they have renounced Thomas S. Bigelow and will vote for the Republican candidate. They were for the Citizens party when it was for reform, they say, but since it has abandoned the purposes for which it was organized they have left it.

While John C. Haymaker, Republican nominee for recorder, was spending Sunday in his home, William B. Hays, the Bigelow candidate, and "Andy" Fulton were devoting the day to a personal search for votes in the hill district.

All days are alike to the agents of the Bigelow machine, as one of their poets puts it, "We have too few days to work for Hays." Bigelow sees that the public is no longer willing to be humbugged by sham reform, and as a result orders have gone forth to take advantage of every minute of the time before election day. Every man on the payroll has been commanded to hustle for votes and get them some way.

Prior to the campaign, Hays usually spent his Sundays at a downtown livery stable. Since he has been put forward for one of the greatest offices in Pennsylvania as the personal nominee of the boss of one of the most colossal political machines ever projected, he has been forced to make other uses of the Sabbath. It is now necessary to spend the day hustling for votes in company with Bigelow's chief agent, "Andy" Fulton.

Visited Polish Clubs.

The candidate and Fulton were active in the Thirteenth ward yesterday, a territory which is certain to give John C. Haymaker a handsome majority. The pair appeared in a carriage, and first drove to the Citizens headquarters. There a round-up by the Bigelow agents was held. The balance of the time was devoted to visiting some of the Polish clubs in the ward.

New Republican headquarters have been opened in the Twentieth ward, at No. 120 South Highland avenue. At a large and enthusiastic gathering, composed mainly of voters formerly identified with the Citizens party in the ward, addresses were made Saturday evening by Matthew Lowry, E. G. Vogel, George C. Kennedy, Councilman Joseph C. Wasson, elected on the Citizens ticket. All speakers were until recently ardent supporters of the Citizens movement, and each took occasion to explain their connection with that organization and their reason for having been identified with it.

Bigelows Are Denounced.

They announced that they had severed their connection with it because of the open and pronounced bossism and dictatorial rule of Thomas S. and Edward M. Bigelow. One of the speakers publicly charged that E. M. Bigelow, representing his brother, during the consideration of the Pennsylvania railroad ordinance by common council last month, with establishing headquarters at the Hotel Duquesne, from which he lobbied in the interest of the measure. It was also asserted that E. M. Bigelow went on the floor of councils and used threats and promises to secure the passage of the ordinance.

James A. Clark, city chairman of the Bigelow Democracy, is another Sunday campaigner. He spent yesterday working in the Twenty-first ward. On Saturday "Boss" Bigelow told him that his organization was not making the right kind of a showing for the investment. Clark was ordered to hustle, and he promptly obeyed. In the last election the Citizens secured a majority of about 1,200 in the Twenty-first ward. Since Bigelow has been unmasked there have been hundreds of desertions from the Citizens party in this ward. It is now generally conceded that Haymaker will carry it. In the hope of stemming the tide, Clark went out among the voters yesterday. When he had completed his labors he was satisfied that if he could secure 500 for Hays he would be doing well. This report will go to the boss today; but Clark knows that his estimate is not built on a solid foundation.

Machine Is Desperate.

The desperation of the Bigelow machine is shown in the announcement by Chairman Clark of the Bigelow Democracy that he has orders to work on the South Side for the remainder of the campaign. The East End has practically been abandoned by the boss, and every effort is to be exerted to get the South Side vote. Clark is to make a personal canvass of the Democrats on that side of the river and plead with them to support Hays. It is the last hope of the Bigelow machine, and it will not bear fruit.

The Bigelow Democrats are giving out the impression that George W. Guthrie is coming home from Florida to work for Hays. His brother, R. W. Guthrie, says that there is no truth in the story. The former chairman of the real Democracy is not a reformer for revenue. He washed his hands of the Bigelow machine when it named Hays, and there is not the slightest likelihood of his striking the back track.

The Jacksonian party will open headquarters tonight at Lamberton street and Frankstown avenue, in the Twenty-first ward. Charles A. O'Brien and Col. Frank I. Rutledge will be present.

M. G. Leslie, chairman of the Republican city committee, says that for the remainder of the campaign he will be at headquarters, from 2 until 7 o'clock. During the other working hours of the day he will meet chairmen in their wards.

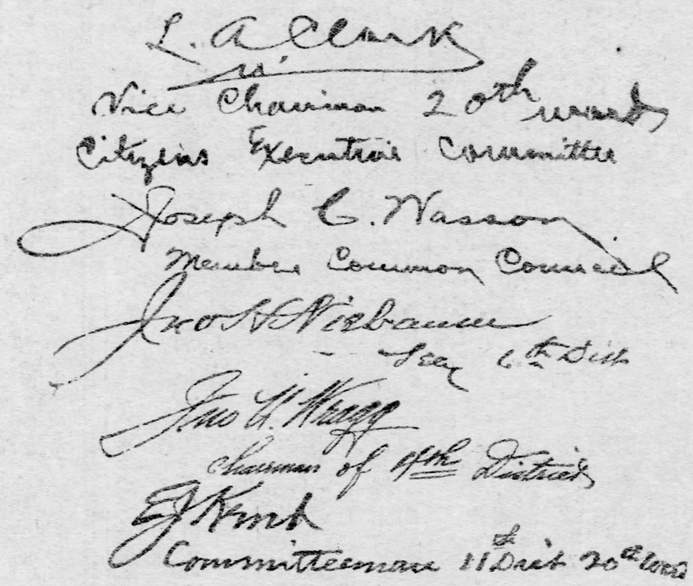
DENOUNCED W. B. HAYS' NOMINATION AND SET THEIR HANDS TO PAPER

The following letter, under date of January 3, 1903, was addressed to Thomas S. Bigelow, chairman of the Citizens committee of 38, and is self-explanatory. The signatures are given facsimile and the public will see that some of the signers cannot be held by their bond in matters political.

Dear Sir: At a meeting of a majority of the members of the Citizens ward committee of the Twentieth ward, held at the Hotel Dorset, January 2, 1903, the inclosed resolution was unanimously adopted and a committee appointed to notify your organization of the action taken and urge the adoption of the suggestion made.

We believe that if Maj. Burchfield's name is put before the people by the Republican party and the various independent organizations forming he will be elected by an overwhelming majority. Very truly yours,



Whereas, The nomination of William B. Hays for city recorder by the Citizens party and its Democratic annex has been condemned by our ward executive committee, in meeting assembled, and

Whereas, The election of Mr. Hays would violate all the principles of our independence; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we call upon the Republican party at its approaching convention, also upon the Municipal League, Citizens and Independent Democrats, to put forth a candidate whose character, ability, training and associations have been above reproach, and who will be responsible to the people, and to the people alone; and, further, be it

Resolved, That we suggest the name of Maj. A. P. Burchfield, a distinguished soldier and a prominent citizen and resident of the Twentieth ward, for the exalted office, and that in the event of his being nominated we pledge our united and ardent support.

TRIBUTE LAID ON SALOONKEEPERS

Threatened With Loss of License Unless They Contribute to Wyman Fund.

PRACTICE IS STOPPED

The Announcement That Judge Rodgers Will Sit on Bench Guarantees Fairness—Republican Ranks Accounted For.

The announcement that Judge Elliott Rodgers will preside at court this year when the liquor licenses are granted has put a stop to the levying of tribute on North Side saloon keepers by the Wyman agents. Saloon keepers who were told that they would lose their licenses unless they supported Wyman for recorder are no longer subject to this species of campaigning since they have known that they will be protected, provided they have obeyed the law.

A number who were forced to not only work for Wyman but to contribute liberally to his campaign fund have come out openly against him since the fact became known that Judge Rodgers would be on the license bench again this year, as that was a surety that all would be treated with fairness.

Evidence has been obtained that a well-known politician of Allegheny has been visiting saloon keepers to raise funds for Wyman. In cases where it was known that a saloon keeper was working for, or known to be in favor of the Republican ticket, he was approached by this agent and notified that unless he got in line for Wyman he would be driven out of business by the Wyman influence. The argument was presented to him that it would be an easy matter to manufacture remonstrances against him, and that the judges of the court would heed such remonstrances.

Said to be Offering Gambling Privilege.

The same man who is charged with collecting revenue from saloon keepers is said also to have agreed to give gambling privileges to those who will promise support financially and otherwise.

The Wyman agents are trying by every hook and crook to alienate enough of the City Hall organization from the Republican ticket to create the impression in the minds of the public and the balance of the payroll that there is a general stampede to Wyman.

There are a few policemen and firemen who are out for Wyman, but their number is far less than the Wyman people represent. The impression that there are more of this class is caused by the fact that the few who are for Wyman are talking loud.

Police Lieut. William Spear is credited with stating that he is for Wyman because his cousin, State Senator W. S. Woods of Pittsburg has promised to get him Supt. Henry Muth's job through the influence of T. S. Bigelow. Spear is said to be the tenth man who has been promised this job by Wyman.

Scandrett Helping His Brother.

Richard B. Scandrett, who has been considered a Republican heretofore, has stated that he is for Wyman because his brother, Thomas Scandrett, has been promised the job of delinquent tax collector. Attorney H. M. Davidson also claims this job, but the prevailing opinion is that Davidson will get a gilt-colored brick after the election in the event of Wyman's election.

E. J. McIlwain of the First ward, president of the Empire Asphalt Company, is said to be slated for the position of director of public works at the instance of T. S. Bigelow, who is said to have an interest in the Empire Asphalt Company. It will be remembered that during the administration of Director E. M. Bigelow in Pittsburgh he gave a number of street contracts to the Empire Company.

All sorts of petty methods are employed by the Wyman people to injure the candidacy of Dr. Woodburn. Some time Saturday night every Woodburn placard in the First ward was torn down, and the same thing is being done in other parts of the city.

SOUTH SIDE GERMANS INDORSE HAYMAKER

Two Thousand Members of Societies Declare for Republican Standard Bearer.

The German population of the South Side is almost solid for John C. Haymaker. Five different societies, composed of a membership of 2,000, yesterday passed strong resolutions indorsing Haymaker's candidacy at regular meetings held in their respective halls on the South Side, and another large mass meeting of Germans is scheduled for next Saturday night on Duquesne Heights to declare in favor of Haymaker.

The societies that yesterday came out for Haymaker included the following: Preussen Verein, Wittelsbacher Section No. 1 of Bavarian National association; German-Hungarian Saengerbund; Harmony lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor; Rheinpfalzer Benevolent association.

Each of these societies appointed a committee to present a copy of the resolutions to Mr. Haymaker. The meeting on Duquesne Heights next Saturday night will be held under the auspices of the Duquesne Heights Maennerchor, Lorley Singing society and other German citizens of the Thirty-fifth ward. The meeting will be held in the Lorley hall.

MANY CURES WROUGHT.

Aged Spiritualist Who Heals by Simply Laying Hands on Those Who Are Afflicted.

"We have treated over 200 cases in the last two months, and in almost every instance we have effected a complete cure, and no individual has gone away without being benefited," said aged Harvey Van Voorhis yesterday. He was standing in Mendel's hall, 407 East Ohio street, Allegheny, and was surrounded by a large crowd of men and women, many of whom testified to the miraculous cures he had wrought simply by laying hands on those afflicted.

Mr. Van Voorhis is over 70 years of age and is the head of the Mendel Hall Bible Spiritual society, which meets every Sunday evening and Thursday afternoon in Mendel's hall. He claims that his miraculous powers were revealed to him about seven years ago, and since that time he has been healing people of all kinds of ailments, and in most cases he says he has been successful. He says it is hard to explain his power to one who is not a close student of psychology. He knows little more than he effects cures and does it for nothing.

At the meeting last night were many people who claimed they had been cured without a bit of medicine, the good results coming only from the aged spiritualist laying his hands on the afflicted parts. Rheumatism, neuralgia, dislocations of long standing, swellings, asthma and numerous diseases, it is stated, have been cured by this man and his assistant, William Hutch.

HAYMAKER INDORSED.

Hebrew of Several Wards Declare That They Will Support Him.

A meeting of the Hebrew voters of the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards was held last night in Licht's hall, Fifth avenue. Over 400 persons were present. M. Rabin was chairman and B. C. Barton and D. Sandusky were secretaries. Addresses in support of the candidacy of John C. Haymaker were made by A. Edlis, Edward Stiver, Samuel Fleisig, David Gordon and A. C. Stein.

Max Friedman, Israel Cohen, A. C. Stein, Herman Stein and Simon Zeidman were appointed a committee on resolutions. They presented a report declaring that only a man of strict moral character is worthy of the office of recorder; that in the nomination of Haymaker the Republican party has met every requirement, and calling on every voter who has the moral and financial welfare of his family at heart to vote for him.

ITALIANS FOR HAYMAKER.

Members of the Race in the East End Declare for Him.

Between 400 and 500 Italian voters held an enthusiastic meeting in Orpheus hall, East End, last evening and organized a Republican club. Among those present were a number of well-known Italian business men, several of whom have recently resigned offices in the Citizens Italian club. Addresses were made by M. DeRoss, R. DePretis, D. Madonna, Calroia, Gigliotti, R. Verri and V. D'Isa, which were warmly applauded. A resolution was unanimously adopted indorsing the candidacy of John G. Haymaker for recorder.

An organization was perfected by the election of the following executive committee: M. DeRoss, chairman, and L. D'Isa, secretary, and A. DeSimone, R. DePretis, D. Ardolino, F. Marino and V. Fiselli.

MORGAN ENJOYED GRIDIRON DINNER

Newspaper Men Made Him Forget Trusts for Several Hours.

HE CONFIDES IN HANNA

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.

"Say, Hanna, I had the time of my life last night."

"Beginning to like newspaper men at last?"

"I can say that I like newspaper men quite as much as they like me, but of all the dinners I ever sat down to, the Gridiron club dinner last night takes the palm."

"You remind me of a parrot that once learned to talk the morning after a firemen's dinner at Akron, O. All he learned was 'Oh, mamma, mamma, what a time we had, say Pop—ha, ha, ha.'"

"One thing I noticed, Hanna, was that these newspaper men seem to be pretty good friends of yours. They all seem to like you and want you for president."

"And the newspaper men would be just as goods friends of yours, Mr. Morgan, if you would only give them a chance to be. The trouble with you big business men over in New York is that you regard the newspaper men as your natural enemies and sometimes compel them to be. Never miss a Gridiron dinner for the next five years, which is my record, and I shouldn't be surprised if they would be talking about you for president."

This is a part of a conversation that took place about 10 o'clock this morning when J. P. Morgan and Senator Hanna, two of the subjects of much of the mockery and jest that prevailed at the Gridiron club dinner last night, met at the breakfast table at the Arlington hotel. Both were a little the worse for wear, because both had sat in a crowded dining hall laughing heartily and smoking cigars from 8 o'clock until midnight. Mr. Morgan had been the feature of the dinner.

Four-Handed Fight With Knives.

John Noszrowski, a Pole of 3029 Penn avenue, early yesterday morning with three other Poles engaged in a fight with knives and all were badly cut. Noszrowski was fined $25 and costs, which he paid. He was then held for court on a charge of felonious cutting.

Our Early Spring Exposition.

While Spring, according to the calendar, will not smile upon us for some six weeks yet, but to all intents and purposes early Spring is a-bloom now in this store.

Of course there are only Spring buds of Fashion, but enough to show how the Fashion winds for Spring are blowing.

A right good showing of Spring Gowns.
The latest ideas for tailored Suits, Skirts and Coats.
Hints of what Spring Millinery will be.
A liberal showing of imported Cottons.
New Cotton and Linen Robes.
New White Goods.
Many new 1903 Silks.

Everybody, whether on a hunt for new ideas or not, is welcome.

Two Old-New Silks—Shantung and Shanghai.

Many women say Pongee for Shantung. Either is right. Last Fall, when taking up the matter of Spring and Summer Silks, we judged that both these Silks were coming into favor again and bought largely. Our foresight was not awry, both Shantung and Shanghai will be highly favored for shirtwaist suits this season.

We doubt whether every woman knows what these Silks go through to reach perfection, and when they do know the wonder will be how they can be sold for such small prices. The natural silk is woven in China—thence it goes to Lyons, France, to be dyed and printed. In Lyons our buyer goes through the sample books, chooses what he thinks Pittsburg women will like, and in time the Silks are laid down at our door and sold for remarkably small prices. The astonishing feature about these Silks is that, after all the freighting it takes for the thousands of miles which they travel, that they can be sold for such reasonable prices.

In connection with many other new Silks you will find these Shantungs and Shanghais mentioned below.

New Colored Silks.

Printed Japons, printed Habutais, printed Shantungs, printed Satin Broches, printed Twilled Foulards, in all the leading Spring colors and shades of colors, many new designs, including dots and small neat effects, from 50c to $1.50 a yard.

A special in printed Habutai Silks, a silk that will be used for new shirtwaist suits, 38 different styles in blue and white, black and white and white and black, at 50c a yard.

New Wash Cords, a few of the new Jacquard effects, in new combinations, 58c a yard.

Plain White Habutai, 27 inches, 45c to $1.25 a yard. Fancy White Habutai, 55c a yard to $1.

Pongees in many beautiful colors, at 75c a yard.

New Shepherd Checks and Pin Checks, blue and white and other new combinations of colors, 85c and $1 a yard.

New Black Silks.

New Spring Grenadines in plain and fancy stripes, 75c a yard and many intermediate prices up to $5.50.

Black Taffetas of the most noted makes—French, Swiss, Italian, American—each and all guaranteed to wear—in this price range:

19-inch wide Taffeta, 50c to 85c a yard.
20-inch Taffeta, 58c to 90c a yard.
21 and 22 inch Taffetas, 65c to $1 a yard.
23, 24, 26, 27 inch Taffetas, 75c to $1.25 a yard.
36-inch Taffetas, 95c to $2.50 a yard.
19-inch, 20-inch, 21-inch, 22-inch Peau de Soie, 75c a yard and up to $2.50.
20-inch, 22-inch, 23-inch Peau de Cygne, 75c a yard and up to $1.75.
42 and 44 inch Crepe de China, $1.50 a yard and up to $6.

A Trio of Fur Thoughts for Women.

Every Squirrel-lined Coat is reduced to half and some cases less.

We don't need to say more.

Marten cluster scarfs, $7.50, worth $12, and $10, worth $18.

Sable Fox scarfs, $7.50, worth $10.

Sable Fox double boas, with two tails and claws, $15, worth $25.

Squirrel coats, just as stylish next winter as this, $50, worth $100; $75, worth $200; $100, worth $300; $125, worth $350.

Long black Fox boas, with tails and claws, $18, worth $30.

Black Broadcloth capes, lined with gray and white squirrel, $20, worth $45.

Nearseal blouses, high storm collar, deep rolling revers to waist, flare sleeves to hand, $35, worth $60.

Nearseal jackets, box front, high storm collar, revers, flare sleeves at hand, $40, worth $60.

Handkerchief News That Will Please Women.

A Beltast hand-embroidered and initial Handkerchief for 12½c.

When we tell you these Handkerchiefs are an exact copy of a French hand-embroidered Handkerchief that retails always for $1, the significance of this offer will be at once understood. Sometimes imitation flatters the thing imitated.

We bought 3,600 of these Handkerchiefs and they are about as dainty specimens as any woman ever carried—that is of Handkerchiefs for trifling prices.

They are elaborated with dainty spray and butterfly effects, as well as hand-embroidered initial. The linen is very sheer.

If you buy the dozen, as many of you will, there are only enough for 300 women.

New Tucked Mousselines, 75c a yard and up to $5.

The new Lace Robes are beyond descriptive writing. They are one of the reigning fashions for women that have to be seen and discussed. Their beauty is of such a divergent character, there are so many different materials used for the Robes, there is such a great range of prices, that the best we can do is to give general quotations.

New Robes of Voile, $40 and up to $50.
New Robes of Spangled Net, $50 and up to $100.
New Robes of Chantilly Lace, $25 and up to $60.
New Robes of Point d'Esprit, $20 and up to $30.
New Robes of Real Duchess Lace, $200.00.

Colored Dress Goods Bulletin.

Just received per one of the big liners lately docked special shipment of English Tailor Tweeds. One of the best English manufacturers made them for us. The line was ordered in early so that people contemplating a trip South could secure a late style for traveling dress. The prices are $2.50, $3.50 and $4 a yard. Widths, 48 to 56 inches.

The $1.25 and $1.50 Fancy Yarn Suitings, gray, tan, blue and brown mixtures, are finding many purchasers at our special price of 65c a yard. There never was, to our knowledge, such another remarkable Dress Goods bargain.

Governor Pennypacker Interprets State's Laws Literally.

COURSE INVOLVES MUCH EXTRA WORK

Refuses to Entrust the Signing of Papers to Clerks and Performs Labor Himself.

STATE SECRETS WELL KEPT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.

Gov. Stone came to Harrisburg, dwelt here and is gone, and now the citizens of the capital are trying to make up their minds whether they will like Gov. Pennypacker as well as they liked his two predecessors. Gov. Hastings was very popular in Harrisburg, and whatever opinion the enemies of Gov. Stone may cherish of him, it cannot be denied that the ex-governor was a favorite here. He circulated among them, gave frequent entertainments, was approachable without being condescending, and while having plenty of personal dignity in his intercourse with the populace, was not at all overpowered with the consciousness of exalted position. There is no pride or pomposity about Gov. Pennypacker, either, but he is not by any means the "mixer," and the newspapers of the state have left the people here with no well-defined idea of what the new governor will be like.

There was no trouble about distinguishing the arrival of a new regime, however, when Gov. Pennypacker took up the reins. In Stone's time the governor of the state usually got to his office between the hours of 10 and 11 in the morning, and by 2 o'clock he was out of his office. More business is said to have been transacted by Stone at his home, the executive mansion, and on the train between Harrisburg and Atlantic City and Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, than in the executive department on the hill.

Works Long Hours.

Gov. Pennypacker begins the day early and works till the whistle blows, leaving for his home at 5 p. m., after putting in the hours from 9 a. m., with an interval of about an hour for luncheon. No more easy times, as during Stone's and Hastings' terms, for the clerical force of the executive department, for it is not expected that the governor will spare his subordinates any more than he spares himself.

Somebody called on the governor the other day and found him busy at his desk signing the commissions of notaries public. Just 150 of the documents lay before him, and the governor had just got through half of them, perhaps regretting for a period that his name was not one of one syllable, like his predecessor's. The caller remembered that under some former governors the private secretaries had signed the notarial commissions and even more important papers, and when he emerged from the executive presence he mentioned having seen the governor engaged in hard work.

"He's a mere plodder," one of the man's auditors remarked. "How can the governor expect to attend to the more important matters intrusted to his care when he wastes time on that drudgery?"

"It is probably a question of duty with the governor," was the reply, "for the notarial commissions and charters purport to bear the governor's signature, and probably he thinks the papers ought to be what they are supposed to be, but even if the signing of those documents were a matter of detail that some subordinate could as well attend to, you must remember that genius means 'an infinite capacity for hard work,' so that it may turn out that the governor is a genius and not a dull plodder."

An Inconvenient Reputation.

Many do remember that the governor, while busy for years as a common pleas judge in Philadelphia, hearing cases, deciding them and formulating elaborate opinions, yet found time to study history and to write it, to study social problems and to arrive at clear-cut conclusions concerning them, to acquire exact knowledge about more things than the law, while all the time mingling with his fellow men and keeping himself abreast of the progress of the age, and those who know these things have already placed the governor, and not among the plodders.

In many things the reputation which the newspapers gave the governor has followed him to Harrisburg, to his amusement, and perhaps despair. The governor was "written up" as a historian. While sitting in his office the other day he was asked how he liked Harrisburg. He said he thought he would like the town, spoke of the fine view of the Susquehanna river from the executive mansion, and then remarked: "I have in mind, after I have settled down, to take some long walks. They tell me that there is plenty of opportunity for interesting walks; that within easy distance of Harrisburg there are some lovely views."

An Interrupted Discourse.

"Yes, governor," remarked one of his hearers, "in every direction, within a mile of this spot, are places of great historic interest and"—

"Some lovely views," continued the governor; "picturesque scenery"—

"You must not fail to see Major So-and-So's collection of historical relics, governor," broke in another member of the party.

"I think I shall enjoy myself on these early morning walks," persisted the governor, bent on answering the original question, "I am very fond of"—

"Mr. Blank of Berks has a quite remarkable collection of Pennsylvania-Dutchiana, governor. It would be worth your while to go over to Reading to see it," said a third, evidently determined to discuss a subject pleasing to the governor.

Fated not to tell why he would like Harrisburg and realizing that his reputation as a lover of history was a handicap among those who did not know him, the governor planted his hands firmly on the arms of the chair, looked his unwitting tormentors squarely in the eye and remarked:

"Look here, I believe people have made more of my being Pennsylvania Dutch than the facts warrant. Of course, the original Pennypacke was 'Dutch,' but in the course of years by intermarriage the blood has become mingled with other blood, so that you could hardly call the Pennypackers Pennsylvania Dutch now."

At this sentence the governor's audience listened attentively, evidently without thinking they had alighted on a subject in which the governor was interested.

Judge Pennypacker ceased and looked at them thoughtfully, then he smiled dazzlingly, as if amused at the imputation that to have a liking for history rendered the subject immune to beauties of nature.

That the public will have to content itself to await with patience Gov. Pennypacker's convenience before news of the governor's office can become public is the present opinion of the newspaper correspondents, the public's representatives. Other governors have intimated what they would do before they were ready to file the formal papers, believing that the public interest in the subject, need not necessarily be kept waiting. Other governors, having to make an appointment to office, have allowed the identity of the lucky man to "leak out," either because the public ought to know or because they wished to feel the public to learn what public opinion was. Other governors have realized that what the governor may do is not the sole news that the executive department may produce. Gov. Pennypacker is a different kind of governor. He selected his cabinet before his inauguration, but kept the secret locked in his breast; nobody knew whether he was going to dismiss or reappoint Deputy Attorney General Fleitz until the appointment was actually written out and the paper delivered to Mr. Fleitz. When he declined to assign some charters no one had an inkling of his intention until the document was filed in the state department.

Where to Get the News.

Here, for example, is an illustration of the governor's way of looking at things. He refused to sign the charter asked for by the Donora Light and Heat Company for reasons which he wrote out and filed in the state department. The promoters asked for a hearing and the governor granted the request and set the time. Heretofore such hearings had been public, but Gov. Pennypacker decided to have the hearing in camera, with no person but the attorney general and his assistant, the lawyers for the promoters themselves, and perhaps the governor himself.

An effort was made to convince the governor that the hearing itself would be "news" that the public would like to read about. But arguments were of no avail. How could the public be interested in a hearing that was for the governor's private information as a public officer, seemed to be the governor's views. "My decision will be the news, gentlemen," he told the correspondents. That was not so bad, they thought, and so they asked the governor when they should call on him to learn his decision.

"No use to see me," said the governor; "I will make my decision, then I will write it out, then I will send it over to the state department and then it will be filed. There's where you will find the news, my decision on the Donora Light and Heat Company's application for a charter."

Fooled the Correspondents.

The governor nearly made news on the day after his inauguration. Everybody who has been in Harrisburg knows the squirrels in the capitol grounds. The park swarms with them. They race up and down trees and over the sward and walks, are confiding little creatures and will sometimes obey a call and come forward for a bit of food. The governor was coming through the grounds toward the executive building when a squirrel, first reassuring himself by a squint at the governor's kindly face, cheekily placed himself in front of the chief executive, squatted on his hind legs and beseechingly waved his forepaws. Just momentarily the governor hesitated in his walk and reached his hand into the tail pocket of his frock coat, where, it is surmised, he had deposited a nut or two before leaving home. It was an interesting, fateful moment to the correspondents in the portico of the executive building. Had the governor found a nut and given it to the squirrel; had he even, not finding the nut, made a friendly advance to the little animal, it would have been worth telegraphing over the state, this account of the governor's first acquaintance with the squirrels; but the gubernatorial nose smelled a rat, the gubernatorial eyes roved inquiringly until they rested on the portico when the gubernatorial hand emerged from the pocket and the gubernatorial legs resumed the momentarily interrupted walk. The governor greeted the disappointed correspondents good morning—it was thought that he even tried to wink—and disappeared within the building, while bushtail, who had gazed sadly after the receding gubernatorial presence, chattered indignantly, kicked up his hind legs in high dudgeon and scampered up a tree.

Has Risen Rapidly in the Army

MAJ. HENRY T. ALLEN.

LEXINGTON, KY., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Maj. Henry T. Allen, chief of constabulary of the Philippines, for whose promotion to brigadier general a bill has been introduced into congress, has risen in the army perhaps as has no other man in this section of the country in recent years. A jump from second lieutenant when the Spanish-American war broke out to brigadier general is a leap which is bothering a number of men who entered West Point before and during the same year Maj. Allen did. After graduation from West Point Allen was commissioned a second lieutenant and sent on an exploring expedition through Alaska, where he gathered much information of use to the department and was highly complimented for his work. He then was made instructor at West Point and later sent to Walla Walla for a short time. From here he was sent as attache to the United States legation at St. Petersburg, where he remained for some five or six years, being returned to the United States and given charge of the training of the cavalry at Fort Riley, Kansas. In this work he was highly successful and complimented by his superior officers. He applied for a position with the embassy at Berlin and received the appointment. He was at this post when the late troubles arose and he hastened, without waiting for orders, to Cuba and there was given command of Troop D, cavalry. He figured in the fight at El Caney and was placed in charge of the town and the prisoners after the battle. During one battle two horses were shot under him and his orderly killed. For bravery and daring he was complimented by Gen. Lawton, Gen. Shafter and others. After his work was finished in Cuba he was sent to the Philippines and now occupies the second position on the island of Luzon. He was born at Sharpsburg, Ky., 46 years ago. His brother, Frank S. Allen, is a prominent banker here.

WILL ERECT FIVE NEW AND UNIQUE PLANTS

Duquesne Fireproofing Co. Is to Have Factories Near Big Cities.

The Duquesne Fireproofing Company of Pittsburgh is planning the erection of five modern plants near some of the greatest building centers of the country. It is proposed to erect two of these plants near New York, another near Boston, a fourth near Baltimore and a fifth near Chicago. The plants will cost about $500,000, and the company will increase its capital investment to provide for its branching out in the trade.

The new plant of the company at West Winfield, near Butler, was put in operation last Thursday, being at that time inspected by the directors and leading stockholders of the company. This plant, in the manufacture of sewer pipe and front building brick, operates under a continuous process, similar to that of a modern steel mill. The initial operations were pronounced thoroughly satisfactory.

The company was organized last year and now has a capital investment of $400,000. The officers are S. M. McKee, president; J. A. Frauenheim, secretary, and W. C. Lynne, treasurer.

BOOK CAUSES TROUBLE

He Denies That He Ever Solicited Subscriptions by Means of Letter—Washington Interested in Development of Mystery.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.

Political Washington is deeply interested in the scandal that has grown out of the publication of Gen. Grosvenor's book, "The Book of the Presidents." When it was first reported that book agents, in order to facilitate sales, were representing that Gen. Grosvenor was in distress and need of financial assistance, Gen. Grosvenor denied absolutely that he was further connected with the publication company handling the book other than being author of the work, and that he was not interested finahcially or otherwise in the sale of the book. He declared that the company still owed him money for the work of preparing the sketches of the different presidents.

The publication yesterday of letters bearing the signature of the general which, on the ples of friendship, sought subscribers to his book have given the affair a sensational turn.

Gen. Grosvenor tonight pronounced the signature to the letters a forgery. Whether there will be any legal action growing out of the case is a matter of conjecture, as Gen. Grosvenor remains silent on this point. When shown the papers containing the letters, and also his denial of being complicated in the matter, Gen. Grosvenor tonight said:

"That's a forgery. It's a forgery on the face of it. Anyone who knows my signature knows that that is a forgery. I never wrote any letter of that character or of any character that could be used in that manner. I am preparing a statement of the case for the public. I have the advice of a man who is looking after my interests. He will be here tomorrow and when I see him I will make my statement. I will not discuss the case any further."

Gen. Grosvenor declined to say who it was that was looking after his interests. He seemed greatly worried by the publicity that has followed the publication of the "Book of the Presidents," and said that the public would know all about it in a few days.

BARK OF NEW COYOTE JOINS WOLF CHORUS

William McClure Adds a Native of Utah to the Family at the Highland Zoo.

Keeper Ernest Tretow's happy family at the Highland park zoo has a new member. William McClure of the Hotel McClure, Frankstown avenue, has presented a large and fierce coyote from Utah. The coyote was secured on a recent visit Mr. McClure paid to the property of a mining company in Utah of which he is secretary. The newcomer has been placed in a cage on the hill where the wolves are kept.

The fact that it was a cold, rainy day did not prevent a good attendance at the zoo yesterday. There were large crowds of visitors throughout the day and the animals seemed to be more depressed by the bad weather than did the visitors.

At the Fripps conservatory in Schenley park also there was a good attendance. A beautiful display of cenetias, tulips, azaleas and Roman hyacinths was on exhibition.

GEN. MILES IS GUEST OF KING EDWARD.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Gen. Miles was the guest of the king and queen at dinner at Windsor castle tonight. The prince and princess of Wales and others were among the party. King Edward is in good health.

RUSSIAN TARIFF BAD FOR GERMANY

HEAVY INCREASE MADE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 1.—The Novoe Vremya publishes an article today in which it analyzes the new Russian customs tariff which was promulgated January 28. The paper says the increase in rates over the existing tariff is 50 per cent for the great majority of imports and over 100 per cent for many important groups, among the latter being delicatessen and various manufactures of wood, leather and metals.

The tariff, it continues, is characterized by a more detailed differentiation whereby the lower priced articles are taxed less than the higher priced ones, metallurgical products being particularly differentiated against, which makes a comparison with the existing rates difficult. Among the categories are electrical apparatus and bicycles. Differential treatment against imports over land compared to those brought by sea averages 20 per cent on coal, pig iron, iron, steel plates and metallurgical manufactures, machines and other instruments.

The Novoe Vremya observes that the increase over the treaty rates is naturally far larger than over the existing tariff law. Machines now pay $8 25, and under the new rate they will pay $2 30 to $7 70. The paper points out that all Germany's leading exports to Russia will be taxed under the new tariff 50 to 150 per cent over the treaty rates, and in conclusion observes that Russia is now sufficiently equipped for a discussion with Germany. The new rates, if applied, would seriously cripple mutual commerce, but the paper hopes that mutual concessions will obviate a tariff struggle.

STANDARD NEGOTIATES FOR GALICIAN FIELDS

Vienna Advices Say Price of $10,000,000 Has Been Fixed by Owners.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
VIENNA, Feb. 1.—It is reported that the Standard Oil Company is making an investigation into the conditions prevailing at the oil fields of Galicia, with a view to purchasing the entire properties.

American experts are now at Borysiav, an important petroleum center in Galicia, conferring with the owners. The price named is $10,000,000, but this is exclusive of some of the largest oil wells.

The Standard Oil Company's trade in Germany has recently suffered by the competition of Galician oil, the enormous production in Galicia causing prices to fall to the lowest point. The Schodnica Company, the largest oil producers in Galicia, yesterday reported a loss of $168,000 on last year's workings.

DEATH CAUGHT TRAIN-JUMPER

One Boy Killed and Another Fatally Injured in Braddock.

BARTENDER'S SUICIDE

Put His Children to Bed and Then Drank Carbolic Acid. Prisoner Dies in Jail—Other Morgue Cases.

While stealing rides on the trains passing through Braddock yesterday one boy was killed and another fatally injured. John Beitch, 10 years old, of No. 209 Crosby street, North Braddock, attempted to board a train leaving the station on the Pennsylvania road and was thrown under the wheels of a freight train passing in the opposite direction. His head was cut off. The boy had been warned by the railroad officers to desist jumping the trains. The engineer of the freight train saw the boy when he fell under the wheels of his train and stopped the engine. There were three other boys with Beitch and they escaped injury.

Bert James, 16 years old, jumped on the Washington and New York flyer of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Braddock, and after riding a short distance jumped off and was hurled into a telegraph pole. He was removed to the Mercy hospital, where it was found that his skull was fractured and his body was badly crushed.

After playing with his children and putting them to bed, Peter Kolper, 39 years old, of No. 116 Harcums alley, South Side, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid late Saturday night. He was a bartender by occupation and no reason could be assigned by his family for his act. He leaves a widow and three children.

Kolper was of cheerful disposition. He had been ill for about 10 days and was unable to work. Saturday he was much better and it was his intention to start to work this morning. He played with his children until after 11 o'clock Saturday night. He put them to bed and went to his room and prepared to retire.

At 11:55 he went to the bath room, and, pouring some carbolic acid into a glass, drank it. He returned to his room and was seized with convulsions. He died at 12:30 o'clock. Deputy Coroner John Kerr made an investigation of the case and said Kolper deliberately ended his life for some unknown reason.

William Cawley, 38 years old, dropped dead in the Springfield foundry at Thirty-second and Smallman streets last night shortly after 6 o'clock. He was employed at the foundry as a watchman and was married.

Oscar Collier, 26 years old, died in the Allegheny county jail last night at 7 o'clock of heart failure. Collier was committed to jail by Police Magistrate Bernard McKenna on December 6 on a charge of assault and battery for court.

He was alleged to have fought with Charles Banks, also colored, in the Pittsburgh gas works on December 3. Collier was married and his wife lives at No. 922 Beaver avenue, New York.

A post mortem examination was made in the death of Paul Shenk, who died in the Allegheny General hospital Saturday night under mysterious circumstances. It was found that the man was suffering with an enlarged heart. He came to the hospital Saturday morning and was coughing and spitting blood. Shenk was a butcher and boarded at No. 1900 East Ohio street, Allegheny.

By a crooked finger, the body of John Boyce, whose head was cut off by a train on the Allegheny Valley railroad on January 22, was identified last night at the morgue by his friend, David Donaghy of Millvale. Boyce was killed in the yards at Thirty-sixth street, and his head was so crushed that identification was impossible at that time. Donaghy knew Boyce for years and recognized his crippled finger when shown the body. Boyce was 50 years old and lived in Clarion.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Youngest Member of Legislature.

ANDREW ANDERSON THOMPSON of Fayette County.

Representative Thompson of Uniontown has the distinction of being the youngest member of the Pennsylvania assembly and before leaving his native town to take his seat declared that he had abandoned the banking business to enter politics as a profession. Mr. Thompson has but recently passed his majority. He comes from a family of bankers, his father, Hon. J. V. Thompson, being the president of the First National bank of Uniontown, which position his grandfather held prior to his death.

PASSENGERS WERE SURPRISED BY SUDDEN CHANGE OF ROUTE

Perrysville avenue car No. 358, southbound, was struck by Frankstown avenue car No. 3133, eastbound, at the crossing of the two lines at Penn avenue and Ninth street yesterday morning at 7:15 o'clock. The car coming from Allegheny was turned half-way around and the wheels were set neatly on the Penn avenue tracks, on which they ran almost to Garrison alley, half a block away, pushed by the Frankstown avenue car, before the latter could be got under control and the two cars stopped. There were three badly frightened passengers in the Perrysville avenue car when the crash came and their car suddenly was jerked from a southerly direction and, without stopping, began to speed east toward Lawrenceville. There were no passengers in the Frankstown avenue car.

The railway officials say the Perrysville avenue car had the right of way, but that the Frankstown avenue car became unmanageable through a failure of the brakes to work. No one was hurt. The only damage was a broken axle and some battered woodwork to the light Perrysville avenue car and scratched paint work to the heavy Frankstown avenue car. Street railway employes say it is the first time they ever saw or heard of a car being transplanted from one line of tracks to another at right angles as the result of a collision.

WHOEVER THREW THIS LAMP WAS VERY MEAN

Sunday Evening Social Fight Among Italians Ends With Burns for All.

Why anyone should be mean enough to break up a nice, lovely little Sunday evening fight by throwing a lamp is the question discussed with indignation among the Italian colony in Mulberry alley. Just when everything was going finely at the Italian boarding house at No. 133 Mulberry alley, the Sunday drinks were beginning to get their work in, the inevitable war of words had come to the still more inevitable war of fists, and the quarrel had embroiled the whole party, some one had to throw that lamp. Now Marttenno Rocho of No. 1637 Penn avenue is in the West Penn hospital, with many burns, and nearly all the others in the party are scorched more or less.

That there was nothing serious in the fight everyone knows. It was shown as soon as the lamp had exploded and burned the men. Rocho was the last in the party to escape from the house. As soon as the others could get hold of him they all helped extinguish the flames, which was accomplished by rolling him in the mud.

Some one turned in an alarm of fire and engine companies 15 and 17 responded. The fire was soon brought under control. About $150 damage was done in the kitchen and second floor.

RAILROADS FIGHT HARD AGAINST SAFETY LAWS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.

Between the brotherhoods of railway employes and some of the railroads of the country a great struggle is going on in the lobbies of the house of representatives over the pending bill re-enacting the law regarding the use of airbrakes and automatic couplers on freight trains.

The law was practically nullified by the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals, and the railroad employes, who number several hundred thousand, have brought forward another proposition, which will put the use of automatic couplers into effect so that it cannot be questioned.

This bill has been passed by the senate, and is now on the calendar of the house, having been reported favorably by Mr. Wagner of Pennsylvania from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

The railroad owners contend that it will entail a hardship and extraordinary expense on them. The employes say that unless there is some further legislation the whole scheme for protecting the lives of trainmen, which has been in force since 1893 and has reduced the number of casualties 68 per cent in the number of those killed and 81 per cent in the number of those injured, will become a dead letter.

POLICE DECLARE THEY HAVE SOLVED MYSTERY

Have Found the Man Who Bought Pistol With Which Allison Was Shot.

After making an investigation for 24 hours the Sheraden police claim to have cleared away the mystery connected with the alleged attack made on C. B. Allison of that place early Saturday morning. The officers say they will not have to make further search for the alleged assassin. As soon as Allison recovers sufficiently from the wound in his breast they say they will make a statement that will clear away the affair.

The wounded man was decidedly improved yesterday. His physicians dressed his wound yesterday afternoon, and they say he will be out in a few days. The police and the citizens of Sheraden say there was no one about the house at the time Allison says he was shot. The neighbors about Allison's home said they heard one shot early Saturday morning, but did not hear four, as claimed by Allison, who says he fired three times at the fleeing assassin.

The police took the revolver that was sent Allison through the mail, and the one that was found near the house after the shooting, to the hardware stores in this city Saturday night. They also took a photograph of the man who was suspected of having bought the revolvers with them. After considerable search they located the store where the revolvers were bought, and the photograph is said to have been identified by the clerk as the man who bought them.

The police refuse to divulge the name of the hardware dealer or the man who bought the revolvers.

MILLINERY STORE FIRE.

Overheated Stove Causes $3,500 Damage to Stock and Building.

Nathan Cohen's millinery store, No. 807 Fifth avenue, was damaged $3,500 by fire last night. The fire is supposed to have originated from an overheated stove left burning in the workroom in the rear of the store. When the fire was discovered the entire storeroom was a mass of flames, and before the firemen arrived had communicated to the second and third floors, used by the proprietor of the store as living rooms. It took the firemen over an hour to extinguish the fire and the entire building was gutted.

The loss on Cohen's stock and furniture will amount to $2,500, and the building was damaged to the extent of $1,000.

4,000,000 BUSHELS WENT DOWN THE RIVER

One of the Largest Coal and Iron Shipments Out of Pittsburgh.

One of the greatest coal and iron shipments in the history of Pittsburgh went down the river yesterday. The ice melted and broke away from the mouth, giving free passage, and with the water at 14 feet 3 inches and falling, things were in prime shape for a big shipment. Twenty-two tows, including 106 coal boats, 108 barges and 34 flats, with 8 barges of iron, passed down. The tows carried a total of 4,218,000 bushels of coal and 8 tons of coal iron.

The following are the tows that left Pittsburgh yesterday: Tom Dodsworth, 7 coal boats, 5 barges, 2 flats and 2 barges of iron; James Moren, 12 coal boats, 3 barges and 2 flats; Tornado, 5 coal boats, 1 flat; Clifton, 5 coal boats; Nellie Walton, 3 coal boats; Volunteer, 5 barges; Tom Reed, No. 2, 12 barges; J. C. Risher, 9 barges, 2 flats and 2 barges of iron; The Harlet, 12 barges, 3 flats; Joseph Walton, 7 coal boats, 5 barges and 3 flats; Ranger, 4 coal boats, 1 flat; Pacific No. 2, 12 barges, 2 flats; Dave Wood, 10 barges, 1 flat; Tom Lysle, 5 barges; Coal City, 10 coal boats, 2 barges, 1 flat and 2 barges of iron; Charlie Brown, 12 coal boats, 2 barges, 2 flats and 2 barges of iron; George W. Thomas, 6 coal boats, 6 barges and 2 flats; Iron Age, 11 coal boats, 2 barges and 3 flats; Ironsides, 12 barges, 3 flats; Ed Roberts, 12 coal boats, 2 barges and 3 flats.

Lively Time at a Christening.

During a christening ceremony in Gallagher's court, off Sixth avenue, yesterday afternoon, Joseph Tel, an Italian guest from Sharon, drew a revolver and fired a shot at Tony Archer. When Officer John Dean got into the place Tel was being beaten by Archer and Louis Tatzhor and they were sent to Central station. There Archer was also found to have a gun and Tathor a pair of brass knuckles.

One Heel Burned Off.

James Drumm of No. 615 Rebecca street, Allegheny, a heater at the Pittsburgh locomotive works, late Saturday afternoon, with his helper, was carrying a ladle of molten metal. Drumm slipped and the metal spilled on both his feet. One of his heels is entirely burned off and it is feared he will lost both his feet. Drumm's helper was slightly burned.

B. & B.

Commence stock-taking this morning.

Few days later than usual.

Stocks were large and we determined to sell them down to where we wanted them.

Therefore, today and the next three days people who come will get values that will pay as well—and in some instances better—than any they ever bought.

There are yet lots—in every department that we are not going to take into stock—and are going to sell.

Prices low enough—no difference how low—will be put on all such lots—small or large—that will sell them and do it prompt—today and every day until Thursday evening, when we close up stock-taking.

Note some tangible evidence. Prices and Goods.

Today a lot of All-Wool 65c Silk Striped Challies, 25c

Another assorted lot odd pieces $1.00 and $1.25 Woolens, 56 inches wide, 50c.
Odd piece of Voiles, Crepes, etc., 50c—chance to get Dressy Fabrics at half and less.
Small odd lots American Dress Goods, 15, 18 and 25c.
Double width 3-quarter Wool Jacquard Stripes, 10c
—all one shade, Dark Dahlia.

Wholesale surplus stock of Fleeced Wrapper Goods and Flannelettes all go over the retail counters at 5, 6¼, 7½ and 10c —doing this so we won't have to take them into stock.
Everybody who wants useful goods for now or future if they'll see this offering and quantity we're going to sell—and the values—will realize what an extraordinary opportunity this is.

has a number of odd pieces fine 75c and Dollar Evening Silks—White and Light Colors—it doesn't want to take into stock—therefore, 50c buys them.
Lot of wide and narrow stripe $1.25 Black and White Jacquard Figured Silks,
65c
—merchandise that's extraordinary, considering the richness of the Silks and the fashionable uses they can be put to.
27-inch Solid Black Taffetas there's too many of—
65c
—doubtful whether you'll soon again get a chance for any as good on that basis.

cloak room

TWELVE PAGES.

Dr. Broomfield, denying from the pulpit published statements about his position in the present political contest, used language that will well repay perusal. He gave reasons for supporting John C. Haymaker that will appeal to every right-minded citizen. Dr. Broomfield has a full appreciation of the responsibilities resting upon the recorder under the existing city charter and truly says it is a matter of the utmost importance that the man who occupies that position should be "of sterling character, one who is willing to allow 'his past record to be an earnest of his future.'" Incidentally he arranges the basis of his determination upon a series of incontestable facts that speak for themselves.

One of Dr. Broomfield's facts is that the Post, the organ of the Democratic party, admits the "weakness of the personality of the candidate of its party." He reasons shrewdly that such an admission on the part of the Post must be evidence of extreme unfitness, and it certainly is. The record of the Post will convince anyone who is familiar with it that the organ will swallow almost anything with the coating of the Democratic name. The fact that it gagged on Hays is significant. It is a little less significant that the Leader and Dispatch roundly denounced Bigelow's nominee, but they added their testimony to his total unfitness for the office of recorder. It is no wonder, under the circumstances, that the clergy turn to the man who has a clean record in official and private life; who has always been found on the side of law and order; who is recognized as able and courageous. And it will be no wonder, when the votes are counted, to find a vast majority of the intelligent people of busy Pittsburgh ranged on the same side.

Dr. Flick's plan for limiting the ravages of tuberculosis appears to cover every essential point. Fresh air, proper exercise and nourishing diet are the ground work, and these must be approved by every sensible person, whether there be reason to fear consumption or not. To this sensible regimen he adds the most scrupulous cleanliness to prevent possible infection by germs of the disease. Upon this point Dr. Flick says tuberculosis is not contagious, but is infectious. That opinion conforms to the evidence of ordinary observation and scientific research, and should put an end forever to the extremist proposition to isolate consumptives. Infectious disease will not infect any except those whose physical condition or habits make them a favorable propagating ground for the germs.

A most satisfactory way to avoid demands is to anticipate them. The leading railroads did this in giving an advance of wages. The Pullman Car Company gives, instead, a reduction of the working hours. It will hereafter pay the same wages for nine hours of work that it formerly paid for ten hours, though the change will entail the necessity of employing about 1,000 more men, according to the company's calculation. It ought to result in better work, however, for if the men can appreciate the concession they will give the best of which they are capable during the working hours. The movement toward the shorter working day is the natural corollary of labor-saving machinery and is becoming to some extent a necessity in great cities where so much time is consumed traveling to and from work. These are among the evidences of abounding prosperity.

In abandoning for the present the 20-hour trains between New York and Chicago, the Pennsylvania management goes on record as giving its preference to ordinary business. The decision is a wise one. The attempt to keep all obstruction out of the way of the "special" added to the prevailing freight congestion, and in spite of all efforts the congestion interfered with the schedule of the "flyer." It is more important to keep the freight and ordinary passenger trains moving than to cut off a few hours from the time consumed by a very few persons in traveling between New York and Chicago. This verdict will be indorsed by the general traveling public, the majority of shippers and the army of weary railroad men who are worn out with trying to do the impossible. By and by, when there are ample track facilities, the "Pennsylvania special" may resume at a faster clip than ever.

In the midst of the statehood fight there is grave apprehension that the Panama canal treaty may fail of ratification along with the Cuban reciprocity treaty, not to mention legislation for curbing the trusts. Already there are strenuous efforts on each side to place the blame upon the other. In the public judgment some share of responsibility will fall to each, but the greater offense is undoubtedly on the side of those who obstruct orderly proceeding as prescribed by the Constitution. Statehood for the southwest territories is not of such immediate importance that it ought to take precedence of vital matters as the canal and Cuban treaties, but having been given precedence, it ought to be disposed of according to the will of the majority. Senator Beveridge and his backers have a mighty slender excuse for the obstruction of public business in the plea that they are saving the country from the folly of a majority of the senate. They were not elected to the senate for that purpose, but to help transact the legislative business of the nation. Senator Quay's recent resort to the parliamentary trick of a rider is justified by the refusal of the opposition to face a fair vote. The foundation of the American system of government is majority rule. If the majority does not rule right, provision has been made for changing the majority.

It is one of the odd things of our national career that no memorial of Thomas Jefferson graces the national capital. This fact is brought to mind by the appeal of the Jefferson Memorial association, of which Admiral Dewey is president. Not only as the reputed author of the Declaration of Independence, but in the formation of our governmental system, Thomas Jefferson was a potent force. The struggle between Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton gave to the constitution of the United States its character, the cohesive qualities of Hamilton and the diffusive ideas of Jefferson—a government of sovereign states which are at the same time one and inseparable. Thomas Jefferson should have a suitable memorial as one in the first ranks of American statesmanship. He had his failings, for he was human, but his virtues were conspicuous. No history of the country could omit the personality or influence of Thomas Jefferson.

The wage conference at Indianapolis is not progressing smoothly. In fact, nearly every proposition made has resulted in an almost immediate deadlock. On both sides there appears an intolerant spirit, provocative of dissension. It is too early, however, to predict the outcome. The seeming arrogance may be born of a belief that unless an extreme position and ultra-stiff-necked demeanor is adopted the other side may insist upon exorbitant demands. We shall see. For three years the bituminous coal industry has been highly prosperous. Miners and operators have made money. There is nothing in sight to prevent another three years of the same desirable conditions except the failure of miners and operators to appreciate the advantage of peace, harmony and steady operation. Prosperous as they have been, neither can afford a strike or lockout, such as the anthracite region has suffered from. It would not merely mean losses while the conflict was on, but there would be extreme danger of killing the goose that has laid the golden eggs. Bluffing is all right in its way, but in such a case as this it had better not be carried too far.

LET US HAVE PEACE.

Baron Speck von Sternberg, if he has erred at all since touching foot in New York, has erred on the side of volubility. His expressions are of the finest sort, but his words would have been more convincing had they been fewer. Instead of disarming suspicion, he has made it more watchful. What is expected of Von Sternberg, now that he is here, is action. The American people desire to see results. The Venezuela situation, as the Washington dispatches say, is irritating and exasperating. "Smooth words butter no parsnips," and a perceptible jolly does not relieve the strain produced by the continuance of the blockade of the Venezuelan coasts in the face of a fair offer of settlement from President Castro. We do not doubt that 10 years ago Von Sternberg told Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt that he expected to congratulate him on being a step nearer the presidency, nor do we doubt that he congratulated Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department on having taken the step, or that he telegraphed to Gov. Roosevelt of New York: "The next time I offer you my congratulations it will be to President Roosevelt." But all this does not terminate the blockade. It may be in the nature of a guarantee that the blockade will be ended soon, but we do not forget that the delicate attention of a visit from the kaiser's brother, as the kaiser's personal representative, preceded the hostile move against Venezuela, and so when Von Sternberg piles Pelion on Ossa, or what is known in the United States as taffy, we wonder whether he is volubly endeavoring to conceal some new and unpleasant surprise. The Germans we are accustomed to are sturdy and straightforward, honest of tongue and honest of act; frank in purpose as in speech and not wasteful of words. Von Sternberg may be one of this sort; we hope he is; but volubility and insincerity so often go hand in hand that the voluble man is expected to prove himself before his sincerity is fully accepted.

The people of the United States are not children to be tickled with a song. We in America know Roosevelt perhaps as well as Von Sternberg knows him, and do not need to be told of his excellencies, nor that he is the "personification of what is good and great and healthy in America." It is more to the point to be told that "Germany is as anxious for an early conclusion of this question as any of the negotiators," but it will be more to the purpose for the baron to bring about this "early conclusion" he speaks of. We have had an abundance—even a surfeit—of friendly assurances from both Germany and England. What is wanted now is a speedy settlement of the business in hand.

UNHEEDED VOICES.

Auditor General Hardenbergh's proclamation to the general purport that the resources of the state treasury are not comparable with a purse of Fortunatus is intended for publication as a warning to institutions and interests seeking appropriations that they may as well prepare for the worst, as something will have to be cut. The announcement from the auditor general will not, however, dam or divert the flood. It and similar warnings from the governor and influential members of the state administration and legislature are always expected at about this stage of the legislative session, and only the very raw members are seriously impressed with them, and to the seasoned official of a state institution or charitable body that receives state aid, they are only so much sounding brass. Every person whose business it is to ask the legislature for an appropriation asks for all that he thinks the concern he represents ought to have, and adds something as a provision against accident or design. He takes into consideration the certainty that less than is asked will be granted and frames the request in accordance with his ideas of the assurances of fate, hoping that in the application of the ax it will be the other fellow's appropriation and the appropriation of the institution represented by the modest man who relies more on merit than on hustle that will be cut the worst. Warnings have little if any effect on the introduction of appropriation bills. They are principally useful to be pointed to by members of the legislature in justification after things happen. And things always happen. That is one reason for the appointment of committees of appropriations of the house and of the senate. It is in the committees and not in the introduction of bills that the demands of the institutions are fitted to the resources of the commonwealth, and often the perfecting process is left for the burdened governor. There is never enough money in the state treasury to meet all the demands on the legislature; there never will be. The cry of the daughter of the horse leech goes up constantly from institutions, good, middling good, so-so and wholly bad, and warnings are construed by each to be intended only for others. This is one of the things that makes it difficult to conduct the business of a great state.

RICHES IN ALASKA.

Alaska has been in possession of the United States for a good while, and until five years ago was looked upon by most people as a "white elephant." The discovery of gold on the Yukon river has changed all this. Alaska has been found to be rich in minerals and to have agricultural possibilities. Harrington Emerson, M. A., an engineer of international standing, who has returned from a second critical investigation of Alaska, publishes in the February Engineering Magazine a surprising estimate of the territory. "It is capable," he says, "of supporting a population of 10,000,000." That is rather more than the total of inhabitants of the Philippine archipelago. He declares Alaska has "a better climate and greater natural resources than an equal area of northern Europe supporting 10,000,000 inhabitants. This land, so rich, so fertile, has a seacoast of 23,000 miles everywhere accessible." Mr. Emerson does not rest with mere assertion, but marshals an array of facts that is convincing, touching only in the most casual way upon the fisheries, which were the chief industry of the territory prior to the discovery of gold in the Klondike.

The greatest need of Alaska is transportation. With its 23,000 miles of seacoast it is a singularly inaccessible empire. With the fourth largest river in the world and many other navigable streams, the cost of transportation prohibits the working of even its second-rate mineral resources. Ore has been quarried on the seaward peninsula running 70 to 80 per cent lead and 120 ounces of silver to the ton that costs more for transportation to the smelter at Tacoma than it is worth. Railroad development has begun, however, and these treasures will not long remain locked in the ice fields. This ore is but 50 miles from navigation by railroad survey, and the freight rate from Nome to Tacoma is only $3 a ton. By rail it need not exceed $1 per ton per mile to the coast, and the railroad will pay nearly the cost of construction every year at that rate, and then there will be a profit of $25 to $50 a ton in the rock.

The story of that one locality is the story of Alaska. In portions farther south there is fertile land adapted to the growing of wheat and vegetables that are needed and command high prices in the mining camps. They will be needed for many years to come. Such are the material facts, and it is time the government at Washington shall begin to give serious attention to the management of this vast domain. The laws ought to give encouragement to the development of the territory. First of all is protection to life and property rights, and second in importance the raising of revenues to provide means of transportation.

BLACKLISTING DRUNKARDS.

England's extraordinary law against drunkenness, which came into effect January 1, has been working long enough to make it possible to form some idea of its practical effect, and it looks as if the new law was going farther toward promoting general temperance than any legislation hitherto enacted in England. Every day since the law came into force the number of cases of "drunk and disorderly" in the London courts has diminished. In one court where such cases generally have averaged about 40 a day, the average number has dropped to less than 15. Even in the worst section of London the effects of the act are marked. All observers concur with the statements of the police reports that never before have the streets been so free of drunkards.

It is against the habitual toper that the new act is principally aimed. As soon as a man has been up before the magistrates as "drunk" a sufficient number of times to stamp him as a "habitual," saloonkeepers are furnished with his photograph and full particulars concerning him and are forbidden to sell him any more drink for three years. Anyone who does so is liable to a fine of from $50 upwards. Anyone who "treats" a man thus blacklisted can be fined $10 or sentenced to a month's hard labor. The drunkard himself, should he be caught asking for a drink during the three years of his deprivation, may be fined $5. Next time he is detected doing so he will be fined more heavily. That these stringent provisions are effective in actual practice is shown in a startling way by the fact that one blacklisted toper actually committed suicide because he found no way of getting the liquor he craved.

An important feature of the new licensing act is that the simple state of being drunk is made a criminal offense, and likewise the act, on the part of a saloonkeeper, of allowing a man already drunk to get any drunker. A drunken man or woman can now be arrested whether they make a disturbance or not. A saloonkeeper who has a drunkard on his premises has to prove that he has not supplied him with liquor if he wishes to escape a fine. The law also aims to protect children. Any person found drunk when in charge of a child is liable to a month's imprisonment with hard labor.

Because the working of the law is having good results in England it does not, however, follow that it would be efficacious in this country. In England the local agencies of administration are not "in politics" as the saying is. The officials who enforce the law are not elected, but are appointed by the general government, and they do not have to fear the political malice of the saloonkeepers and the topers. Laws forbidding saloonkeepers to sell to drunkards have been tried in this country, and the saloonkeepers have been made liable for damages resulting from acts committed by topers, but results have not been satisfactory.

Four dollars a pair claimed for chickens on behalf of a subject of Italy in Venezuela sounds like a high price, but it makes some difference whether payment is to be in coin of the United States or currency of Venezuela.

Six new hotels planned for Atlantic City indicate a disposition to annex another share of national prosperity before the Greater Cape May begins to compete for business.

As President Roosevelt says he won't go on his next bear hunt until he is a private citizen, the bear population has much at stake in the election of November, 1904.

There are millions in the new fire brick combine—$19,000,000, it is said—and the promoters hope there will be more to follow.

The declaration of the Hays spellbinders that the issues of this campaign are not moral issues is resented by the people.

Councilmen Ruhlandt and Shenkel want it understood that they are in good company. They are supporting Haymaker.

Placing of the blame for a railroad wreck isn't to be compared to prevention as a saver of life and limb.

By the way, who else is on Baron von Sternberg's presidential slate?

LAW ON WEEK DAYS, GOSPEL ON SUNDAY

Wealthy New Yorker Unites Apparently Incompatible Occupations.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.

There seems to be reason in the suggestion made by the Rev. Dr. Brandon Hamilton that young men of wealth and position should enter the ministry so that they would be competent to tell from the pulpit about the inner life of society. Dr. Hamilton has just been declared a full-fledged lawyer. He passed the law examination at the Grand Central palace in this city the other day and he means to practice as an attorney in the interests of various large corporations, at the same time continuing his duties as a minister. He believes that he can do much good along the lines of reform if he is a member of the bar and that his legal affiliations will help him materially in his work in the pulpit. This is a new development of ministerial enterprise and it has awakened deep interest throughout the city. He is a rich man and has the entree to society to a considerable extent, although it seems as if he does not care to spend much of his time in exclusive social circles. He made a bitter attack on bridge whist, Sunday golf and divorces not long ago and the "smart set" regards him askance. Evidently it will have still more reason to do so, for Dr. Hamilton announces that he is busy framing a measure for the regulation of divorces in New York state which he hopes will be regarded with favor in other states, so that it may become in effect a national law. The people of wealth in New York and Newport do not like their divorce affairs to be criticised by anyone, particularly a clergyman of fearless methods, and the chances are that Dr. Hamilton is laying up a large amount of trouble for himself. As for the business side of his venture as an attorney, it looks very hopeful, for his first clients will be J. P. Morgan, Henry Clews, William Starr Miller and the Newport Hospital association. We have had ministers that played at leap-frog, ministers that became actors, and a minister that took charge of a whisky saloon, but it is seldom indeed that a minister becomes a lawyer, and Dr. Hamilton may be said to have established a precedent.

Joker Is Five Dollars Loser.

It is an old adage that it is dangerous to joke with a strange bulldog or a policeman. A fresh young fellow in Harlem yesterday morning telephoned police headquarters and said he was Commissioner Greene's secretary. Then he asked a lot of questions, and was addressed deferentially as "Sir" by the headquarters officer. Soon after it was discovered that the young man was only a "joker." It did not take ten minutes to hustle him to a cell in the Harlem police station and he laughed on the wrong side of his mouth as he paid a fine of $5 in court a few hours later.

Citizens Have Cause for Fear.

One can hardly find fault with citizens along Park avenue making a fuss when they see their homes, as they think, in danger of toppling headlong into the subway. Rapid transit is an important public necessity, but the individual citizen who fears that his house is tumbling about his ears on account of the tunnel operations can hardly be expected to take a philosophical view of his own troubles because all his neighbors will be able to go up and down town faster than ever they did in their lives. The sinking of houses in Park avenue is not a new thing. Some months ago there was a general collapse of the fronts of a few houses there, and there might have been a dreadful disaster if prompt measures of safety had not been taken. One comfort is that the tunnel is about finished at that point and unless the jarring of the trains should shake the houses they ought to be fairly safe in future.

Paddy Divver's Dollars.

With the death of "Paddy" Divver, whose funeral took place yesterday, the "Patrick Divver association" probably will go out of existence. Of course, there is positive assertion that it will be continued in honor of the dead Tammanyite. But it takes money to keep up such an institution, and without the Divver dollars and dimes it will soon be found that the association is nothing but a burden. Besides, Tom Foley is leader of the old Fourth ward, where Divver used to reign, and anyhow, who cares for a dead ward politician?

Who Was to Blame?

References to the dreadful wreck on the Jersey Central were made in several sermons today. Of course, the allusions were to the suddenness with which the victims were called away, with the corresponding lesson for the hearers. But coming from church many of the worshipers were talking about the cause of the disaster and all the discussion that has been going on all the week was taken up again and threshed out. The general opinion here is that the railroad company was not entirely guiltless, although poor Davis, the dead engineer, comes in for his share of blame, too.

Trees Cannot Be Replaced.

There is a well-defined doubt whether the boulevard along the Hudson river, which was torn up for the Rapid Transit tunnel, will ever be as pastorally beautiful as it used to be. A number of shade trees were taken up when operations began on the subway with the understanding that they were to be replaced exactly. Now it is found that in many places the soil on top of the tunnel will be only about two feet. The roots of the shade trees require a depth of at least 10 feet. It is suggested that shrubbery should be set in these shallow spots, and it is likely that many shrubs will occupy the sites of the shade trees that have been taken away. New York loves trees and verdure, and this matter of trees and shrubbery along the boulevard is as important a municipal issue as we have.

The New "L" Schedule.

A new "L" schedule is to go into effect tomorrow. It is the one recommended by the state railroad commission. The public does not understand exactly what the schedule is, but believes that it will mean better service with more cars and seats for most of the passengers. As for details, the public has been pestered with details for months, trying to comprehend them while hanging to straps in the old familiar fashion.

Auto Trade Expects Good Week.

Automobiles still occupy an important place in the general attention in this city. Usually it is the week following the automobile show in Madison Square garden which sees most activity in automobile buying in New York. But last week was not favorable to automobiling and the activity has been pushed along so that it will be in full blast this week. A number of automobiles have been sold since the exhibition, but persons interested in that industry expect this week to witness the largest volume of business in that line that has ever been seen in New York.

Platt Holds a Confab.

Senator Thomas C. Platt strolled decorously along the broad lobby of the Fifth Avenue hotel this afternoon, shaking hands with several up-state Republican leaders at intervals. He sat in Amen Corner only for a few minutes. Then, at some signal or in pursuance of a tacit agreement, the up-state gentlemen followed the senator into a private room on the Twenty-third street side of the building and remained with him for two hours. It was just a friendly confab, according to the "easy boss" when he came smiling forth, but it is understood that the confab will exercise influence on legislation at Albany nevertheless.

Mark Twain Says Nothing.

Noah Brooks, the well-known editor of the old Times in New York has joined in the controversy over the authorship of the "Horse-Car Poem," so popular 10 or 15 years ago, beginning: "A blue trip slip for a five-cent fare; punch in the presence of the passenjare." Brooks says he and Bromley and two or three other newspaper men in the seventies composed it but that Mark Twain got the credit for it. One remarkable thing is that although Mr. Clemens is a resident of this city he has had nothing to say on the subject so far. Probably he thinks it not worth talking about.

Cabby Drove to Wrong Place.

Lee Young, mayor of Chinatown, suffered a funny misadventure yesterday. He had hired a carriage to take him to the New Year reunion of his countrymen at the office of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in Broadway, but forgot to tell the driver his destination. It happened that the carriage was the property of a Chinatown undertaker and the driver, thinking of something else, mechanically took his fare to the morgue at Bellevue—a place he has to visit nearly every day. When Lee Young found himself deposited at the gruesome dead house, instead of at the cheerful offices of the Canadian Pacific, he howled in disgust, and the driver said afterward, that the speech made by the mayor at the Canadian Pacific headquarters when he did get there was nothing like so impressive as his remarks at the morgue.

Capt. Lantry Unfortunate.

Police Captain Lantry, who ordered his detectives to walk into houses occupied by wealthy persons just to show how easily it could be done, has been rebuked by the commissioner of police and is regarded with disfavor by many of the rich men to whom he gave his object lesson. They think he is "an insolent fellow," to which he replies with still more uncomplimentary epithets. The probability is, however, that the lesson Lantry gave will not be wasted. He is unfortunate; that is all.

Sunday Golf in Jersey.

One of the signs of the times today was the playing of golf on several of the links in Jersey and elsewhere within easy reach of Manhattan. It was not exactly an ideal golf day, but it was possible to play, and that is all your golf enthusiast cares about. The caddies looked cold as they trotted about in their overcoats and caps pulled over their ears. But the players were as joyous as if it were regular spring weather. It was the first Sunday possible for golf for many weary weeks.

PERSONALS

A number of tailors of this vicinity left in the private car Zeta on the Panhandle last night for Cincinnati, where the convention of the National Association of Merchant Tailors begins tomorrow. The delegates were W. H. Hamilton of McKeesport, Bennett Rask of Greensburg, William H. Groves and Oscar F. Swope of this city. The alternates were John Sharpe, Louis Kable and Henry Ahlers, all of this city. P. M. Fitzgerald, an alternate of this city, will leave tomorrow. John Bradley of Pittsburgh, president of the board of trustees of the proposed tailors' home, was with the party. It is the intention to raise $50,000 to establish a home for aged and infirm tailors along the Hudson river. Mr. Bradley had with him a check for $1,000 for the fund, sent by M. Rock, a New York tailor. A resolution will be presented allowing the journeymen tailors to be eligible to enter the home on the payment of $50 for membership. The Cincinnati convention will also take up the question of establishing a protective association of tailors to combat the tailors' union in case of trouble between the employers and workers. Charles Stewart of this city is a candidate for the presidency of the national association, he now being the second vice president. W. H. Dixon of Philadelphia seems to have the inside track in the contest for the office.

Officials of the Knights and Ladies of Honor are gathering here for the ceremonies in connection with the initiation of a large number of delegates in this city on the 12th. The largest number that was ever taken into the order at one time will be initiated then. There are 29 lodges in Allegheny county of the 80 in the state. Among those who will act officially at the ceremonies are L. B. Lockard of this city, supreme protector of the United States; R. G. Lamberton of Oil City, past supreme protector; H. S. Blatt of Ellwood City, supreme financial secretary; W. M. McCullough, of Little Rock, Ark., and George D. Tate of Philadelphia, grand protector. The last named is now at the Monongahela house making arrangements for the affair.

The Rev. R. A. Boice, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Wood street, returned Saturday from an extended eastern trip. While away the Rev. Boice spent most of his time in New York city. He made a thorough investigation of the workings of religious and charitable institutions of the east.

The Rev. Dr. John Paxton, of the West Presbyterian church, New York, passed through the city last night on his way to Canonsburg and Washington, Pa., in which vicinity he was born and raised. He will officiate at the wedding of a relative here on Thursday.

W. W. Blackburn, a former official of the Carnegie Steel Company, started with his wife and family for Pasadena, Cal., last night. He will return in about two weeks, but his family will remain in California the rest of the winter.

Neighbors Visiting Pittsburgh.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Mrs. James Boyd.

Mrs. Nancy Emery Boyd, aged 65 years, died Saturday night at her home, Fifth street and Eastern avenue, Aspinwall, of rheumatism. Mrs. Boyd has been an invalid for the past 31 years, and has been confined to her room for 14 years. She was born at Slate Lick, Armstrong county, Pa., in 1838. In 1861 she married James Boyd, also of Armstrong county, who survives her. The family came to Aspinwall in 1899, where they have resided since that time. Mrs. Boyd was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Aspinwall. She leaves a husband and four children. The children are John E., A. Hillis, Elmer E. and Theodore Boyd, all of Aspinwall, all members of the firm of Boyd & Boyd, trunk manufacturers of Pittsburgh. Funeral services at her late residence tonight at 8 o'clock, the Rev. William Kuter of Allegheny and the Rev. M. S. P. Cochran of the First Presbyterian church, Aspinwall, officiating. Interment Tuesday in the family lot in the Freeport, Pa., cemetery.

Mrs. Nancy Frew.

Mrs. Nancy Frew, one of the oldest residents of Lawrence county, died Saturday night at the home of her son, J. H. Frew, of Slippery Rock township. She was 81 years old and was the widow of Murray Frew, who died 12 years ago. She is survived by seven children: J. H. Frew, Mrs. R. W. Brandon, Mrs. John Shaffer, Mrs. Scott McCaslin, Mrs. Charles Weller and the Misses Jane and Ellen, all of Lawrence county. Mrs. Frew was born in Shenango township, and her entire life was spent in Lawrence county. She was a member of the Center United Presbyterian church.

Elisha Morgan.

Elisha Morgan, head of the Morgan Envelope Company, president of the American Fine Writing Paper Company, vice president and director of the United States Envelope Company and a director in many other paper manufacturing industries, died at Springfield, Mass., yesterday from angina pectoris. Mr. Morgan was a presidential elector in 1888 and 1892, and was a member of Gov. William E. Russell's council in 1892 and 1893. He was one of the judges of paper manufacture at the World's fair in Chicago.

Dr. Henry Helfrich.

Dr. Henry Helfrich, the oldest resident of Lehigh county, died yesterday at his home in Allentown, Pa. Had he lived until July 22 next he would have been 100 years old. Until a few weeks ago Dr. Helfrich was in splendid health. He caught a severe cold and pneumonia followed. Although he had retired from the active practice of medicine many years ago, he still continued to prescribe for people who came to his home.

Miss Marie E. Poland.

Miss Mary E. Poland, daughter of the late Maj. John Poland, died at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Ann Poland, No. 720 Emily street, Crafton, last night at half-past 8 o'clock. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Obituary Notes.

Herr von Delbrueck, honorary Prussian minister of state, is dead in Berlin.

John Underwood, ex-county commissioner of Jefferson county, O., died suddenly yesterday at his home at Fernwood, near Steubenville.

Sir George Gabriel Stokes, master of Pembroke college, Cambridge, and formerly president of the Royal Society and of the British association, is dead in England.

Mrs. Annie M. Graham, aged 37 years, wife of J. A. Graham, died at her home in Allegheny early yesterday morning. She will be buried tomorrow night at 8 o'clock from the residence of her mother, Mrs. William Kennaweg, No. 1028 East Ohio street, Allegheny.

Betsy Hulet Foster, daughter of John Hulet, who fought in the war of the revolution at Bunker Hill, and who was present at the surrender of Burgoyne, died yesterday at Berea, O., aged 92 years. There are said to be now living but four daughters of men who fought in the revolution.

Roosevelt's Reply to Hoar.

From the Baltimore Herald.

Senator Hoar has been answered by Mr. Roosevelt in regard to the question propounded by the Massachusetts statesman concerning the alleged detention of a Filipino politician in the island of Guam. It seems that this man can leave the island at pleasure, but may not return to the Philippines until he has accepted the American sovereignty. This may appear harsh to Senator Hoar, but the average American is delighted to learn that trouble-makers are barred from the Philippines until they have decided to behave themselves after a peaceable fashion.

Subscribers and Principles.

From the Kansas City Journal.

The esteemed Commoner has reached the point where it considers more space in advising subscribers to renew than in urging them to stand loyally by silver. This smacks somewhat of commercialism.

"ONE OF THE BEST IN THE COUNTRY," SAYS A RIVAL NEWSPAPER MAN

Full of bright, pithy news stories, with illustrations that stood out clear and clean on the pages, The Sunday Gazette of yesterday held to the high standard it has marked out in the past and justified the remark of a man employed on another of Pittsburgh's Sunday papers, who said, regretfully, after going over its 44 pages: "Well, I will say that The Gazette is getting out one of the best Sunday papers in the country, and we can't touch you."

The reasons for The Gazette's continued superiority are manifold. It carries the largest and best force of writers in every department; its facilities for color and half-tone work are infinitely above comparison with those of any other Pittsburgh newspaper; it is edited and made up by experts; its cartoonist and the men who contribute to the comic section are among the best in the country; its wire service is unrivaled here, and its mechanical and press facilities are the envy of its competitors.

To enumerate the points of superiority brought out in yesterday's Gazette would be both invidious and tedious. The Gazette management, however, is particularly proud of its comic section. The unfriendly call of the Coon Hollow folks upon Br'er Groundhog brought together all the old favorites among the denizens for the first time in weeks. Simple Simon and the other familiars of the section were on hand, with some new and original stunts, and altogether the section was more comic than ever, and that is saying a great deal.

The paper, as a whole, was well-balanced and the various departments, long looked upon as authorities, each in its own line, more than sustained this reputation.

CAPITAL STORIES.

From the Washington Post.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean recently perpetrated the following jingle at the expense of the junior senator from Indiana:

Just when things seem runnin' smoothest in this blessed land of ours;
When there ain't no trouble brewin' in the way of foreign wars;
When, in fact, the lull's sufficient for to take a daily nap,
With a reasonable assurance that there's nothin' goin' to drap,
Then, it seems, up rises Beveridge, an' the wires begin to shriek
With the cheerful information—
Mr. Beveridge will speak.

Just when congress gits together for its yearly talkin' spell,
An' our many able statesmen have some burnin' thoughts to tell,
An' prepare to speak of Cuby, or of finance issues—then
I await the gay announcement, knowin' it will come again;
"The bill for coyote bounties is comin' up next week."
An' the s'perfluous addition:
"Mr. Beveridge will speak."

Or, if congress is recessin' an' there's goin'-on elsewhere—
More especially a banquet—why, then Beveridge he'll be there!
From the shores of the Pacific, where the settin' sun does set,
To the sands of the Atlantic, where it rises—you can bet
If there's any chance to orate, be the subject wild or meek,
Our friend from Indiana
Will be on hand to speak.

He can speak on any subject—oh, he'll open on the sly
This so obligin' statesman, an' he'll speak 'most anywhere;
He'll speak in prose or dialect, he'll also speak in rhyme,
An' he's always ready—Beveridge—to speak at any time.
An' when the angel Gabriel trumpets us to rise an' walk,
I'll bet a silver dollar he'll be
There to make a talk.

Now that the senator, by virtue of his position as chairman of the committee on territories, is compelled to do a little talking in order to carry on the filibuster against statehood, the Chicago jingle is having quite a cloakroom run. Yesterday typewritten copies were distributed, and senators of both factions seemed to be getting much merriment out of it.

JOKE ON SOUTHRONS.

Correspondence New York World.

President Roosevelt thinks he has a joke on the southern members of the senate. They are holding up the confirmation of Dr. Crum as collector of the port of Charleston because Crum is a negro. Still last week these same senators voted to confirm, and again to confirm because his name was wrong in the first nomination. Alexander B. Kennedy of New Orleans. Kennedy was nominated as receiver of public money. He is a very black negro.

"Perhaps they thought he was a Scotchman," said the president.

ORIGIN OF GREENHORN.

From the Washington Post.

The Democratic cloakroom of the senate held a congenial company yesterday, of which Mr. Vest of Missouri was the center. There were scintillations and pithy reminiscences, the conversation eventually turning to former Senator Turple of Indiana. All agreed that he was a man of erudition, and some one ventured that Mr. Turple, now residing among his own people in the Hoosier state, is one of the best informed in belles lettres of any man who ever came to the senate.

"I recall," interposed Senator Vest, "an incident along that line, which demonstrates what a perfect marvel Mr. Turple is in his fund of information. I was once in a company where a question arose as to the origin of the term 'greenhorn.' The question went around till it reached Mr. Turple.

"'Oh, yes,' observed Mr. Turple readily. 'It is a term that was used many years ago in venery, or hunting. The word was used of deer which at certain seasons of the year have soft and green horns and resort to muddy depressions in the landscape, where they can plunge those horns into the mud and water to cool

ALTOONA, PA., Feb. 1.—Dr. S. L. McCarthy, who has been recently renominated as a popular Republican candidate for school director in this city, is one of the most active and energetic educators in the commonwealth. He has served as a member of the Altoona school board for a number of years and aided materially in advancing the present excellent public school system of the Mountain City. Dr. McCarthy has also used his voice and influence to advance the public schools over the state.

SURRENDERS TO POLICE AFTER FAMILY QUARREL

New Castle Man Gives Himself Night in Prison and Is Then Released.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., Feb. 1.—Charles Biddle walked into police headquarters late last night and asked to be locked up because he had been having trouble with his wife.

He was accommodated and remained behind the bars until this morning, when he was discharged. Biddle said he and his wife attended a dance last night and quarreled on the way home. Instead of accompanying her home he turned back and had himself arrested.

After he was discharged this morning Mrs. Biddle appeared at headquarters and told substantially the same story, and was much relieved to hear that he was again at liberty.

DEBATE SEEMS DRAW.

Question Is Whether Government Ownership or Prohibition Is Solution of Drink Evil.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Opinion is divided here as to who won the honors in the three nights' joint debate upon the question, "Resolved, That the true solution of the liquor question is to be found in socialism rather than in prohibition." The Rev. Father McGrady of Bellevue defended the socialistic doctrines, while William F. P. Ferguson of Chicago appeared for the prohibitionists.

The debates were held in the Second United Presbyterian church and fully 1,000 people heard the closing arguments last night. The first night the speakers devoted themselves to the financial side of the question, and the second night was devoted to moral issues. Last night both sides were discussed at length.

The Socialists held that all the evil effects of liquor would disappear under a system of government ownership and control of all the means of production and distribution, which would eliminate all profit from the liquor business and take away the incentive to engage in it.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Two Italians Arrested in West Virginia for Killing Walter Flanagan.

KINGWOOD, W. VA., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Tony Cordi and another Italian charged with the murder of Walter Flanagan at Irondale mines in Preston county, W. Va., have been captured and brought to jail here.

Flanagan objected to one of the Italian paying attention to his sister. The Italians called him out of a store Thursday night and as he stepped into the darkness was received upon the point of a stiletto.

TWENTY-FIVE BAPTIZED IN ICY WATER OF CREEK

Five Miles from Nearest House, and Many Almost Perish from Cold.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

DUNBAR, PA., Feb. 1.—With a chilly wind blowing a gale and the thermometer 10 degrees below freezing 25 persons were immersed in the icy waters of Tucker run this afternoon.

Two weeks ago Evangelist Alex Dittmore of Uniontown started a series of protracted meetings in the mountain fastnesses, seven miles south of this place. This afternoon at 2 o'clock the converts left the little mountain schoolhouse and braved the storm to be baptized in the mountain stream.

Many almost perished from the cold, as the nearest house was a half mile from the place of immersion. When the evangelist immersed the last candidate he was almost prostrated from effects of the icy water.

SECURES LICENSE BUT NOT BRIDE.

COSHOCTON, O., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Miss Margaret Baker has returned home from a visit to Columbus and declines to discuss the issuance of a marriage license to John H. Mazeor of Gallipolis, in which she was named as the bride-to-be. Miss Baker will return to New York, where she is attending school.

Democrats Hold Love Feast.

ALTOONA, PA., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—An excellent picture of Henry George was presented last night by Warren Worth Bailey, editor of the Johnstown Democrat, to the Democratic association of this city. In tendering the gift Mr. Bailey paid a glowing tribute to the distinguished single-taxer, and it was accepted in a neat response by A. V. Dively of Altoona, on behalf of the organization. An address was also made by ex-Mayor E. F. Giles.

Stabbed Nine Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Late last night, at Brier hill, Thomas H. Delph was stabbed nine times with a penknife in the neck and face by Patrick Welsh. The men boarded at the same place and Welsh had a dispute with his landlady. Delph made a remark that angered Welsh and when they met Friday at midnight in a saloon, Delph tried to get away, but Welsh followed. Delph may recover. Welsh was arrested.

Mayor Brown Loses First Blood.

STATE LIBRARIAN JOB GOES BEGGING

Gov. Pennypacker Finds it Difficult to Secure Suitable Man.

SALARY NOT TEMPTING

Experts Consider Compensation Inadequate—Position Offered to Two Philadelphians and Both Decline.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.

Gov. Pennypacker is having trouble to find a suitable person to take the place of the Rev. Dr. George Edward Reed, as state librarian. The governor expects to spend a great deal of time in the state library during the next four years in search of material for his history of Pennsylvania and he would like a librarian whose tastes are similar to his own. None of the numerous applicants have these requirements and those to whom the governor has offered the place decline it because the salary of $2,500 is not sufficient inducement to justify them in devoting all their time to the office.

When Dr. Reed resigned during the last campaign to take the stump for Pattison, and Gov. Stone expressed a willingness to allow Pennypacker to make the appointment, the new governor tendered the position to his personal friend, J. Granville Leach of Philadelphia. When Mr. Leach would not have it Pennypacker offered the place to Thomas Lynch Montgomery, librarian of the Wagner Institute, Philadelphia. Montgomery agreed to take the office, but he has since been offered a life position with the Carnegie libraries of Pittsburgh, which he is said to have accepted. The governor has several other persons under consideration and it is expected he will make a selection soon, as Dr. Reed is very anxious to retire.

Strong pressure is being brought to bear on Pennypacker to retain Factory Inspector James Campbell of Pittsburgh, whose place is said to have been promised to Capt. John C. Delaney of this city. Theodore Shaffer of Pittsburgh, president of the Amalgamated Association of Steel Workers, and other prominent Pennsylvania labor leaders, together with a delegation of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh manufacturers, will call on the governor tomorrow and ask that Campbell be at least allowed to serve out his term which expires next January.

Senator Quay is said to favor Campbell's retention, but ex-Lieut. Gov. Watres of Scranton insists that Delaney be appointed, and it is expected the governor will send his nomination to the senate tomorrow night. The salary of factory inspector is $5,000 and he has the appointment of 25 deputies. Following the example of the governor, Attorney General Carson will not accept railroad passes. Attorney General Hensel of Lancaster always paid his railroad fare during his term.

W. N. Frew, president of the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute, said last evening that he had no knowledge of the tender of a life position at the Carnegie library to Thomas L. Montgomery of the Wagner library, Philadelphia.

"So far as I know, no proposition of that kind has ever come up, and it could hardly arise without my having official knowledge of it," said Mr. Frew last evening. "At the last meeting of the library board we were talking of Mr. Montgomery, and agreed that he was well fitted for the position of state librarian."

MINER BEATEN TO DEATH, TWENTY-ONE ARRESTED

Russian Who Worked During Anthracite Strike Is Killed by Countrymen.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., Feb. 1.—Constanta Soberlifski, a Russian miner, who worked during the strike, was today kicked and stabbed to death by 21 of his countrymen, who are mine workers at Plymouth and Larksville. The party went to a dance Saturday, many of them not returning to their homes until noon today.

The crime was committed on the public highway near the Boston mine breaker, at Larksville. The murdered man, with almost every bone in his body broken, was removed to the nearest undertaking establishment.

One of the murderers, Powell Ladofski, confessed, and the others were all rounded up by 7 o'clock this evening and committed to the Luzerne county prison.

A blood-stained handkerchief belonging to the murdered man was found in possession of William Krovitski when he was searched in the warden's office.

STEUBENVILLE O., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Michael Levinson, a young business man of this city, and Miss Ida S. Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cohen of Scranton, Pa., were married this evening at the home of the groom's parents. Guests were present from Pittsburgh and other cities.

Mr. Montgomery Will Recover.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The condition of the Hon. R. Montgomery, who has been suffering from hiccoughs for the past week, is somewhat improved today and he is expected to recover.

The paroxysms of Whooping Cough are at once relieved by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, and if this medicine is continued, it almost invariably effects a cure.

DRIFTING!

Many a woman is drifting, by means of the washboard, towards serious, perhaps irremediable, trouble. The strain of rubbing, the general wear and tear of washing in the old way, is a tax which few can endure without permanent injury.

WALKER'S SOAP

remedies all this. No washboard, no rubbing, no boiling and unwholesome steam,—no hard or wearing work of any kind—just soap the clothes, roll, cover with luke warm water for half an hour; then rinse, wring, and hang out. That's all. The result is clean, white clothes—and a bright, untired, pleased woman. No alkali, and no injury to hands or fabric.

BIRTH OF GREAT ORGANIZATION

IS THEME OF SERMONS

The Rev. Thomas Clayton Reviews the History of a Wonderful Movement for Good—Advantages to Young People.

Christian Endeavorers of the world celebrated the twenty-second anniversary of the founding of their organization. Sermons were preached with this as a special topic by several ministers of Pittsburgh and vicinity, and in many of the churches special Christian Endeavor exercises were given.

The Rev. Thomas Clayton, pastor of the First Congregational church, Allegheny, delivered a sermon in the morning on "The Past, Present and Future of the Christian Endeavor Movement." His text was taken from Acts II:17, "Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy." Mr. Clayton said in part:

The story of the Christian Endeavor movement is an illustration of how the prophecy of the text has been fulfilled. On February 2, 1881, the Rev. Thomas E. Clark, pastor of the Williston Congregational church, Portland, Me., gathered together 35 boys and girls in his parlor and pledged them to attend and take part in a weekly prayer meeting, and once a month to hold a consecration meeting. Other duties were assigned to various members, such as social, literary and religious.

The innovation became popular at once; other pastors were interested, for the plan met a deep felt need. Inquiries poured in from every quarter and new societies were organized upon every side. In 1885, the United Societies of the Christian Endeavor was organized and conventions were held which aroused great enthusiasm. In 1895 the World's Christian Endeavor union was formed, and it has its representatives among nearly all the nations under heaven, with a membership of more than three and a half millions. The advantages that it offered to young people were something to do, and the employment of their energies and talents in the service of the church.

The present status of this great organization is that it is now recognized as a great Christian force, destined to powerfully influence the future history of the church. Its great conventions held in our largest cities have deeply impressed both its friends and its foes. In 1894, when over 50,000 delegates met in New York city, a brewers' organ said: "If all Christian people were equally earnest and directed their enthusiasm against saloons, our business would soon be doomed." At Boston in 1895 over 58,000 were registered. The Christian Endeavor captured the entire press of the city for a week, and had a marked effect upon the city's morals, even the police court records showing a decrease of crime.

At the present time the organization is busy making intelligent Christian citizenship, and useful and competent church members. It is a unifying influence among the denominations and even among distant nations. Its future is sure to be bright, because being young in membership and spirit, it will readily adapt itself to new conditions and be equal to fresh emergencies. Statistics furnish but a meager estimate of the good which is being done among our young people by their church and society. It will hold the rising generation steadfast to Christ and to His church.

SUCCESSFUL LIFE OF A CONGREGATION

Celebration of Fifteenth Anniversary of Bethany Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The Bethany Evangelical Lutheran congregation celebrated its fifteenth anniversary yesterday. The services were in charge of the pastor, the Rev. John Weidley, who preached a sermon from the text, "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?" Matthew viii:27.

Bethany church was organized on January 29, 1888, with 33 members, in Smith's hall, Center and South Highland avenue. The congregation and Sunday school worshiped there until January 5, 1890, when a frame building at North Highland avenue and Kirkwood street was completed. The first pastor of the church was the Rev. G. L. Hamm, a graduate of the Gettysburg theological seminary.

The congregation worshiped in this temporary structure until the handsome new structure which is now used was finished and ready for occupancy, October 20, 1895. The present pastor, Mr. Weidley, succeeded Mr. Hamm, May 6, 1894. Mr. Weidley is also a graduate of the Gettysburg theological seminary.

During the 15 years of the congregation's history 711 members were regularly received. Of this number 550 are at present enrolled. The majority of the others have moved elsewhere.

DR. LEVY'S LECTURE

Says Hereditary Tendencies Are Largely Influential in Determining Religious Belief.

The Rev. J. Leonard Levy, rabbi of the Reform congregation Rodeph Shalom, delivered a lecture in the Temple yesterday morning on "The Faith of Our Neighbors." This lecture was a continuation of the rabbi's series on "Jewish Affirmations." Dr. Levy made a plea for sympathetic investigation of other people's beliefs and for the respectful consideration of the religious views of neighbors.

Dr. Levy pointed out how home influence and hereditary tendencies went far toward determining the view of religion taken by the people. "Born in Spain," he said, "one naturally becomes a Roman Catholic. Born in Russia, one naturally becomes a Greek Catholic. Born in Scotland, people naturally turn to the kirk. Born in Turkey one naturally turns to the mosque. Born of Christian parents, the children grow into the habits of Christians. Born of Jewish parents, the youth become strongly influenced toward the religion of Israel.

"Hereditary and environment are strong determining forces in our religious make-up. We cling with all the fibres of our being to the religious principles our mothers instilled into us while we were yet mere children. We are scarcely responsible for our religious tendencies, so much has been done to influence us in one direction or another before we ourselves have been able to reason. The greatest respect, the deepest reverence should be paid to the conscientious beliefs of devout people. Religion is so sacred a matter when it enters as closely into the secret influence of our moral and mental make-up that it should ever evoke a most careful and scrupulous regard of people who though religious, honestly differ from each in the point of view."

Germany's Intentions Are Open to Suspicion, Says Dr. Wood

"That Germany has no purpose but to collect a few thousand dollars from Venezuela," said the Rev. E. M. Wood, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, in a sermon yesterday morning, "the nations will be slow to believe. She came dangerously near bringing on active hostilities at the opening of the Spanish war and if reports can be accredited, at the close of the war with China she strenuously pressed her claim to a large section of Chinese territory. It is more than hinted at that by her interference the United States failed to secure the Danish islands.

"Germany, no doubt, is seeking larger colonial possessions, such as have recently fallen to the lot of the United States and England. To secure these she would adroitly sweep aside the Monroe doctrine and draw a line of possession around a portion of South America. We are aware of the profuse professions of friendship and diplomatically she will protest against such a purpose, but we are reminded of what Prince Bismarck once said, that he had never falsified except in diplomacy."

APPOINTMENT MAY BE FORCED UPON HIM

Propaganda May Not Accept Father Canevin's Refusal of the Coadjutorship.

Father J. F. Regis Canevin has declined to accept the appointment as coadjutor bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese. He was appointed by Pope Leo, but friends in Rome at his request are urging the propaganda to present another name to the pope. Father Canevin refused the appointment shortly after it was made, and despite the counsel of his friends he has persisted in his refusal. The pontifical briefs making Bishop Quigley of Buffalo archbishop of Chicago have arrived at the papal delegation in Washington, but the briefs appointing Father Canevin did not come, so that it is supposed Rome is considering Father Canevin's refusal.

The fact that Father Canevin has declined the promotion does not mean that he will not be coadjutor. Bishop Shanahan of Harrisburg declined his appointment even after he had received the briefs, returning them to the propaganda, but they were sent back to him and he was commanded to accept the appointment under his vow of obedience to the pope.

Father Canevin's refusal to accept the appointment was actuated by modesty. His friends say he has told the propaganda that he prefers to continue with his work as simple priest, and that there are others worthier of the honor and more capable than he.

ACCEPTED SECRETARYSHIP

Erie Pastor Will Take Charge of the National Reform Association in Pittsburgh.

The Rev. John A. Henderson, pastor of the Brown Avenue United Presbyterian church, Erie, Pa., has accepted the secretaryship of the National Reform association at Pittsburgh. He will receive $2,000 per year and expenses, and he will assume his duties at once.

The Rev. J. A. Henderson.

This is a new and important office for the extension of national reform work, which has never before existed. Mr. Henderson was offered the position over a year ago, but then declined to accept. He was again offered the position the first of the year and last week consented to come. The headquarters of the association are located in the United Presbyterian Board of Publication building, No. 209 Ninth street.

CHURCH UNION MEETING.

Methodist Protestant Organization to Hear Reports This Evening.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Methodist Protestant church union of Pittsburgh and vicinity, will be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight, in the Braddock church, Sixth street and Margaretta avenue. The pastor, the Rev. F. W. Perkins, will have charge of the services, and the pastors of all the churches and the delegates of the union are expected to be present.

After brief devotional service the work of the union will be presented by the president, the Rev. B. W. Anthony, and by the secretary, the Rev. Robert J. Young. Opportunity will be given for conference and discussion.

Services in the Jail.

The Rev. E. R. Donehoo conducted religious services at the county jail yesterday afternoon. He was assisted by Morris Stephens, J. N. Bebout and Thomas Hanna, three of the quartet of Franklin lodge of Masons.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

The Rev. R. M. Fowles will read a paper before the Methodist Episcopal ministers this morning on "Subjects of Inspiration in Gennesis."

The Rev. George E. Hawes, pastor of the Braddock United Presbyterian church, preached a sermon yesterday morning on "Remembered by God."

The annual meeting of the Conference Educational society of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in the chapel of the Methodist building, this city, next Monday afternoon, February 9, at 2:30 o'clock.

The Rev. A. A. Lambing, rector of St. James' Roman Catholic church, Wilkinsburg, quietly celebrated his sixty-second birthday yesterday. The venerable father is in good health and conducted the services yesterday as usual.

A missionary rally of the Epworth Leagues of Pittsburgh and vicinity will be held in this city on March 20. "Africa" will be the subject for discussion. A special program has been prepared for one of the meetings, entitled "An Evening in the Diamond Fields of Africa."

The Rev. George T. Street, formerly of the South Side, pastor of the First Baptist church, Braddock, did not preach to his pupil yesterday for the first time since he took charge there. He is confined to his home with injuries sustained in a street car accident at Edgewood last Wednesday.

Most of the Braddock churches which have been holding special meetings for "Prayer" during the past two weeks, will not discontinue them, as had been arranged, but will go on holding the meetings indefinitely. The work has been a great success and many conversions are reported.

The services at the Wilkinsburg Presbyterian church yesterday morning were devoted to missions and prayer to pave the way for the coming of the Rev. E. P. Hammond, the evangelist, who will begin a week's revival at the church next Sunday. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Thomas Parry, will assist in the revival services.

The new Second Cumberland Presbyterian church yesterday morning were dedicated next Sunday. The Rev. A. Turner, president of Westminster college, will preach the dedicatory sermon. A union service will be held in the church at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, to which all the ministers of the vicinity have been invited.

MODERN CRITICISM UNDERMINING FAITH

Rev. Dr. Alonzo J. Turkle Discusses the New Theology.

The Rev. Alonzo J. Turkle celebrated the fourth anniversary of his pastorate at Trinity Lutheran church, Allegheny, yesterday. At the morning service special music was furnished by the Gettysburg college glee club. The pastor preached a sermon from the text, Ephesians, 1:3, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ."

In his sermon, Dr. Turkle reviewed the work of the church during his pastorate and dwelt upon the causes for thankfulness that are evident at the beginning of the fifth year, and said:

It is a cause for gratitude that we have been kept true to the great and precious doctrines of the gospel and therefore to the distinctive doctrines and practices of our church. During the past few years there has been much disturbance in the theological world. A so-called new theology has sprung up and a destructive criticism has sought to undermine the faith once delivered to the saints.

Many churches and pastors have become unsettled in their faith and some have drifted far away from evangelical truth. But this congregation has stood firm in the old ways of doctrine and has held persistently to the integrity of God's word. Ours is not a nondescript church. We heartily believe the distinctive doctrines as set forth in the great reformation and which are especially the heritage of our church, are the mighty truths which we are commissioned with all earnestness and diligence to set before the world. While we hold that all evangelical Christians are God's people, and while we extend most cordially and fraternally the hand of fellowship to all who exalt the crucified Christ, still our church is distinctly and positively precious to us because of the way it sets forth the gospel of salvation.

WILL FIGHT REPEAL OF PROHIBITION LAW

Wilkinsburg Citizens Hold Mass Meeting and Plan Remonstrance to Legislature.

A large mass meeting, composed of representatives from various societies and churches of Wilkinsburg, was held in the Wilkinsburg Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon for the purpose of taking action against the bill now pending in the legislature for the repeal of the prohibitory liquor law relating to Wilkinsburg and vicinity. The Rev. Thomas Parry, pastor of the church, called the meeting to order.

John A. Keys, Republican nominee for burgess of Wilkinsburg, was chosen chairman and the Rev. Paul S. Leinbach, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, secretary. A. W. Duff stated the object of the meeting, and referred to the necessity for prompt action. Addresses were made by the Rev. M. M. Patterson, the Rev. John A. Bennett, the Rev. Thomas Parry, Councilman D. B. Douthett, S. H. McKee and others.

The speakers laid special emphasis upon the importance of concerted action in order to forestall any inroads of the liquor element. The fact that a struggle will take place as soon as they attempt to have the passage of the bill stopped was admitted.

It is the purpose of those protesting against such a measure to kill it in the committee, and with this end in view a committee composed of A. W. Duff and D. B. Douthett were appointed to draft a remonstrance, to be signed by the citizens of the borough, and sent to Senator William S. Woods and Representative H. W. Scott at Harrisburg.

In addition to the opposition to the repeal of the prohibitory law, the meeting also declared in favor of supporting the bill providing for a state local option law.

GREAT CROWD AT BIJOU.

Audience Asked to Write Views on Condition of City Government and Suggest Reforms.

One of the largest audiences ever attending a religious service in the Bijou theater was at the meeting yesterday afternoon conducted by the Rev. S. Edward Young. Mr. Young's sermon was entitled "Four Groups of Our Community." Each group was illustrated by a Biblical quotation. An entirely new set of views of Ben Hur was reproduced by stereopticon.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Young requested each of those present to write him a personal letter setting forth the condition of the city government, as it seems to them at the present time, and to suggest what measures, if any, should be taken to reform it. Mr. Young will preach a sermon on this topic on next Sunday.

The special musical feature was the singing of the child artists, Frida and Amalia Wiehens von Gogh, who are known as the "Juvenile Opera Singers." They sang "Elsa's Prayer," from Tannhaeuser and "God Bless You," in French. The chorus was directed by Benjamin F. Butts.

Strike Closes Smelter.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Feb. 1.—Three hundred employes of the Golden Reward smelter have gone on strike because one man was laid off. About 700 other men will be thrown out of employment, the company having decided to close down two of its large mines. The cyanide plant and smelter have been treating about 1,000 tons of ore daily.

Historic Building to Be Razed.

PHILIPPI, W. VA., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The court house at Philippi has been ordered torn down. It is one of the most historic structures in West Virginia. It sheltered the Union forces in one of the battles of the civil war, the confederates having been routed by Gen. McClellan.

CATHOLICS PLAN A CELEBRATION

Big Meeting Will Be Held in Honor of Pope Leo's Silver Anniversary.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

Every Parish and National Society of Diocese Is Represented On the Body—No Parade, but a Great Gathering.

The Roman Catholics of the diocese of Pittsburgh have decided to have a fitting celebration of the silver jubilee of Pope Leo XIII. No parade will be held, but there will be a big meeting in some large hall in the city on the Sunday upon which the twenty-fifth anniversary of the pope's reign will be celebrated.

The meeting at which the decision to have a celebration was reached was held yesterday in the Cathedral lyceum on Fifth avenue, and delegates from 30 parishes attended. A committee was appointed, which organized and appointed committees on finance, on hall and on program. F. W. Imekus is chairman of the general committee, and F. D. McKeever is the secretary. The celebration will probably be held on Sunday, March 1, although the anniversary date is February 20.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Imekus, who was named as chairman of the meeting. Father J. F. Regis Canevin spoke in favor of having a big meeting as the feature of the celebration, rather than a parade. Religious services, he said, would be held in the morning in all the churches of the diocese. The general committee that was selected is composed of a man from each parish and from the national Catholic societies, and each delegate is assessed $10, although all of them are at liberty to induce their parishes and societies to contribute more. The committee will try to engage Exposition hall if it is possible to have the hall heated.

T. M. Hughes, Sacred Heart parish; Dr. Bird, St. Thomas of Braddock; William Mueller, Holy Trinity; Andrew Stock, St. Michael's; Joseph Grabowski, St. Stanislaw's; Joseph J. Wittman St. Mary's, Sharpsburg; R. A. Ennis, St. Bridget's; James E. McVey, Annunciation, Allegheny; M. Winslauer, Holy Name, Allegheny; Joseph Reiman, St. Agnes's; Peter Keller, St. Peter's, South Side; John Kamenzski, St. Adalbert's; W. F. McHugh, St. James; Leo J. Altmeyer, St. Joseph's Charge; Harry T. O'Leary, St. Mary's, Lawrenceville; A. J. Depp, St. Joseph's, Allegheny; T. A. Woltersdorfer, St. Philomena's; Sylvester Herzenrother, St. James, Bloomfield; F. J. Wilkerson, St. Andrew's, Allegheny; Peter W. Joyce, St. Mary of the Mount, William Bell, St. Richard's; Victor Spacti, All Saints, Etna; William Fromm, St. Joseph's, South Side; Martin T. Donnelly, Immaculate Heart, E. J. Sheehan, St. Patrick's; Philip Proehlich, St. George; D. J. Coll, St. Agnes; Dennis Donohue, cathedral; R. A. Ennis, A. O. H.; M. J. Donnelly, A. O. H.; R. J. Devlin, C. M. B. A.; F. W. Immekus, Federation of Catholic Societies; John A. Morhon, Polish Knights; Frank Devinski, Polish uniformed society; J. J. Brown, Catholic Order of Foresters, and John Zens, German Diocesan league.

The sub-committee are as follows:

Hall, J. J. Brown, J. Reiman and B. Ennis; program, F. W. Immekus and J. H. Reiman; finance, Andrew Stock, Joseph Grabowski and T. M. Hughes; printing, Mathew Winbauer, William Mueller and William Gaertner.

A meeting will be held next Sunday afternoon at the Lyceum to perfect arrangements and hear a report on the progress of the work.

MAN'S POSSIBILITY.

The Rev. Patterson Names Examples for Good and Evil.

"The Responsibility of One Man Chasing a Thousand," was the subject of a sermon delivered by the Rev. C. D. Patterson in the Tabernacle Baptist church yesterday morning. His text was taken from Joshua xxiii:10, "One man of you shall chase a thousand." Mr. Patterson said in part:

Not many of us consider sincerely the importance of framing rightly the life of an individual. The power of one man in our world is significant. Suppose that power is toward evil, what fatal results! The family of Jukes has cost the state of New York $1,500,000. It cannot be estimated what they have done toward debasing and degrading society. This is the result of one evil woman.

Catherine De Medici persuaded her son Charles IX. to start the massacre in Paris. The result was France lost thousands of her best citizens. Jezebel drove her house and kingdom to the dogs. Achan in the camp of Jericho but to do wrong, and the whole nation suffers therefrom. If Satan is successful in securing one Judas, he has succeeded in effecting one of the cruelest deeds in history.

The possibility of the man for good is as suggestive as the possibility of one man for evil. John Bunyan is considered the last in Bedford, but who produced a freedom and progress. Columbus discovered America against obstructions. The one motion of Abraham Lincoln emancipates 4,000,000 slaves. Thomas Scott, who is styled the silly dunce, produces a Bible commentary, which is placed in every home and clime. One individual properly disciplined can control a thousand.

ETNA IN DARKNESS.

Power House Runs Out of Coal and Electric Light Plant Is Forced to Shut Down.

Owing to a scarcity of coal the power house of Etna, Pa., shut down yesterday and the town last night was in darkness. Local dealers are unable to supply the borough with coal to run the engines in the electric light plant and it is probable that the town will be without light for several days.

The borough is supplied with water from the Allegheny city water works and so has plenty of water, but the scarcity of coal makes it impossible to operate the engines at the power house, and so the borough remains in the dark.

ORGAN TO PLAY FOR ORCHESTRA

MISS TWO CONCERTS

When the Work Is Completed It Will Give Scope In Elaborate Music—Being Done Under Supervision of Organist Lemare.

When the rebuilding of the big organ at the Carnegie music hall is completed it will be possible to use the organ in the concerts of the Pittsburgh orchestra. This is one of the chief purposes in the proposed work, but other ends will be served at the same time.

Organist Edwin H. Lemare said yesterday: "The organ will be brought thoroughly up to date and fitted for the big programs given at the hall. Its tone generally is to be improved. Some of the old stops will be revoiced and new stops will be introduced in place of several of the old ones. There will be no additional stops, however.

"The scale of the new pedal board will be introduced. This is a new feature in the United States. I have introduced it here from England, where it has been in use for several years. While I have made several improvements in it, I cannot claim the honor of its invention, but my name has been given to it here. It makes the organ easier to play and also gives it scope for more elaborate music. The rebuilt organ will be more suitable for orchestra performances, and it will then be possible to use it in connection with the Pittsburgh orchestra, which is now impossible."

Mr. Lemare said that during the course of the rebuilding only the concerts of February 14 and 15 will be missed, the organ being used on other concert days while the improvements are under way. On the two dates named he will substitute for the organ recitals a lecture or possibly a piano recital, the first he has given in Pittsburgh. He was originally a pianist and his ability is widely recognized on the piano as on the organ.

The firm which is to reconstruct the organ at a cost of $2,000 is the Hutching-Voter Organ Company of Boston, the successors of the firm of Voter & Co., which built the instrument originally. It is expected that the whole will be completed by the last of March. Organist Lemare will have entire supervision of the work.

Yesterday afternoon's recital was largely attended despite the unpleasant weather. The program as given below was rendered with an andantino by Chauvet as an extra. The third number, Morandi's Allegro Vivace, was repeated. The program was: Marche Religioso, Guilmant; Berceuse, Goltermann; Allegro Vivace, Morandi; Vorspeil, "Lohengrin," Wagner; Duo, "Quis est Homo," Rossini; Romance in D flat, Lemare; Coronation March, Meyerbeer.

MISS BARTON REPLIES TO PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Says Objectionable Provision of Red Cross Society Indorsed by Administrations.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Replying to the recent letter of the president's secretary, George B. Cortelyou, requesting that public announcement be made that the president of the United States and his cabinet cannot serve as a board of consultation of the American National Red Cross, Miss Clara Barton, president of the society, has addressed an explanatory letter to President Roosevelt.

Referring to article IV. of the constitution of the Red Cross, providing for a board of consultation, consisting of the president and his cabinet and certain high officials of the army, Miss Barton points out that this provision was fully indorsed by President Arthur and his entire cabinet, and accepted by succeeding administrations. Continuing, Miss Barton writes:

I recite these facts to you, Mr. President, as an earnest that neither was usurpation practiced nor discourtesy intended in the late proposed change in the article of the constitution.

Thus, Mr. President, if in the continuing of your honored name and that of your cabinet in our administration of the Red Cross, I have committed an error so grave as to merit a reprimand and be required to make an open denial before the world of the privileges I have assumed, the powers I have usurped, the disrespect shown the honored heads of the nation and my unavoidable and deep humiliation thereat, I shall prove my good citizenship by exact and willing conformity with and obedience to the command, by the publication of your honorable letter, and such replies as I have been able to make, in order that no misunderstanding of your relations can possibly occur.

Trusting that these concessions, faithfully submitted may prove a sufficient notice and guarantee to the public of the disconnection which you desire from the organization which I have so long conducted, I have the honor to subscribe myself,

Your obedient country woman,
CLARA BARTON.

COAL OPERATORS HAVE SOME FEARS

Afraid an Agreement Detrimental to This Section May Be Made at Indianapolis.

SEVERAL START WEST

Will Use Their Influence to Prevent a Scale Being Adopted on the Run-of-Mine Basis at the Joint Convention.

Many of the coal operators of this vicinity fear that in some way the joint convention in Indianapolis between the miners and operators may give the miners some concessions that will be detrimental to the interests of the industry here. Several of the leading mine owners' representatives left last night for the Indiana capital to aid in any way in securing the adoption of a scale that will not work injury to this section. The miners want a scale on a run-of-mine basis, but it is claimed that this would not suit for this part of the country on account of certain conditions that prevail here. Illinois now has a scale on the run-of-mine basis, but wants it changed. The easterners fear the western operators may secure enough influence to make it universal unless the latter can carry the point and secure a screened coal basis.

Among those who left here last night were, George Schleuderberg, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Coal Company; Col. J. P. Walsh, sales agent of the same company; John H. Jones, president of the Buffalo & Pittsburgh Coal Company; George Magoon, president of the United Coal Company, and Christ Wieser, an independent operator of Robbins station on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

The local men hope for a compromise agreement being arrived at by the convention. They also stated that there will be no cessation of work after the new scale goes into effect on April 1. Some of those who went last night had been in Indianapolis shortly before, but the seeming urgency of the situation caused them to start back after they had returned home.

WILL REBUILD AT ONCE.

Glass Factory of the Pittsburgh Company to Be Speedily Reconstructed.

RICHMOND, (ND., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—No time will be lost in the rebuilding of the factories of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, recently destroyed at Elwood. Engineer William Pfeltz of Pittsburgh has inspected the ruins and left for Chicago to purchase all the material necessary for a new building.

Elwood, Ind., will make a strong bid to become the headquarters of the National Flint Glass Workers' union. This is in view of the fact that it has been announced the headquarters are to leave Pittsburgh. Many glass workers are anxious to have their headquarters come to Indiana. Marion, Ind., would also like to have them, and it is reported here that Wheeling and Toledo are also to be considered.

The Muncie Co-Operative Window Glass Company will shortly be incorporated. The capital stock will be $75,000 and workmen from all over the state are being taken in. The factory will be one of the largest in the west. The location is not yet definitely settled.

SHOT BY HUSBAND.

New Jersey Man Calls Upon Estranged Wife and Finds Waiter Ramsey Making Call.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Walter Ramsey of Harrison, N. J., was shot and instantly killed in the apartments of Mrs. George McDowell, at Harrison, today, by Mrs. McDowell's husband. He left the house after the shooting taking his wife with him, and has so far eluded the police.

Mrs. McDowell later surrendered to the New York police and was turned over to the Harrison authorities. According to her statement she was in another room when her husband entered and shot Ramsey.

McDowell and his wife had been living apart for some time.

CHAIRMAN HART HAS PREPARED A PLAYING SCHEDULE

LOCATION IS MADE PUBLIC

New York American Team Will Play Near the Polo Grounds.

SITE IS A POOR ONE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1.—The location of the American league grounds in New York is no longer a secret. Several club owners in the National league are aware of the spot that has been selected, and it was during the informal conference of club owners, Frank DeHaas Robison of St. Louis, Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh and Garry Herrmann of the local club, that this information was imparted.

From what can be learned, the American league has leased property suitable for a ball park, just about five blocks beyond the Polo grounds. This it seems is only one of three locations the American league had in view, but it appears that it is the one of which they will have to fall back on. All the other sites necessitated the closing of streets, and the American league has found so much opposition in its efforts to do this that it has abandoned all hope and concluded to build its park on the grounds mentioned.

While the building of a ball park on this site will make good the claim of the American league that it would have grounds on Manhattan island, the grounds will be in an inaccessible location, there being no street or elevated cars within five or six squares of the park. It seems to be the opinion of the National league men that the American league had an option on the property mentioned and would not fail to place a club in New York. It is believed that the location is a poor one and will prove a losing proposition.

An informal conference between the three club owners took place here today. Barney Dreyfuss joined President Robison and Gerry Herrmann at the Grand Hotel this afternoon. Mr. Robison's suggestion to have the western teams of the National and American leagues meet in a series of games before the season opened did not meet with favor. It was the consensus of opinion that it would be better to allow the clubs in the west arrange their own exhibition games.

While this subject was under discussion, it leaked out that President James A. Hart of the Chicago club and the chairman of the schedule committee, has prepared a schedule and submitted it to the various clubs. This schedule arranges the opening of the season from April 9 to 22. However, it is not likely that so early a date as April 2 will be accepted. It is believed best to open the season about the middle of April. Mr. Robison, who was anxious to have a schedule arranged for games with the American league clubs in the west, was not in the least disappointed when his suggestion was turned down.

"I only suggested the matter because I thought it fair to the other clubs in the west," said he. "I could have arranged a number of games with the American league clubs, but I did not want to do that without consulting the other clubs in my league. They will only be exhibition games, of course. It is the opinion of Dreyfuss and Herrmann that it will be best to allow every club to arrange its own schedule for exhibition games. I consider that perfectly satisfactory."

MURNANE LAUDS PULLIAM.

Well Known Baseball Writer Hurls Bouquet at National League's New President.

Tim Murnane the well-known Boston baseball writer, hands out the following eulogy on Harry C. Pulliam, president of the National league:

"Who ever thought for a moment that Harry Pulliam of Louisville would make an ideal president of the National league? But a few years ago he was a clerk in the office of Zach Phelps, a well-known lawyer of Louisville, Ky. Phelps was a lover of baseball and was engaged as counsel for the American association.

"No man ever faced a more serious proposition than did Pulliam when he accepted the new office, and the chances are that he would never have taken the place but for the loyalty of his personal friend, Barney Dreyfuss. Jim Hart, too, had always shown a confidence in Harry Pulliam, and to these two men has the league feel obligated for selecting so good a man for the office.

"Right after the New York meeting Director Conant, of the Boston club said to a friend: 'Oh, Pulliam will be figurehead. Young Soden is the man who will run the league.' There were others who had an idea that easy-going Harry would be easily led and would need a mentor. Pulliam, however, has confounded them and jumped into the work with a will and kept going until he gained ground for the old league. He went against Brush, Soden and the others in a manly, straightforward way, and showed that he knew the game and the way to reach conclusions.

"Pulliam has had enough newspaper experience to know the men who manufacture baseball gossip, and will not allow Dan Johnson to have the entire good will of the scribes, but will gain a fair share for the old league.

"Pulliam is a good 'mixer,' can tell a good story, and has a faculty of holding friends after making them."

Big Inducements for Young Corbett.

If it comes to a matter of money Young Corbett will be offered all the inducements in reason to meet Terry McGovern at Hot Springs with Jack McClelland, the local featherweight fighter. McClelland's manager, James Mason, left last night for Philadelphia prepared to post the champion a purse of upwards of $5,000 for a fight with McGovern in June or July. Mason proposes to make a handsome side bet, which will make the mill a trifle more interesting for the participants. If Mason fails to get Corbett to sign the champion says he will try to get Callahan to meet McClelland in a local ring some time soon. Young Corbett fights Billy Maynard before the Washington Sporting club, Philadelphia, tonight.

Evening Baseball League.

The Swissvale Athletic club will again have a baseball team in the field this year. It will practically be the same team as last year, except that one or two places will be strengthened up. Swissvale people are interested in forming an evening league, that is to have the league in the twilight games every evening, Tuesday and Friday evening throughout the summer, thus giving the teams Saturdays open to play any team they choose. Any manager interested in the league is requested to address Daniel Gaffan, Swissvale, P. O. Last year Swissvale played 26 evening games, winning 20 of them, tieing two and having four called on account of darkness before five innings could be played.

Date Not Fixed.

As yet no date has been fixed for the meeting of Eddie Kennedy and Jimmy Handler of New York. Manager Billy Corcoran expects to receive Handler's signed agreement this week, and will at once conclude the preliminary arrangements to pull off the mill. The bout will probably be held in Pittsburgh the latter part of the present month. While no hall has been secured for the contest, it may be brought to the Smoky City. The affair promises to be one of the best 10-round arguments ever held here, and much interest has already been centered in the match. Kennedy seems to be improving wonderfully of late, and he has a large following among the fistic lovers of this section.

Tigers vs. Ramblers.

The Tigers of Allegheny of the Junior league will play the Ramblers at Glendrew this evening and a good game is expected as the Ramblers have not been defeated and the Tigers have been playing a fairly good game. Saturday night they played Sharpsburg almost to a standstill, except for a few unlucky minutes, when the score was run away up. The Tigers would like to hear from President Buckhart about their next few games, because under his instructions they cannot play them on the schedule now in force. They are also wanting games with the Tigers address William N. Robson, 130 Allegheny market, Allegheny.

Dunn Gets a Fight.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Feb. 1.—(Special)—Jimmy Dunn, the featherweight fighter, has been matched to meet Young Truman of Brooklyn at St. Louis in a 10-round bout. Dunn has been located at St. Louis for the past month, where he went to secure engagements. He was unable to get a bout with any local men. His fight was to have occurred January 27, but Truman injured his arm while in training and it was declared off. New articles have now been signed and the mill will be pulled off about the middle of this month.

Gun Club for Duquesne.

Jacob Straub, who has been active in gun club circles in the Monongahela valley towns for a number of years, has decided that Duquesne has good material for a club of their own, and has started a movement for the formation of one. Ten marksmen of the town have already signified their willingness to form a club, and a half dozen others have promised to join within the coming week. A meeting will be held Wednesday night to form the organization. The organization will be chartered, and grounds will be secured for spring shoots and for clay bird and live bird tournaments.

TEAM OF SOLDIERS AND ATHLETES

THE NATIONAL GUARD CHAMPIONS.

JOHNSON MAY VISIT NEW YORK THIS WEEK

He Is Expected to Announce Location of American League Grounds If Secured There.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—If Ban Johnson is sufficiently recovered from his illness, he may start for New York some time this week. When he arrives here it is possible that the location of the grounds of the American league will be made public. Accordingly it will be, if any grounds have been secured.

The repeated assertion that the American league has been balked in its effort to secure a location in this city is borne out by the statement of a real estate broker, who says that the deal which had been contemplated fell through when the American league men found that they could not get the proper influence together enough of it to close a street near the Harlem river. It is doubtful if they or any other organization ever will be able to do so, as real estate dealers insist that the city cannot afford to establish such a precedent.

Meanwhile the committees of both leagues on rules and the schedule may meet in Chicago some time within the next 10 days. The American league committee is composed of Benjamin Shibe of Philadelphia, Thomas Loftus of Washington and John E. Bruce of St. Louis. It is qualified to meet both the schedule committees and the rules committee of the National league.

Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh is chairman of the former and James A. Hart of the latter. As most of the members of the committees reside in the west, Chicago was chosen because easier of access to them. There will be no hitch on the rules except possibly on the matter of the foul strike.

SULLIVAN TO SPAR.

The Great John L. Has Promised to Don the Gloves at McCormick's Benefit.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—The latest volunteer to the benefit of J. S. (Marcon) McCormick is "yours truly," John L. Sullivan. The big fellow wired the committee in charge of the benefit to be given in aid of the indisposed sporting writer that he will be on hand to don the gloves. McCormick, it will be remembered, was the man who started Sullivan on his career as a pugilist.

It is probable that the old-time champion will spar with Joe Choynski, who knocked out Peter Maher here last Monday night. Many subscriptions already have been received from sporting men all over the country, and the testimonial promises to be one of the greatest successes of its kind ever given.

The program has virtually been arranged. Jim Corbett will spar with Gus Rubin, Jack McAuliffe will don the mitts with Jack Fogarty, Kid McCoy will face Jack O'Brien, Terry McGovern and Young Corbett will meet again, John L. Sullivan will exchange love taps with Joe Choynski, and the other stars of the profession also will appear.

LIVELY BIDDING EXPECTED.

Many Clubs Will Offer Good Purses for Sharkey and Munroe Fight.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Tom Sharkey and Jack Munroe, the miner pugilist who put Champion Jeffries down with a blow, will be matched during the week for a battle to take place in the near future.

Sharkey has just returned from West Baden, where he has been doing light training, and Munroe has returned to resume his theatrical engagements on the Bowery.

The match between Sharkey and Munroe has been hanging fire ever since Munroe knocked out Jeffries. Immediately after the contest Munroe was challenged by all of the heavyweight aspirants, but Sharkey's challenge was the first to reach him, and for that reason the latter was given the preference.

There is no doubt but that there will be some lively bidding among the matchmakers to secure the mill. The International Athletic club of New Haven is anxious to get the bout, but there is some talk of the men meeting in a six-round bout before one of the Philadelphia or Chicago clubs, where only six-round bouts are permitted.

The sports, however, would prefer to have the bout limited to 20 rounds, as such a battle would give them a better line on Munroe and show just what this big miner is capable of doing in a long contest. It will take him some time to get into condition, although it is his intention to do work while engaged on the stage.

Manchester vs. Lyceum.

An Allegheny County league game will be played tonight at Manchester Turner hall by the Manchester and Lyceum teams. Manager Dargan's boys have broken their losing streak and are now putting up as fast a game as the best. The Manchester team is now in third place and needs the game to hold that position. If they lose they will be tied with Lyceum. Line-up:

Lyceum.	Manchester.
Kramer	R. F. Rosenbloom
Thompson	C. F. Koch-Skillings
Randall	Center Metzkes-Tiny
Geisler-Land	L. G. Graham
Casbodollar	R. G. Berry
Hefferan-Little	L. F.

FAMOUS HORSE'S STRANGE HISTORY

GOES TO AUSTRIA

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LEXINGTON, Feb. 1.—No horse now on the turf has a more romantic history than Poindexter, 2:09, the son of Abbotsford, recently sold by Thomas W. Lawson for exportation to Austria. In the spring of 1898 an old darkey told Dr. W. F. Dickerson of a promising trotting colt near Stamping Ground, Ky., owned by a young man by the name of J. L. Poindexter.

At the time Dickerson was buying promising young trotting material, but he wanted geldings, and paid little attention to what the negro told him of the merits of the youngster. A few weeks later he again visited that section of the country, and once more ran across the old darkey, who again reminded him of the colt. Dickerson finally drove down and looked at the youngster, and was much impressed with the speed he showed to the halter, but the price asked for him, $350, was a little above his limit, especially as he wanted only geldings. When Dickerson got home he commenced to think of the speed that green colt showed and at last time was on he could not get the colt at Stamping Ground off his mind. Summer came and passed, autumn and winter followed, and summer came again, still Dickerson could not forget the brilliant lot of speed shown by the Poindexter colt.

Hunt for the Horse.

One day he made up his mind to go to Stamping Ground and see the colt again, and buy him. Upon arrival in the neighborhood he was told at first that the colt had been sold, but he was determined to find Poindexter, ascertain who bought him, hunt the parties up and still secure the speedy youngster. He found young Poindexter and learned that the colt had not been sold but was in a livery stable at Frankfort, where he was held for a debt of $80, his young owner while on a lark at the capital one night putting the colt up as security for this small sum of money, which he had lost over the cards. Poindexter later told Dickerson, under the financial embarrassment he was laboring, if he wanted the colt for $250 he could have him, and Dickerson wasted no time in buying the youngster. Eight weeks later he drove him a mile over the old Nicholasville fair track in 2:22½, and then shipped him to Lexington.

The first time he ever set him down a fast mile here he went in 2:14½. Dickerson was fitting him to race at the 1899 meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association, when he received a telegram from Mexico that his partner and half owner of the colt, Tom Embry of the Union stock yards, Cincinnati, had died suddenly of yellow fever. Of course all the partnership had to do was to get a bill to settle the Embry estate, and they were all entered the next winter in a sale here. Dickerson had named the colt Poindexter, and Thomas W. Lawson bought him for $6,250. For the Boston millionaire Poindexter got a record of 2:09 in trots, and was just nosed out of the third heat in 2:08¾. He was taken sick and thrown out of training nearly the whole season of 1900. Dickerson says Poindexter is not only the greatest stallion ever exported to Austria, but had he been handled from the word go Poindexter would be a candidate for championship honors.

Is a True Trotter.

Jimmie Gatacome, Scott Hudson's partner, told Dickerson when Poindexter was being campaigned by Lawson in 1901, he saw the horse twice trot a half in 1:00¾, a 2:09 clip. Poindexter is one of the few true trotters, taking his brilliant record with no toe weights of any description and wearing an eight-ounce shoe. Horsemen will watch with much interest his performance in Austria this season, as it is the general opinion he will make the most brilliant campaign in 1902 of any American trotter yet exported to that country.

H. C. Moody, the well-known Eminence trainer and driver, has rented stable-room at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association track for the youngsters, and will also here in a few days. He has nearly that many more horses he will take up the first of June, so he will have, all told, some 20 head in training by summer, out of which to pick a string of young campaigners for race this season. He has several prominent candidates for Futurity and other stake honors in his stable.

FOUL STRIKE RULE MAY BE DROPPED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The fate of the foul strike rule, used by the National league for the past two years, will be decided at the joint session of the American and National league committees this week and the deliberations of that body will be of considerable interest to the ball fans throughout the country.

The critics are practically unanimous in predicting that the rule will go, and the old rules used by the American league be adopted. Whatever way the matter is decided, it will undoubtedly be settled amicably, but a long discussion is likely to precede the final decision.

President Hart of the Chicago National League club is the father of the foul strike rule, and Ted Hanion, a companion of the National league rules committee, has also been an ardent supporter of the law.

The rule, which calls a strike "a foul tip ball not caught on the fly, unless two strikes have been called," necessarily helps the pitcher, and at the time the change was effected it was Col. Hart's plan to equalize matters by allowing the batsman to take his base on three strikes instead of four.

In the discussion which will come up this week this phase of the change will undoubtedly be advocated by President Hart, and perhaps by Hanlon.

The most of the fans have noticed little difference between the two rules, but all are a unit for uniform law between the two leagues.

It is believed that Loftus, Shibe and Bruce, the American league representatives, will all favor the abolishment of the foul strike rule, and if Max Fleischmann, the third member of the National league committee whose position is as yet unknown, should side with the Johnsonites there is little chance for the rule to survive in any form.

President Hart has stated that if on the first vote there is a majority against the rule he will shift on the next ballot with the majority so as to have the final decision come unanimously if possible.

It is probable that the committeemen will hold their deliberations here not later than the middle of this week, and their deliberations will be watched with interest by all followers of the game.

THE THREE RIVERS.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1.—River 31 feet and rising. The thaw of the past 24 hours has raised the river quickly. The Peter Sprague, the monster towboat of the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, will arrive here tomorrow at noon. She left land at Point of Woods last week for repairs. The Joseph Walton and John Moren passed up at 2 o'clock this morning with empties for Pittsburgh. The Exporter and Boaz passed up at 4 a. m.

EVANSVILLE—River 13.6 feet. The Joseph Fowler cleaned boilers here and departed for Paducah.

MEMPHIS—River 10.7 feet and rising. The Georgia Lee arrived this morning from Cairo and returned. The Sadie Lee, after being delayed by getting aground near Randolph, arrived this evening. Several steamers due today failed to arrive.

PADUCAH—Gauge 17.1 feet and rising. Cloudy and warm. The John S. Hopkins left at 3 a. m. for Evansville. The New South arrived at 11 a. m. from Cincinnati and left at 2:30 p. m. for New Orleans. The Joe B. Williams passed up for Louisville with empties.

CAIRO—River 22.7 feet and rising. The Herman Paepcke arrived from below. The Peter Lee departed for Memphis. The S. H. H. Clark arrived from St. Louis with four loaded barges.

GREENSBORO—River 11 feet 8 inches and rising. Blue down Monday. Woodward up.

OIL CITY—River 6 feet 10 inches and falling.

WARREN—River 6 feet and falling.

MORGANTOWN—River 11 feet and stationary.

GALLIPOLIS—River 37 feet 6 inches and rising fast.

STEUBENVILLE—River 25 feet 7 inches and falling. Up—Sam Clark, Jim Wood and Fred Wilson.

POINT PLEASANT—River 39 feet 7 inches and rising. Cloudy and cool; light ice running. Up—Henry M. Stanley, Keystone State, Convoy.

MARIETTA—River 28 feet and rising. Kanawha up at 10 a. m. Ice has been passing all day.

WHEELING—River 28 feet and falling. Ice about all gone. Departed—H. K. Bedford, Parkersburg, 2 p. m.; Queen City, Cincinnati, 4 p. m.

PARKERSBURG—River 30 feet and falling 2 inches an hour. The Kanawha passed up for Pittsburgh at 4 a. m.

CRESCEUS TO BE PACED BY AUTO

King of Trotters Will Make Novel Attempt for New Mark.

AFTER ICE RECORD

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Having proved himself too speedy for any of the living trotters, Cresceus, 2:02¼, champion of the world, is to be driven against an automobile next season in his attempt to lower his present world's record.

George H. Ketcham, owner of the champion, is a man of ideas, and he does not hesitate to carry out an idea when he thinks there is to be an advantage gained by doing so. Having had trouble with pacemakers in his record trials, Mr. Ketcham has decided to send the famous son of Robert McGregor against an automobile instead of a running horse, as heretofore.

Last season Mr. Ketcham sent Cresceus against a motor cycle, as an experiment, and the big chestnut showed a great flight of speed in his effort to keep in advance of the rapidly moving machine.

One advantage the automobile has, it is said, is the fact that its speed can be regulated so that it will force the champion to step his best and at the same time not overtax him.

Cresceus, without a doubt king of all the trotters, is as fearless as a lion. Unlike other spirited pacers, he is afraid of nothing. Once he gets the word to go, the champion is off like a flash. He is all business and does not give any other object his attention. For that reason he is not afraid of an automobile, although it is Mr. Ketcham's intention to get a machine that will make as little noise as possible.

Next month Cresceus will be seen in the ice races at Ottawa, where he is engaged to be driven exhibitions against time. After his engagements in the north he will be retired to the stud for a time, after which he will be prepared for his campaign next season. On February 5 the champion is scheduled to beat the world's ice trotting record. The best time made is 2:08¾.

"When Cresceus goes against time next season," said Mr. Ketcham, "he will have an automobile as pacemaker. It will not be until late in the season, however, as Cresceus has other engagements that will keep him off the track. What little racing Cresceus will do in the future will be against time. You know the horse is now nine years of age, and he doesn't get into condition as fast as these young fellows. I have decided for reason never to enter him in a race again. There is nothing in the talk about my horse racing Lord Derby at Cleveland next summer.

"I am now arranging a tour of the northwest for the next summer. I will take Cresceus as far west as Portland and Vancouver, and with that trip finished we will have visited every quarter of this country. I had thought of taking the horse to Europe, but I am now anxious to go to the northwest instead."

CHICAGO EXCITED OVER DINNER ORGY

MANY DANCING GIRLS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Local Masonic circles are tremendously stirred over a midnight orgy two nights ago in the shrine rooms in the Medinah temple. The affair was in connection with a so-called "Oriental" stag, with dancing girls in very scanty attire, living pictures of a most sensational character, stereopticon views of a very risque type and other features of a salacious kind.

The affair is said to have outrivaled the notorious Seeley dinner given in New York some years ago. It had been privately announced as a stag entertainment, and though it was expected that the "fun" would be "fierce," few who attended—and there were many prominent business and society men present—were prepared for the wild orgy that was provided after the banquet.

The "Little Egypt" of the occasion was a Madame Delano, and her disrobing act and subsequent performances evoked shouts and cheers from the hundreds of male guests, who crowded up almost over the footlights. Fifteen girls, from the regular music halls, followed with their individual exhibitions on the stage, and, urged on by the calls of the spectators and the showers of coin thrown at them, threw all reserve to the winds.

In the living pictures as many as eight and 10 women posed at a time, and the subjects they illustrated made the audience wild with delight. The famous "Love and Life," the painting which is in the White House, was the tamest of the series. The lantern views were also very true to nature.

The so-called "Orientals" have no connection with the Masonic order. Some of the leading Masonic officials favor an investigation by the police. It is certain a great scandal will develop as a result of the affair.

Dual College Gym Meet.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—After several months of preparation the college gymnastic season will be generally opened this week by a dual meet between Columbia and Yale in the Columbia gymnasium on Friday evening. Columbia has been practicing very hard to win, but has been handicapped by the absence of last season's best men and the lack of any satisfactory new material to take their places. Yale ought well to meet with comparative ease, having last year's intercollegiate championship team practically intact.

HERRICK SEEKS FORAKER'S HELP

Is Said to Fear Convention Stampede for Dick for Governor.

RACE IS FREE FOR ALL

M. E. Ingalls, President of Big Four Railroad, Consults John R. McLean About His Boom for the Democratic Nomination.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 13, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.

Col. Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland will visit Washington this week, closing the procession of Ohio gubernatorial candidates who have been wending their way Washingtonward ever since the fight for the place warmed up in Buckeye Republican circles.

John R. Malloy, secretary of the state Republican committee, and a loyal lieutenant of State Chairman Dick himself, has accepted the contract to round up delegates for Herrick. There will be more significance attached to Herrick's visit than there was to the arrival of Albert Douglas of Chillicothe, or State Senator Warren G. Harding of Marion, gubernatorial candidates who were here recently. Each of these gentlemen bravely announced after brief interviews with Senator Hanna that they considered the fight an open one, and that Mr. Hanna would not exert himself in the matter outside of Cuyahoga county.

Col. Herrick will see Hanna of course, but he will see Foraker as well, and he would like to be able to satisfy the senior Ohio senator so well of his fair intentions on the patronage question in case he is elected that he will meet no opposition from that source in the convention. For there is a ghost that haunts the pathway of the Herrick boom and will not down—the ghost of Congressman Charles Dick. Despite formal statements and private talks to the contrary, Herrick and his friends have never been able to banish, from their minds the possibility of a convention stampede toward that popular leader. Dick's friends have not altogether given up hope either.

M. E. Ingalls of Cincinnati, president of the Big Four railway system, has been in Washington talking Democratic politics with John R. McLean. Ingalls has been named by friends as a Democratic gubernatorial possibility. Whether he would accept that nomination or not seems yet uncertain, but McLean and he are alike interested in wresting control of the state machine from Tom Johnson's hands before the coming state convention and in the reorganization of the Ohio Democracy on the old-time anti-Bryan lines.

IN THE OIL FIELDS

There was a lack of interesting developments in the lower southwest fields during the past week. The number of wells completed during that period was about equal to the previous week, but there was an increase in the number of good producers. Importance as to location was one of the features that had little to do with development work. What operators are most anxious for is new producing territory. At the present time there is no concerted effort making to discover the location of new pools. Within a few months this class of work will be a feature in West Virginia and southeastern Ohio. In the first named state large blocks of territory have been leased and testing the territory will begin in earnest as soon as the weather conditions and the roads will permit. In Jackson and Braxton counties a large amount of experimental work is contemplated. When the Sand Fork pool was discovered in Lewis county, an effort was made to carry the producing lines into Braxton, but the outer limits of the Sand Fork pool were defined long before reaching the borders of Braxton county. Since then there has been an occasional well drilled, but up to this time Braxton county has no producing wells. New talent and capital has been attracted to these two counties and if success follows it will not be on account of following the old theories as to northeast and southwest degree lines.

The deep or Gordon sand territory again leads in wells completed and new production. The Foleys district and the Pine Grove extension in Wetzel county still holds first place in development work and in new production. The wells, about a dozen in both districts, completed during the week, have proved fully equal to the first one of the lot in the Delmar Oil Company's No. 8 on the W. T. Ice farm, located on the east side of the Folsom district. Its production for the first 24 hours after drilled in was 280 barrels, and at the close of the week was credited with 225 barrels a day. The South Penn Oil Company also secured some good wells in the same locality.

Four new test wells were completed in the Pine Grove extension, furnishing additional evidence that this is valuable producing territory. More than two-thirds of all the work now under way or starting in West Virginia is confined to these two districts. In the Fish Creek district there is an increase in new work that exceeds that of any in the past six months. It for the most part is of the kind that attracts but little attention for the reason that it is nearly all located inside of defined limits.

Very little new work is starting in the shallow sand district in Pleasants and Wood counties. This territory seems to have been pretty thoroughly worked over. Operators are still trying in Ritchie county, but new pools are extremely hard to locate. Just across the Ritchie county line in Wirt county a new well of the wildcat kind has been drilled in on Camp run that is showing for a good producer in the Big Injun sand. The owners, McCormick & Co., have secured a large block of leases on this field and will centrally located, and if they have discovered a new pool can have things very much their own way.

The test wells drilled in near Harrisville and Pennsboro, Ritchie county, furnish a very small incentive to continue operation in that quarter. One duster and a 5-barrel producer was the result of the week's efforts to find a new pool.

The two weeks old gusher of the South Penn Oil Company, on the Jesse Talkington farm in Harrison county, is no longer in the spouter class. It was just two weeks ago that the well drilled itself in and started to flow at the rate of 60 barrels an hour. For a very few days it showed considerable strength and then started to decline at a rapid rate and would stop at the close of the second week by making 105 barrels to its credit the last 24 hours. For Gordon sand territory this was a remarkable stump and has caused the projected operations for that locality to be revised. Instead of a half dozen or more wells being started at once, the number has been cut down to two. Despite the rather poor showing made by the Talkington well it does not follow that the stretch of territory between the Folsom and Wallace district will not be connected up with the continuous line of producing wells. The only result will be to conduct operations along more conservative lines than was first intended.

The best results on the Ohio side are now found in the Big Lime district in Monroe county. In the Sycamore Valley district, north of the Clear Fork development, several good wells were drilled on the farm of the Ohio Southern Oil Company, got a fine Big Lime producer on Clear Fork. In the same district some fairly good wells were found in the Keener sand.

In the Ohio sand territory in the Wolf Creek district in Washington county, more good producers have been completed in the vicinity of the large well on the Frank Ford farm. This seems to be a rich spot in this pool, which is now in its infancy.

The new developments are not coming up to what was expected of them a few months ago. The new development near Uniontown, Fayette county, finished three new wells during the week. Two were dry holes and the other a good producer. It is now the opinion of those familiar with the development work that it has been completed, that the limits of the producing territory have been fully defined.

The new pool near Knoxville, Jefferson county, is very much in the same plight. It contains a few undeveloped territory but like the other lacks regularity in formation.

Plum Run is quite active, but this too, has been denied. All of the late efforts to extend the field have proved futile and there is nothing left but the development of the interior.

In a half dozen Southeastern Ohio counties some new work of an experimental nature is starting, but the general work will increase with the approach of spring.

Columbus Summer Meet.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 1.—The Columbus Driving association, which was given the week of September 21 in the grand circuit, has decided to give a summer meeting July 13 to 17, inclusive the week preceding the opening of the grand circuit at Detroit. About $30,000 will be hung up in stakes and purses. There will be six early closing stakes of $1,000 each, three for pacers and three for pacers. There will also be 10 purses for pacers and nine for trotters of $800 each

REST IN STOCK MARKET BENEFICIAL TO TRADE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.

Aside from the developments in the money market, Wall street presented for consideration during the week nothing of novelty and little of interest. In the speculative field the deadlock continued unbroken, the manufacturers and jobbers in securities being unable or unwilling to part with their wares at prevailing prices and the public showing no desire to purchase. The bond division of the market showed practically no change from recent weeks, either in the aggregate of sale or in price movement. If there be any foundation whatsoever for the reports which find publication in some quarters, that European investors are making discriminative purchases of bonds of American properties, the transactions must have been negotiated very quietly. They are certainly not disclosed by the record of purchase and sale on the exchange. If such transactions have been made by private treaty the market tendency for bonds would seem to indicate that the banker has learned a trick from the druggoods merchant and the steel manufacturer—that of cutting his price to foreign consumers in order to reduce surplus stock and prevent competition in or disturbance of the home market.

The purely professional element in the stock market naturally chafes under the prevailing apathy upon the part of the public. To them a market to possess attractive features must be ceaselessly moving—either up or down. It makes little difference which. Yet a period of rest is not the worst thing which could happen to Wall street. It will certainly permit the absorption of some securities, the development of domestic commerce and manufacture, and the gradual reduction of the country's foreign indebtedness. The interval of quietude is particularly desirable at the present time. The railroad corporations seem determined to gorge themselves with funds, to the limit of and even the strain of credit, for extensions, improvements and betterments, and the financial interests probably realize that little is to be gained by adding to the burden of corporate borrowing and mercantile borrowing, that which is incident to an active speculative movement for the advance. Barring accident, the speculator will unquestionably have another inning, for all the enormous amount of money borrowed by railroads will come later in the form of new stocks or new bonds, for which a market must be created.

There appears very little ground to doubt the accuracy of the conclusion that the present attitude of the public toward the security market arises from lack of confidence as to the wisdom and justification for the heavy capital creations of the recent past and near future. The merchant and the manufacturer have not yet grown accustomed to billion dollar and five hundred million dollar corporations and of capital creations at one lick of from $25,000,000 to $400,000,000. The man who struggles and slaves for half a lifetime in mercantile pursuits to obtain a competence will naturally hesitate in investing his hard-earned money in the securities of corporations which show reckless and spendthrift management. He is not going to jeopardize the accumulations of years without investigating the merits of the property and the merits of the expenditures it is making, and no one can blame him at the present time for a natural distrust of some of the lavish expenditures of old-time, conservative companies. There is a vast element in the community who have enlarged their own business enterprises or extended their many manufacturing plants from accumulated surplus. Without fully understanding the necessities of corporations' demands, they not unnaturally associate individual borrowing with future bankruptcy. Such persons would like to see, as in the old days, some railroad betterments made from surplus earnings, or a sufficient sum marked off annually for depreciation of plant, to meet the cost of ordinary renewals of way and equipment. In other words, they would like to see ordinary business prudence in management.

Youngstown Has Gas Famine.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—A break in the lines of the Mahoning Gas Fuel Company at the Ohio river last night, followed by another today, caused the city to be without natural gas. Gas was turned into the mains from the Sharon-West Middlesex line, but it did not materially help.

FIRMNESS DISPLAYED IN FOREIGN MARKETS

President Roosevelt's Message on International Coinage Has Bracing Effect.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Business on the stock exchange last week was confined to professional dealings, the public continuing to show a lack of confidence. Americans were listless, though continuing to display firmness. A spurt in Canadians reflected the monotonous Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific advancing sharply.

The proposed conference of the United States, Mexico and China regarding the silver question had a good effect on the price of that metal, and also on the market for Mexican railways. Some confidence was shown on a returning confidence in South African mines, as a promise is held out of a solution of the labor difficulties in South Africa.

There was a lively demand for money as a consequence of the collection of taxes, and the borrowings at the bank amounted to about $30,000,000.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The upward movement on the stock exchange gained in strength and volume during the past week, almost all the departments scoring rises. The private public has evidently begun buying again. In some departments the principal causes for the rising tendency are the abundance of money, the large government loan operations to be carried through in the near future and in a lesser degree the improved tone of the iron market, which last week made further progress.

The announcement of the transformation of the Krupp works into a joint stock company scarcely affected the market, since all the shares will remain in the possession of Bertha Krupp. The shares will not be listed on the bourse, and it is even expected that the transformation will be carried through without the intermediation of any banks. Nevertheless Presidential Roosevelt's message upon the bank's personal relations with the Krupp firm.

Mexican silver threes were heavily bought on the Frankfort stock exchange because of President Roosevelt's message regarding the proposed silver conference. Foreign railways were mostly higher, especially Austrians and Canadian Pacific.

Coal and iron shares were moderately higher, and most of the other industrials were strong, especially electricals.

DIES OF YELLOW FEVER.

Ship's Steward Falls Victim En Route to New York and Two Sailors Are Ill.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—There was one death from yellow fever on board the Booth line steamer Bernard, which arrived this afternoon from Mannos Barbados. Charles W. Caine, the ship's steward, was taken ill on January 21, after leaving Para and died on the 26th. The patient showed marked symptoms of yellow fever. Caine was buried at sea the same day. He was a native of Liverpool and 54 years of age.

When the Bernard reached quarantine Capt. Cox stated that two other members of the crew have been ill since January 25, but are on a fair way to recovery.

Both were removed to Swinburn Island hospital for treatment. The steamer will be thoroughly disinfected.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MARKET PRICES

Hay and Grain Position Maintained--Eggs Much Weaker. Apples Lower.

The high prices which commenced to rule in the hay and grain market nearly two weeks ago have prevailed during the past week, and have even gone a little higher in some departments. Straw, which has been scarce and firm for a long time, is higher, and shelled corn is quoted at figures above those of the early part of the week. The volume of business has been less than before the reign of extreme quotations, but receipts have been restricted, and prices have been mostly maintained. Railroad embargoes continue, but shipments which were started before the order to reduce consignments went into effect have been coming forward, and have been sufficient so far to supply the curtailed demand. Jobbers are purchasing no more than is absolutely necessary for daily wants. Quotations here have not reached the height to which they went in cities farther east, however, and business while not so large as it might have been under normal conditions, has amounted to a very good aggregate.

Wheat was not so strong at the close of the week as at the opening, but local jobbers in flour did not follow the full advance of the market and have not had occasion to lower quotations, which remain firm as given last Monday.

Sugar and coffee have pursued an even way, selling steadily at quotations, with no special features in either line. Demand for roasted coffee is large, and prices are firm. Navy beans are steady at quotations, although there is an inclination on the part of some houses with large stocks to regard the situation as easier.

Canned goods are selling freely, but there are no new features in the market, demand being steady but without excitement, and prices are the same as have been ruling for some weeks. Dried fruits are unchanged, except for a slightly stronger feeling in prunes, which has occasioned advances for large sizes.

Potatoes are selling well, and store quotations are unchanged, although lower track prices prevail. Sweet potatoes, now arriving from Southern produce, consigned principally from New Orleans, has been arriving freely, and quotations have been tending downward, with reductions occurring in a few lines. Rhubarb is a new arrival in the market. It started in at $1.25 per dozen, but has gradually declined to a range of 50@60 cents on account of increased receipts. Cabbage is selling at lower quotations.

Another decline occurred in the apple market, quotations going off at least 25 cents a barrel, owing partly to the large stocks held, which sellers desire to see moving more rapidly, and partly to the presence in the market of some inferior fruit, which has reduced the average. Large stocks are held, however, which are more difficult to carry as the season advances, and holders are anxious to have them move out more quickly.

California lemons are higher and Malaga grapes are lower. Otherwise the list of tropical fruit quotations remains as it was at the beginning of the week.

Butter declined 2 cents a pound last Monday, and the market has been weak ever since, buyers fearing to purchase on a declining market. Cheese holds its own firmly, and the situation is so well in hand now as to preclude the possibility of any sudden change, unless there should be other advances. Eggs are weak. Receipts from the southwest are plentiful, and home chickens are having more freely increasing the supplies of fresh materially. Prices have gone off considerably, and the market is no more than steady at the decline. The poultry situation continues firm with demand good. Prices are from about the same as at the beginning of the week, while receipts have been limited. There are some turkeys offering, but demand is light. Provision dealers advanced the prices of hams and breakfast bacon a half cent on Saturday, to become effective today.

RAISING FUND TO HONOR JEFFERSON

Association Headed by Admiral Dewey Issues Appeal for Contributions.

WORK LONG NEGLECTED

Many Have Sent Their Names With the Object of Perpetuating Memory of the Writer of Declaration of Independence.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—The Thomas Jefferson Memorial association, organized for the purpose of erecting at the national capital an appropriate and truly national memorial to the "Author of the Declaration of Independence," through its president, Admiral George Dewey, has issued an appeal to the American people for funds to carry out the object of the association. The text of the appeal is as follows:

To the American People:

The Thomas Jefferson Memorial association has been organized to take up the long neglected duty of erecting a fitting memorial to the memory of the man who wrote the Declaration of Independence.

We have here beautiful and costly tributes to the memory of American soldiers, sailors, statesmen, physicians, inventors and philanthropists, and the soldiers and sailors of France are honored; but there is not one dollar to the memory of that great American, Thomas Jefferson.

We ask the people to contribute, according to their ability, to this memorial. Congress will not be asked for money, as we rely solely upon the people, the young and the old, the children and their parents for the success of the movement.

The character and cost of the proposed memorial cannot now be stated, but it will be appropriate to the greatness of the man and the importance of the document with which his name is inseparable.

Rigid economy will be observed in the expenses of carrying on the work. Every contributor will receive a certificate acknowledging his subscription and carrying with it membership in the association. In time to come these certificates will be "badges of honor."

Contributions, checks, money orders or drafts should be made payable to the order of the treasurer of the association, Mr. Jesse B. Wilson, president of the Lincoln National bank, Washington.

The people will be kept informed of all important actions of the association. Communications addressed to the secretary, W. S. McKean, will receive prompt and respectful attention. GEORGE DEWEY, President.

The association is now complete in its list of officers, every state being represented by a vice president, and in some cases by a representative on the board of governors, the controlling body. No great movement of a similar character in this country, it is claimed, had as its officers more men of national character and influence than this organization. Prominent men from all sections of the country have become interested in the movement, and have written to the officers of the association expressions of approval. The association, it is stated, is thoroughly non-partisan, the design being merely to raise a memorial to Mr. Jefferson as writer of the Declaration of Independence.

The list of vice presidents of the association is as follows: Alabama—Hon. Hilary A. Herbert, ex-secretary of navy. Arkansas—Hon. Jefferson Davis, governor. California—Hon. George C. Perkins, United States senator. Colorado—Hon. Thomas MacDonald Patterson, United States senator. Connecticut—Hon. Lynde Harrison. Delaware—John S. Russell, trust official Equitable Trust company. Florida—Joseph Jefferson, the actor. Georgia—Clark Howell, editor Atlanta Constitution. Idaho—Hon. Fred T. Dubois, United States senator. Illinois—Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson. Indiana—Hon. Charles W. Push Policeman Through a Window.

C. C. Quigley was fined $10 and costs yesterday for being disorderly in a Union street saloon. He broke away from an officer while under arrest at Fifth avenue and Market street, but was caught at Wood street by Officer Morgan Conley. In a struggle there he pushed Conley against a show window and broke it.

Coal for Indianapolis.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1.—Stone, Brown & Co., of this city, announce that a double-header, with 17 gondolas, carrying more than 1,000 tons of coal, left Connel City, Ky., last night over the Southern for Louisville, and thence over the Big Four for Indianapolis, to break the coal famine.

Bank Robbers Secure $1500.

DEXTER, KAS., Feb. 1.—Three crackmen wrecked the safe of the State Bank of Dexter early today and secured $1,500, escaping in a handcar without arousing the citizens. Officers followed the trail for several miles without success.

CAR MOVEMENT NEARLY 15,000

Railroads Attack Vigorously Freight Accumulations of a Week.

WEATHER FAVORABLE

Sunday Utilized to Fullest Possible Extent to Clean Out the Yards of All the Lines in This District—Good Results.

Pittsburgh railroads moved about 15,000 freight cars yesterday. The thermometer aided them in their efforts to overcome the congestion, and Sunday, as a day when no additional cars are loaded, was utilized to great advantage to remove the accumulations of the week.

This was the first Sunday for several weeks when everything aided as well in this movement. The comparatively warm weather prevented the men from suffering, and the absence of snow allowed the yards to work well, while the motive power was enabled to do its full part.

Each of the lines put forth a special effort. Long trains of freight cars, empty or loaded, followed each other in rapid succession. Every engine that could be pressed into service was in use, and all the employes in the train service made at least one day, while large numbers made two days before stopping work.

Thousands of Cars Moved.

The results were apparent all around. Through the Conway yards of the Ft. Wayne there were moved about 3,000 cars, divided equally between westbound and eastbound. Over the Panhandle between Sheraden and the city about 2,000 cars were handled. Through the Union station yards there were about 4,000 cars from the Pittsburgh, Allegheny Valley and Monongahela divisions of the Pennsylvania railroad. On the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie the movement yesterday was about 6,000 cars, a total for Saturday and Sunday of 10,000. The Lake Erie can handle 12,000 easily on a Sunday, but General Superintendent J. B. Yohe said yesterday that there was no need to handle more than 10,000. The Lake Erie is comparatively free of accumulated freight.

The Lake Shore, the principal connection of the Lake Erie, has raised its embargo and is making a great attempt to keep it raised. Vice President W. C. Brown and General Superintendent W. H. Marshall both spent yesterday at Ashtabula seeing personally to the rushing of the freight from that point. Indications yesterday evening were that a new record would be made. It was thought that at least 40 trains, or about 2,500 cars, would be sent out of Ashtabula.

Embargo Still Maintained.

The Erie railroad, the other connection of the Lake Erie, still maintains its embargo upon all freight but live stock and perishable on the main line east and west, but is handling business through the valleys to Cleveland.

The Lake Erie has been short of empties on account of the embargoes of its connections, but Mr. Yohe said last evening that the supply this week will be good.

On the Baltimore & Ohio the movement was correspondingly good. It was estimated that 5,000 cars were handled over the Pittsburgh division. Coal and coke from the Connellsville region were started in great quantities, and a large number of empties placed for loading this morning.

Both on the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania there is prospect for aid from new engines which are to be received shortly from the shops. In this month and next not less than 80 new freight locomotives are to be brought into use on the two systems, and the greater proportion of these will come to the Pittsburgh districts. The Pennsylvania alone has between 50 and 60 passenger and freight locomotives scheduled for delivery at that time.

Unlike most strong medicines, it isn't a poison. It is an expeller of parasites and disease germs, and a good nourisher for muscles, nerves and brain—Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge.

Richly Beautiful Mahogany Sideboard.

Does this illustration enable you to catch anything of the richness of the best mahogany?

Hardly.

And yet you cannot but obtain a favorable impression of the Mahogany Sideboard which is here delineated. It is one of the latest effects—and decidedly one of the most notable. The simplicity of the design is reinforced by a solid majesty that is irresistible.

72 inches long, 27 deep and 70 inches high.

The glass knobs not only afford a pleasing contrast to the rich dark ground of the mahogany, but they carry one back to the days of our great grandfathers, when glass knobs were one of the material evidences of prosperity.

What makes this store attractive to the great mass of buyers of furniture is the fact that a person can get here any desirable article; the stock is always the largest, and first, last and all the time, values are invariably greatest at Ladies' Fine Footwear at a Magnetic Price.

Ladies' Fine Shoes in all the latest styles, including the best French kid, fine box calf, the aristocratic patent leathers and the favorite patent vici kids. All these shoes are hand stitched and made from the softest, toughest, most pliable, best finished leather by workmen of the highest skill. They come in medium and full toes, with military, French and common-sense heels. The soles are solid oak tanned leather, with the projections that are known as "extension soles," for street wear, and the less conspicuous and daintier hand-turned light soles for dress occasions. None of these are antiquated odds and ends, but the sizes, widths and the styles most called for by women who make selections from our $3.50 and $2 lines. We let them go at a revolutionary price,

THE BONFIRE

Inventory is over. Everything under our roof has been dusted, counted and inspected and passed upon. The sheep are separated from the goats. Whatever was weighed and found wanting is now ticketed to go—to go without delay.

To part with merchandise that cost us a lot of money for such little figures as we attach to the articles below is essentially burning up goods.

We admit their faults—confess their imperfections—tell the truth boldly. People who have the knack of cleaning things up can make many of them look like perfect goods.

Others will want them because, with all their drawbacks, they are worth more than double what we ask.

Children's Elderdown Coats—Some mice rubbering around back of the fixtures found their way into the drawer where these coats were carefully put away, and decided to start housekeeping. So they built a nest, and in doing so damaged the garments more or less. Likely as not you can fix them up all right. If so, you get $2.75 coats for 50c. They are red, blue, pink and white. Some ribbon trimmed and some edged with angora fur. Sizes to fit children from one to five years old.

Children's Silk Bonnets—Although not in perfect condition, these bonnets are no more soiled than they would be after a week of regular wear. Nevertheless, we cut the prices from $1.50 to 25c. The colors are brown, blue, green, pink and red. Some are trimmed with velvet and some are edged with fur.

Ladies' Dressing Sacques—A wonderful amount of comfort in one of these warm, easy garments to wear in your room in the evening, or to throw around your shoulders when you are dressing in the morning. We have some soiled ones which were $2.25 originally. You will be glad to get them for 50c and clean them, which is an easy thing to do. They are made of plain and ripple eiderdown, in pink, blue and red, and are satin trimmed.

Boys' Undergarments—These are gray merino Shirts and Drawers. "Merino" you know means cotton and wool mixed, but there is more cotton than wool in these garments. Because they are soiled we cut the price from 38c way down to 12c.

Flannel Shirt Waists—Just as they are you can wear these All-Wool Shirt Waists for business—but for church wear or social purposes they need cleaning. All of them are odds and ends of the $1.69 line. Yours for 75c.

Boys' Drawers—These are warm Camel's Hair Garments sold up to 65c. Not so many of them but that a 25c price will dispose of all of them in a day.

Boys' Waists—These Waists are made of cheviots and percales, in the dark colors that do not show dust stains. Dust defaces them a little already, so we cut the price from 25c to 15c.

Boys' Black Waists—These Waists and Blouses in black sateen have lost their freshness—otherwise they are all right with as much wear in them as ever. Regular 50c garments though they be we make the price 25c.

Ice Wool Fascinators—Some are black and some were white. Both kinds were 29c. Both kinds are 5c.

Children's Play Bonnets—Only a little lot in dark colored bengalines and elderdowns. Clean, we would sell them for 50c. Because they are soiled they drop to 10c.

Children's Hosiery—These are woolen stockings, some plain and some ribbed. Odds and ends of 25c goods. Clean enough to wear but lacking in freshness. We close them out at 10c a pair.

Children's Toques—Warm woolen headwear for wintry days. Most of them are red with white or navy borders. From 25c they drop to 15c.

Infants' Bootees—Just a little lot of them in white with pink or blue trimmings. Just about as much soiled as they would be after one day's wear. Yours for 5c.

Women's Gloves—These are warm All-Wool Jersey Cassimere Gloves, chiefly in the large sizes. They were 39c a pair. Now they are 15c.

Women's Stockings—These are fine guage cotton hose, in red with white fleur-de-lis figures. All full regular made. They were woven to retail for 25c. We will close them out for 12½c.

While this advertisement dwells in detail on goods we are closing out, don't forget we are opening every day New Suits, New Jackets, New Skirts, New Dress Goods, New Carpets—in short new Spring Goods all over the store.

(No. 617.)

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the payment of interest on deferred instalments due on the contract between L. A. Thompson and the city of Allegheny for the erection of the buildings for the male and female insane at Claremont.

Whereas, In pursuance of an ordinance duly enacted by the city councils of the city of Allegheny, L. A. Thompson entered into an agreement on April 3, 1901, with the said city for the erection and construction of the buildings for the male and female insane at Claremont, the payment for which buildings was provided for in instalments in said contract from the proceeds of the sale of bonds issued by the city for that purpose; and

Whereas, The said L. A. Thompson at the request of the city of Allegheny began the work under said contract on or about April 15, 1901, and various instalments of money became due to him under said contract on or before December 28, 1901. That by reason of the failure of the city of Allegheny to realize its money from the sale of said bonds until the 28th day of December, 1901, the said L. A. Thompson was compelled to await payment of said instalments due on said contract until after said money was paid to the city of Allegheny on said bonds, to wit, January 6, 1902; and

Whereas, The said L. A. Thompson signed the instalments due to him under said contract from the city between the 15th day of April, 1901, and the 28th day of December, 1901, to the Dollar Savings Fund & Trust Company, and the Workingman's Savings Bank & Trust Company of the city of Allegheny, on which estimates he was compelled to pay to the Dollar Savings Fund & Trust Company, and the Workingman's Savings Bank & Trust Company, interest in the amount of $576.20, therefore,

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the select and common councils of the city of Allegheny, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the city recorder is authorized and directed to draw a warrant on the city treasurer in favor of the said L. A. Thompson in the sum of $576.20, to be countersigned by the city controller, the same to be payment in full of all interest paid by the said L. A. Thompson on instalments of money due to him under his contract with the city of Allegheny for the erection and construction of the buildings for the male and female insane at Claremont, Pa., becoming due between the time of beginning said work and December 28th, 1901, when the money was realized by the city of Allegheny on the sale of bonds for the purpose of erecting said buildings. Said sum to be payable out of appropriation No. 41, contingent fund.

Sec. 2. That so much of any ordinance as may conflict with or be supplied by the foregoing, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Ordained and enacted into a law in councils this 26th day of January, A. D. 1903.
